111 aboard jet die in crash

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — An Alaska Airlines 727 jetliner flying through rain and fog slammed into a mountainside 17 miles northwest of here Saturday killing all 111 persons aboard.

It was the worst plane crash in Alaska's history.

The Boeing plane had been placed in a holding pattern for a scheduled landing at Juneau Airport when the crash occurred shortly after noon. Officials said the crash site was about eight minutes from the runway approach.

The Alaska Highway Patrol said troopers at the scene reported no survivors. William Moore, the Alaska chief of the National Transportation Safety Board, said the craft was "fairly well broken up" but it did not burn.

Airline officials first reported that there were 100 passengers and a crew of seven aboard. But they later revised the list to include 104 passengers.

The crash site was near Teardrop Lake at the southern end of the rugged Chilkoot Mountain Range next to the Glacier National Monument. A helicopter pilot first spotted the wreckage, and a trooper aboard said the plane slammed into a "sheer mountain."

Charles Willis, president of the airlines who was waiting to board the craft here, went to the crash site with the search party.

Board officials said the point of impact was at an altitude of 2,400 feet.

State troopers secured the crash site as darkness fell in the mountain region.

The 727 crashed before it was to make a scheduled stop at Juneau Airport. The weather was poor, with heavy drizzle.

The flight originated at Anchorage, Alaska, about 550 miles northwest of here. It stopped at Cordova and Yakutat before heading to this Alaskan capital.

Rockin' along

SLAUGHTERHOUSE GULCH near Bellevue resounded to the sound of rock music Saturday, as the Woog River Rock Festival finally started. The narrow gulch held a crowd far smaller than anticipated, but the atmosphere at the festival site and in Bellevue appeared to be generally free of tension. (More stories, photos on Pages 18-19.)

Mountain bills due for action

By O.A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

TWIN FALLS — Proposals now before Congress involving the Sawtooth and White Clouds area will be passed before the end of the year. This is the opinion of Cong. James McClure, R-Idaho, who, with other members of Idaho's delegation in Washington, has been working on the proposals.

Cong. McClure, visiting in the Twin Falls area, told the Times-News there would be no major changes in the legislation before it passed. He did say however, that he anticipated need of additional legislation and that a proposed national park and the national recreation area should be treated separately in such proposals.

"We do have dates now for committee action and I think the people should know we are going ahead without many changes and certainly with no major changes. This legislation can be passed by the House this fall and will be immediately sent to the Senate. I would expect that body to act very quickly and expect passage by the end of this year," he said.

Cong. McClure said the proposed legislation "was hammered out by all of us in Washington trying to arrive at a common position that we could all support. It was important to underscore that if we couldn't get in agreement back there then this legislation would have been written by people outside of Idaho with a decision that most Idahoans would not like."

He said "certainly all people" are not happy with the present proposed legislation expected to become law by the end of the year but that "I think it is very important we do something with legislation that will provide a fair and equitable means that will deal with the problem of the changing conditions on the valley floor."

"I say fair because it is private property and the private property owners are entitled to make a profit out of their land and to do with it as they please. If you are going to restrict what they do in the public interest, they are entitled to compensation and that is what we are trying to do in this bill.

McClure, Hansen to settle plans

By O.A. (Gus) Kelker
Times-News Editor

TWIN FALLS — Congressmen James McClure and Orval Hansen will meet in Washington D.C., on Sept. 13 to decide which of them will run for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Len Jordan, who retires next year.

In an exclusive interview in Twin Falls — where Congressman McClure conferred with Republican party leaders during an unpublicized visit — the First District representative said "I'm here looking at the prospects of running for the United States Senate."

To a direct question, "Have you discussed this with Cong. Hansen?" he said:

"I talked to Orval in Washington some time ago, obviously, but both Orval and I were certain that Senator Jordan was going to run so it was kind of an 'iffy' proposition. Orval will have to make his own public announcement of his position because I do not want to speak for him. He will be a formidable candidate if he decides to run."

Then he said he and Cong. Hansen would meet in Washington, in Hansen's office, on Monday, Sept. 13.

Asked if the two would discuss the possibilities of both candidacies at that time he said: "Yes, we will, along with the other possible candidates. There is no possibility that Orval and I will both run. We are practical people and in view of our responsibilities to the party we are just not going to both get into the race."

"So you think that there is a possibility that one or the other of you will run?" he was asked.

Solon 'surprised'

TWIN FALLS — Cong. James McClure said Friday the announced retirement of Republican Sen. Len Jordan came "as a complete surprise to me."

"In my contacts with him I was certain he was going to run and the announcement caught me entirely off guard," Cong. McClure said.

He added that Senator Jordan's plans "just had to be one of the best kept secrets in political history."

The Congressman praised Senator Jordan in handling his retirement in the manner he did. He expressed the opinion the Senator "who has earned great respect by so many people" will be sought for advice and would offer it "because he has far too much interest in his country and its welfare to just walk away."

He expressed the opinion a Republican would be elected to fill Senator Jordan's post. The team effort to re-elect President Nixon, he said, will be of benefit.

Money crisis still unsolved

Economic experts of the 10 richest nations of the non-Communist world concluded talks on the international monetary situation Saturday in Paris still unable to solve the complex crisis. But conference sources were optimistic that a start had been made.

In Japan, the U.S. dollar slipped again and ended the week worth 338.20 yen — a decrease of 6.05 per cent from the old rate of 360.

The Paris conference ended with sources believing the long-haul task of stabilizing the monetary situation is only beginning.

"We're in a mutually difficult situation," said Paul Volcker, undersecretary of the U.S. Treasury. "It's going to take some time to work out and this process has begun, and I think begun in a useful way."

Sources said the 1½-day meeting was aimed at clarifying respective national positions in preparation for a full-dress meeting of finance ministers in London Sept. 15-16.

Volcker restated the U.S. stand that the new 10 per cent surcharge on imports would not be lifted before the United States has a balance of payments surplus, conference sources said.

"Our current account positions and our trade position had just reached the stage where it was not adequate to support the kind of responsibilities the United States has in the world, for defense and investment, and for aid," he said.

The conference sources said the French appeared more flexible at the meeting in their approach to the price of gold.

Health aid bill pushed

DETROIT (UPI) — Passage of the proposed national health security bill is needed to give working people "the same unalienable right to life as the affluent and the opulent," according to United Auto Workers (UAW) President Leonard Woodcock.

In his annual Labor Day message, Woodcock urged Congress to pass the measure, which would boost income and payroll taxes to finance a program providing free care — without cutoff points.

Airport due landing aid

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City-County Airport has been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration for installation of an instrument landing system and approach lighting system early in 1972, it was announced Saturday by Jean Milar, city manager.

The improvements, according to a communication received, are eligible under the Airport Development Aid Program for federal participation at more than 55 per cent in the site preparation for clear zone purposes and 82 per cent for land to accomplish the medium approach lighting system.

James M. Cox, chief, airports engineering branch, wrote Milar that representatives of the airports and airway facilities divisions would visit the field in the near future to review detailed requirements.

O.A. (Gus) Kelker, chairman of the airport board, said members of his committee would discuss the government's offer at the regular meeting next Tuesday.

"This would mean," Kelker said, "that the Twin Falls City-County Airport would have the same capability in instrument landings as are now found at Boise and at Salt Lake City. We have very few schedule cancellations at the local field because of fog but this system would end up with these cancellations being practically non-existent. At the same time the safety factor for all planes would be greatly improved."

Labor demands controls role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says the price of labor support for government wage controls is a voice in planning and administering them, plus "equality of sacrifice" controls on prices, profits, interest rates, dividends and other forms of income.

Meany said organized labor will cooperate if, for instance, President Nixon sets up a tripartitie board representing labor, management and the public — similar to the War Labor Board of World War II on which Meany served — to pass on wage increases after the current 90-day wage-price-rent freeze expires.

"I would say that would be a fair and equitable plan, and we would buy it," he said.

But the 77-year-old labor chieftain said the administration would have to let the board operate without government interference, as in World War II. Also, labor and management participation would have to be voluntary because government compulsion would put the nation on "the road to fascism," he said.

It was the first time Meany has specified what type of post-freeze stabilization measures he would approve. He and other labor leaders have attacked Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze as unfair to workers because it does not extend to corporate profits and interest rates.

The administration announced Friday that Nixon had ruled out an excess profits tax on business either during or after the freeze.

Meany held a wide-ranging, two-hour luncheon interview several days ago in a Washington hotel with eight labor reporters. His statements were embargoed until Saturday night.

Rights panel becomes inactive

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls County Human Rights Advisory Committee voted unanimously Thursday to place the committee on inactive status because of lack of cooperation and interest from state and county agencies.

Robert Stradley, Kimberly, committee chairman, said the committee finds it is unable to function when state agencies feel they are above the scope of the human rights regulations.

He said he is referring specifically to a case brought before the county committee about four months ago. A Kimberly citizen filed a discrimination complaint against the Idaho Agriculture Department, Stradley said. In complying with regulations under which the committee functions, the county group notified the Idaho Agriculture Department of the complaint, requesting an answer within 10 days in writing as provided by provisions of the law establishing the Human Rights Commission and committees.

Stradley said the department declined to give any answer in writing and by telephone notified the local committee the matter was of no concern to it.

Stradley said about the same attitude was taken by the office of the attorney general when a request for an opinion was made.

The motion adopted unanimously by the committee Thursday night said the inactive status would continue until the county and state agencies — the county commissioners, Idaho Human Rights Commission, Department of Agriculture and attorney general's office — give the local committee the interest, support and power needed to act as was originally intended by the Idaho Legislature.

Stradley said the committee is to be composed of nine members but because of failure by the county commissioners to appoint members following resignations there are now only five serving.

He said the state Human Rights Commission has attempted to take over the duties of county committees in the Boise and Caldwell areas and is therefore of little assistance to the county units.

The Twin Falls Human Rights Advisory Committee was appointed in late 1969 and began serving Dec. 4, 1969.

The purpose is to hear complaints of discrimination against residents of the county through race, religion, sex or color. Stradley said a number of complaints have been successfully adjudicated through meeting with the parties involved and working out a solution. Thus, most of the cases handled by the Twin Falls county unit have not reached hearing stages of transfer to the state commission.

In all county cases, he said, the person or firm against which a complaint has been made, has complied with a written answer to the charge. He said he feels the Idaho agencies should be willing to follow the same procedure as it is established by state law.

Rudolf Barchas, attorney, and member of the county committee, said the attorney general's office is in a bad position in that it must represent the state agencies as well as indirectly the county committee. He said he called the attorney general's office and was advised the case involving the Kimberly citizen was a discrimination of economic matters rather than race, color, sex or religion and thus not within the provisions of the human rights law.

He said the attorney general's office, however, did not furnish a written opinion which the county committee could use to satisfy the complaining Kimberly citizen in the matter.

Stradley said the committee will remain inactive until such time as a complaint requires action by the committee or some other worthwhile need of the services are shown.

Members of the committee have continued to meet each month although their hands have been tied on cases such as the one against the state agency, he said.

No further meetings are planned at this time, he said.

GOP aide raps gem appointment

TWIN FALLS — Doug Kramer, chairman of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee, Saturday challenged Gov. Cecil Andrus on a statement carried in recent news reports to the effect that State Park Board has not been allowed to become political.

Kramer said the governor's selection of Merle Allison, Filer, to succeed Harold Brown, Filer, as a member of the State Parks Board, was termed by an aide of the governor as "retaining a Republican appointment."

"Harold Brown is a well-known Idaho Republican, and Merle Allison is a well known Idaho Democrat and has served as precinct committeeman in the Democratic party for many years, currently serving as committeeman in Precint 3," Kramer said.

"In 1965," Kramer continued, "a Republican Legislature with a Republican governor enacted Idaho Code 67-4221 which specifically provides there be created a six man park board of "not more than three members from any one political party."

Kramer said it appears the governor intends to ignore the laws of the state of Idaho with reference to appointments and make the agencies and boards in Idaho political to every extent possible.

"Merle Allison is a fine gentleman and well respected in Twin Falls County, but as governor of all the people, Gov. Andrus should know these facts alone do not make him a Republican," Kramer said.

Lindsay looks like candidate

NEW YORK (UPI) —Mayor John V. Lindsay probably will start looking like a presidential candidate not long after Labor Day —whether he really intends to run or not.

The handsome 49-year-old mayor has not yet made up his mind whether to seek the Democratic presidential nomination. But he promised when he changed his registration from Republican to Democrat a month ago that he would play a major role in the campaign to replace President Nixon in 1972.

When, as expected, he starts after Labor Day to accept some of the speaking invitations pouring into City Hall from all over the country, he will be considered in the race to replace Nixon whether he formally enters any primaries or not.

Lindsay still is very much of a long shot but there are Lindsay-for-president organizations of varying activity and political sophistication in 15 states. His office has received "thousands" of friendly phone calls and letters since his switch in registration.

In addition, mayoral aides have been calling key Democrats around the country, getting their assessment of the switch and, in most cases, telling them Lindsay is trying to keep his options open.

The aides swear the mayor hasn't made up his mind, and that they are giving him the pros and cons of the argument when he asks for their advice, which is often.

The pros are that Lindsay has charisma, that he has an instant appeal to women, that he appeals to blacks and the young and the liberal-intellectual. There are a lot of votes there.

The cons are that he hasn't much money, that as a newcomer he still is on the outside looking in as far as Democratic party councils are concerned, that he has yet to project himself nationally as a serious contender, that the hinterland may resent him as a city slicker and that his record as mayor hasn't been such a whiz that he can be sure to make it an asset.

But on the pro side again, his activities as chairman of Mayors has got him around the country and has made him a spokesman for the cities. His fellow mayors, with the possible exception of Chicago's Richard Daley, think highly of him and have taken occasion several times to say so in public.

He has something going for him as the leader of the drive to get more recognition for the cities and their problems in state capitals and in Washington. In that respect, the national coalition of progressives of which he spoke when he announced his switch already exists, and he's the leader of it.

FB head view not complete

FILER — Clyde Van Ausdeln, president of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, said Saturday his opinions were not expressed completely in a discussion of the effects of the federal wage-price freeze on agriculture in Magic Valley.

VanAusdeln said he has heard "no complaints" about the federal clampdown, adding that the few comments he had heard have been favorable.

President Nixon could have done American farmers a service by freezing the price of equipment and supplies at parity, whereas the ratio is presently averaging about 60 to 70 per cent of parity, Van Ausdeln commented.

Reports of "the prices farmers are getting" tend to confuse people, who think the growers are responsible for inflation and high prices, whereas with the present price-cost relationship, even if farmers did receive higher prices for their crops, they would still be paying more for equipment than they receive for their produce, the farmers' spokesman explained.

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners will open bids at 11 a.m. Tuesday on construction of a 1,800 square foot building for the Twin Falls County Weed Department.

The building is to be located at 450 Sixth Avenue West on property owned by the county. It will adjoin the present weed bureau warehouse.

It will provide office and storage space for the department and an area for housing of the county's 92 voting machines. William L. (Bill) Chancey said the building, when complete, will provide office facilities for Weed Director Wallace Savage and his staff.

It will allow that department to vacate space now used for office facilities in the old county hospital building. Chancey said the Idaho State Police, one of the county renters, wants additional space adjacent to the present office and would be able to utilize the present weed bureau facilities.

One of the primary purposes for erecting the building, Chancey said, is to provide central housing for voting machines and cut down insurance costs on the equipment. They are now housed in several locations around the county including hallways of the main courthouse. About 1,200 square feet of space will be devoted to the voting machines.

Governor to open building

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus will formally dedicate expanded headquarters for the four military recruiting services of the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force on Sept. 9, according to Air Force recruiter Sgt. William Donnelly.

The structure, owned by Rex Ulrich and Associates, has been remodeled to accommodate enlarged quarters for the recruiters, who have had to work in one small room for each service. With the enlarged facilities, the recruiters will be allowed two or more rooms apiece.

The dedication will also mark formal opening of the Marine Corps recruiter's office.

The ceremony is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. on Sept 9 at the offices on Second Street East.

Equipment firm plans opening

TWIN FALLS — An open house is planned for Sept, 18 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in one of Twin Falls' newest business firms, the Industrial Equipment and Repair, Inc., 1798 Floral Ave.

Delmer Davies, one of the firm's owners, said the business opened early this year but now has reached full operation with two equipment dealerships and a full line of rentals and repair service for heavy equipment items.

Davies said the company will deal in material handling equipment and light industrial or construction equipment.

Other owners are Don Labrum, company president and Thomas Clawson, vice president. Davies is parts and office manager.

The firm has obtained the Wacker Compaction Equipment dealership for drills, breakers and the heavy Toyota fork-lift equipment. In the near future they will have a small jet personnel carrier and will be the agent for International Harvester Industrial line equipment including crawlers, backhoes and small loaders.

In addition to the Magic Valley area, the firm serves customers in Pocatello, Idaho Falls and other southern Idaho areas. The three owners, Davies said, have a combined 50 years or more experience in mechanics and equipment sales and operation.

Vocation classes hit peak

TWIN FALLS— Vocational classes at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls have started with record enrollment and figures are still being tabulated.

Director of vocational education for CSI, Orval Bradley, said a class in nursing will begin Sept. 13.

Additional students will be accepted in drafting and electrical appliance repair classes until Sept. 10, he said.

The electrical appliance repair program, he said, deals with insallation and servicing of all major household appliances such as washers, dryers, ranges and refrigerators.

Drafting includes the basic drafting techniques with the areas of electrical, mechanical, architectural and civil drafting emphasized. Students interested should see Keith Farrell or Roger Abernathy at the vocational building, 1300 Kimberly Road, or call 733-9554, Extension 287.

Andrus appoints Watkins, Kearnes

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Friday appointed Dane Watkins to succeed Fisher Ellsworth as state representative and Mrs. Elaine Kearnes to succeed Aden Hyde as state senator from District 30.

Hyde and Ellsworth recently were recalled from office at a special election. Voters kicked them out because they voted to override the legislative pay initiative.

Watkins and Mrs. Kearnes were nominated by the Republican Legislative District Committee to fill the two vacancies. Under a law passed by the last legislature the governor must fill leigslative vacancies with persons of the same political faith as the former office holder.

Driver aid course set on Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — A defensive driving course will be offered in Twin Falls starting Tuesday evening and continuing for four sessions.

Leo Wright, instructor, said the first session will be from 7 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. in Room 120 at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School. Other sessions will be on Sept. 9, Sept. 14 and Sept. 16.

Wright said the course is for those wishing to improve their driving knowledge or for driver rehabilitation purposes. A fee will be charged, he said. Persons seeking additional information may call 733-1686.

Sullivan appointed Jerome bank head

JEROME — Joseph Bianco, president of the Bank of Idaho, announced Friday that Michael P. Sullivan has been elected assistant vice president and manager of the Jerome branch of the bank.

He joined Bank of Idaho in 1967 at Caldwell. Sullivan was elected assistant manager of the Jerome branch in July, 1970.

He holds various certificates from the American Institute of Banking and is a graduate of the College of Idaho Management Institute for small business, Bianco said.

He has had extensive experience in all areas of commercial banking. Sullivan is a member of Rotary and is vice president of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce.

Labor Day

This Labor Day is not a happy one. Labor leaders are busy mapping plans to fight President Nixon's wage-price freeze in the courts and in Congress. Organized labor, riding high after winning whopping wage increases, was caught in the freeze that denied many workers the raises that had been negotiated.

While many working men recognized the urgency of action to curb inflation, there were a great many uneasy about future prospects and eager to get higher pay regardless of the effect on prices or on their employer's profits or competitive position.

Their leaders, notably George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, continued his opposition to the President's new economic policy as inequitable and said the rift between the White House and organized labor is the most bitter in history.

The Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks said it would consider itself free to strike November 13 if its 190,000 railroad members do not get wage hikes before the freeze and if dividends and profits are not controlled. Meany wants profits and interest rates frozen.

Dividends and interest rates have remained static through voluntary compliance and profits are effectively frozen by the freeze on prices. Monetary controls can hold down interest rates. Any further government action to freeze profits, dividends, or interest rates could do more harm than good.

Holding the line on taxes and cutting government expenditures by considerably more than Nixon has recommended should be part of the anti-inflation effort, because these actions go to the root of inflation.

Unemployment continues to hurt the economy and the union's treasuries and the creation of new job opportunities takes time.

"Blue collar blues" affect many workers. Harold L. Sheppard, a social scientist who examined the attitudes of 270 union workers in Pennsylvania, said 30 percent were unhappy in their jobs, felt they had little voice in the political process, and had "little confidence in their fellow man."

Other investigators have noted a trend toward downgrading the importance of work itself, the indifference being manifested in growing absenteeism, especially on Mondays, pressures for a 4-day week and in college graduates shunning competitive challenges in favor of low-paying, undemanding jobs.

Andrus: Demos Will Win In Twin

By O.A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

POCATELLO — Governor Cecil Andrus believes 1972 will be the year of the Democrats in Twin Falls county and that at least one — and possibly more — Republican legislators will be defeated.

In an exclusive and far ranging interview while here for a meeting of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States, Governor Andrus also said the fact Senator Len Jordan is stepping down will open up the field, cause much more activity in both parties and will "certainly enhance the chances of a Democrat being elected to the United States Senate."

The question put to the Governor about chances for Democratic wins in Twin Falls county for legislative positions emphasized that it is expected all present office holders will seek office again. He was also asked if he "really saw a victory for a Democrat."

"Without naming districts or individuals," Governor Andrus said, "I would say there is a change in the voting pattern and there is more concern among the people of Twin Falls County. We look for some change there that will put Democrats back in the Legislature from that county. And I point out that Democrats have served from that county in the past and served very, very well."

The Governor, answering a question, said he is probably "the only Democrat in the state, to my knowledge, who has stood up and said he is not a candidate" for the U. S. Senate.

"I say right now I am not a candidate for the United States Senate seat that Senator Jordan is retiring from. The people of Idaho elected me as governor of the state of Idaho and I am working very hard to do my best to serve in that capacity. That's where I will remain."

Who will the governor support for Senator Jordan's seat?

He will maintain a hands off policy until candidate is named in the primary.

"I will not support a candidate prior to the primary election. As Governor of Idaho and a member of the Democratic party, you might say I'll wait in the wings until the people have made their decision and then I will give that candidate my full support."

The Governor also said he was satisfied with the results, the progress of his administration to date.

Governor Andrus

"There are a few things, I would of course, prefer we would have been successful in but the economy is on the upswing, projects are going well and state government, I think, is moving along in a positive vein. So I'm very well satisfied."

What MUST legislation would he give the next Legislature?

"There will be several pieces of must legislation but it is too early to pin them down to determine exactly what they are and besides, I hesitate to tip my hand this far in advance."

He said, however, two fields are in his mind.

"We will take serious looks at our highway construction money so that we can do the necessary highway construction and we are going to have to look very closely at state support for public education. We will do this so that we will not have these tax increases that have been experienced in many areas including Twin Falls I would say legislation of this type is a must."

He then entered into a discussion of the California property tax ruling that use of local property taxes to finance public schools is unconstitutional because it provides more money for rich children than poor. He was asked if the California action might, at some future time, have an effect on Idaho.

"If it remains as such (it will eventually end up in the United States Supreme Court) there is that possibility. This ruling is very recent, of course, and our education department and the office of the attorney general are looking into this right now. Although our laws in Idaho are somewhat different, it could very well have an impact."

Should such a rule become the law in Idaho, then what?

"Obviously it is not a consideration of mine or the Legislature or anyone else," he said. "If that were deemed the law of the land then we would have to look at the state level for the support coming from income tax, sales tax, corporate income tax, excise taxes and fees."

He added that this route "basically goes along with what" he has been "talking about for a long time."

"Although I didn't think of it as 100 per cent, I do believe we have to make more contributions from the state level in order to give property tax relief at the local level," Governor Andrus said.

The Governor has been quoted as believing the new, young voters will favor the Democratic party. Does he have any opinion, inasmuch as it is becoming a national controversy, as to whether these new, young voters should have to vote in their home districts or should be allowed to cast their vote in another district, say, where they are attending school?

"I'm not as concerned with the location of their vote as I am with the fact they are entitled to vote and should vote. I think the registration for the 18, 19 and 20-year-olds is a must.

"But litigation is determining the answer to this question and a judicial decision, not my decision or the decision of any other political figure, will determine this. The main thing, as I see it, is that they have the opportunity to vote as Idaho residents."

In America

To the Marxists, the most perplexing thing about America is that this almost classless society has been achieved without tyranny, without loss of human dignity and with only such infringement of liberty as the people themselves voluntarily yeilded.

There is an ancient Latin precept that Labor Conquers All. It is a popular motto of graduating classes and recognizes the fact that virtually everyone is a laborer whether he is an owner or an employe.

The fruits of labor are within our own sytem. The destruction of labor is in a dictatorship. The overwhelming body of labor is convinced of that.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

Was Agnew Used?

WASHINGTON — A banner headline in the Athens newspaper regarded as the house organ of the Greek military dictatorship proclaimed on Aug. 16 that, no matter what Congress does on U.S. aid to Greece, Vice President Spiro Agnew had promised that "aid to Greece will continue."

That startling pronouncement was based on a private letter from Agnew, known to be extremely friendly to Prime Minister George Papadopoulos's ruling junta, to a pro-junta Greek-American with a Park Avenue address in Manhattan.

The screaming headline in Nea Politia, the newspaper that reflects the junta's policy line as faithfully as Pravda reflects the Communist party line in Moscow, read this way: "Regardless of the opinion of the Senate, Agnew (says) aid to Greece will continue."

But in fact, the letter from Agnew's foreign policy adviser, Kent Crane, to Dr. Ncholas Destounis in Manhattan contained no pledge. Indeed, Agnew could not make such a pledge. The ban on aid to Greece passed the House by a vote of 122 to 57, but the Senate has not yet acted. Although the House ban contains a loophole permitting President Nixon to continue military aid, the Senate version might not.

The closest Agnew came to indicating a Nixon decision to continue aid in the face of a Congressional ban was this:

"As you yourself underline," Crane wrote Destounis, "Greece offers strategic advantages to the NATO alliance and to the U.S. which are of the greatest importance to the security of the West. We believe that the resumption of these shipments (a year ago) increased the ability of the Greek armed forces to carry out their responsibilities for the defense of the NATO area."

That Aug. 16 letter jumped into page one headlines of Nea Politea exactly eight days later. Moreover, it appears that Agnew's office had no advance indication that Destounis planned to offer it for publication. As a result, Agnew intimates were scarecely pleased when they learned how the letter — and the Vice President — had been used.

Destounis is chairman of an outfit called "Justice for Greece" set up ostensibly to refute anti-junta political activity, both by Americans and Greek expatriates, in the U.S. It proclaims in one of its publicity handouts that its purpose is to show "displeasure with the elected U.S. officials who have 'championed' the cause of 'so-called' Greek resistance leaders."

Thus, in another letter signed by Destounis, the Justice for Greece Committee wrote to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on June 30 demanding that the FBI investigate former U.S. Sen. Charles Goodell. The letter claimed that Goodell was consorting with expatriate Greek leaders of the pre-junta parliamentary regime to raise money for weapons to be sent to Greece to support and anti-junta uprising.

That letter was also published on page one of Nea Politia, with Hoover's name emblazoned in large headlines. Despite this apparent link between the Justice for Greece Committee and the Papadopoulos government, records of the U.S. Justice Department indicate that the Committee has never registered as a foreign agent.

MR. SPECTATOR

About September

Poets may rave about the coming of spring, the glories of June, or the beautiful snows of winter, but none of these seasons has more to recommend it than the month of September. So thinks Mr. Spectator.

By tradition September is known as the harvest month, but it is not this alone that imparts an appeal to September that is universal.

September marks the passing of summer and the coming of autumn, combining the best features of both. There are touches of the golden haze which makes later autumn days so beautiful.

The countryside shimmers under a benevolent sun. The highways are calling an invitation to view the glories of September, which are everywhere.

At its best, September can be glorious with bright days and cool nights. September is generally kind to vacationists. The enchantments of September may elude the kids, to whom it means loss of summer freedom and return to school. Mother, of course, bears this with equanimity.

September is an end and a beginning — the end of summer and its discomforts and the beginning of autumn and its thrilling spectacles. Not far away now are the world series — and right now football.

September is a prospect fair and pleasing. Mr. Spectator recommends it as possibly the best time of the year. In fact, if you want to look at it in terms of years lived — then the best time in life, too!

NOTE FROM MR. HUNT

Received a note from H.L. Hunt of Dallas, Texas, the other day. He is, among other things, one of the richest men in the world and one of the most active in pointing out what's wrong with things. His note:

"For several years I have been writing and saying that our nation's sheriffs are in the front line of law and order. Sheriffs are elected by the people of their local communities. They not only carry out the mandates of the law and risk their lives for our protection and the preservation of our great Republic, they also give unstintingly of their time in serving many of the other institutions of our communities, such as churches, civic clubs, Boy Scouts, youth groups and many others. I have tried to help reverse the trend of recent years by some influential people to defame all good sheriffs and lawmen. But those who attack and slander the defenders of the law and of our Republic are not in the majority, and we who support the Constitutions of our states and nation must defend our faithful defenders, the sheriffs, their deputies and other lawmen."

ART BUCHWALD

The Fall Term

WASHINGTON — This is going to be a tough fall for schoolchildren, perhaps the toughest they've ever faced. Many teachers who were promised raises won't get them and while they wil not take it out on the kids, I'm sure it will be uppermost in their minds. I can imagine what will happen in the classrooms across the nation.

The scene is Public School 349. The teacher calls the class to order.

"Now children, the first subject is arithmetic. I'm going to give you a problem. If someone was promised a riase of 10 per cent on $7,000 a year at the beginning of a school term, and at the last minute it was rescinded, how much money would she have been cheated out of?"

One of the children raises his hand. "Seven hundred dollars."

"That's correct, Anthony. Now here is the second problem. A person has gone to college for five years to learn a profession. When she comes out of school she makes half as much money as a plumber. If a plumber makes $15,000 a year, how much will the college graduate make?"

The children work silently for five minutes. Then Susan raises her hand. "She would make $7,500."

"If she's lucky," the teacher says. "One more. If the cost of living went up 7 per cent in one year, and a person could not get an increase in her salary because of government bureaucrats, how much less would her salary be worth in three years?"

Johnny pipes up, "Twenty-one per cent."

"All right, you seem to know your arithmetic. Let's go on to English. Which of these two sentences is correct? 'President Nixon's economic game plan were a failure' or 'President Nixon's economic game plan was a failure'?"

Charles replies, "Was a failure."

"'The people who were caught in a wage-price freeze are those who could least afford it' or 'the people who were caught in a wage-price freeze is those who could least afford it'?"

"Are?"

"What is wrong with this sentence: 'American economists don't know nothing'."

Carol replies, "It should read 'American economists don't know everything.'"

"You're wrong," the schoolteacher says bitterly. "It should read 'American economists don't know anything.'" Let's go on to another subject. Get out your American history books. What was President Hoover most noted for?"

David raises his hand. "A DEPRESSION."

"What is a depression?"

"It's when everyone is out of work and nobody has any money to buy food," Bobby replies.

"When people don't make enough money in American what do they do?"

"They go out on strike," Freddy yelled.

"How long do they go out on strike?"

"Until the other people give them more money."

"Can everyone go out on strike in America?"

"No," Joel says. "Policemen, firemen and schoolteachers can't go on strike."

"Why not?"

Everyone was stumped.

"All right," the teacher says. "Your homework tonight is for each of you to write to President Nixon and ask him why schoolteachers can't go on strike.

"Class dismissed."

About Face

It's an about-face of significance when President Nixon welcomes Red China to the United Nations. Just 11 years ago, Mr. Nixon said to admit Red China "would be a mockery of all peace-loving nations."

Is Red China less Red Now?

A popular theory of the 1950s was that communism, surrounded and contained, would, like an angry scorpion, turn on itself and die of its own sting.

Now it is apparent that any system does.

In our own nation our much vaunted "freedom" has led to so many abuses of freedom that one after another our freedoms are being compromised or canceled "in the national interest."

Similarly, economic communism has been forced to compromise by allowing increasing autonomy in management and incentives for productivity.

To the extent that both we and they have moved toward the middle — yes — the Reds are less Red and the free are less free.

Some Americans, sincere and fervent in their love for and allegiance to our Americanism, try to deny this apparently inevitable evolution.

President Nixon, on the other hand, is hoping he can keep it under control. And we'd all better hope that.

The United Nations, however worthless it may have been, remains at least symbolic of mankind's good intentions.

With all those mini-nations moving in, soon they will admit Red China to the General Assembly with or without our vote.

President Nixon is daring to try to seat Red China without unseating Free China; otherwise the good guys lose two votes in the General Assembly.

When Secretary of State Rogers announced realignment of our nation's China policy, he said that a government which has represented some 800 million people with a reasonable degree of stability for 20 years "is entitled to representation in the United Nations."

Further, the massive Soviet buildup on the China border makes the timing of this announcement propitious.

Those are the political realities which Mr. Nixon's "two-China policy" acknowledges.

But there is one other realty for which we'd best be prepared.

There is no mutual hatred in all this world so sustained and unequivocal as that between the governments of Peking and Taipei.

The background for this bitterness is scarcely comprehendible to an occidental.

But for as far ahead as any Far East scholar now can see, any bridge you try to build across the Formosa Strait will be dynamited at both ends.

It's No Good

Editor, Times-News:

Now that you have stated in your Monday editorial that we of Blaine County haven't a legal leg to stand on, so to speak, in regards to calling the Rock Festival off, how about an editorial deploring such as this happening to our vicinity and actually the entire county?

I think the U.S.A. has gotten to a lamentable state when lab abiding citizens must put up with all these disruptions that are coming now days country wide. Even at county fairs. So we hope to see an editorial in sympathy. The Monday one no doubt gave the Rock promoters a little more confidence.

This could be an annual thing possibly in your back yard and from all accounts of such as these it is not a good thing for anyone. From a long time paper subscriber.

... Mary C. Griffin
Bellevue

(Editor's note: The Times-News is not in sympathy with the Rock Festival, as such. What we contended in this case was that the move made by the commissioners in adopting the law they did in an attempt to control it, was unconstitutional. In the past we have had many editorials deploring violence in our nation).

Turning Our Back

Editor, Times-News:

The President's proposed trip to Red China and the abandonment of our long-standing policy of opposing the admission of Red China to the United Nations has opened the door and started the race for other nations to turn their backs on Nationalist China. This proposed trip has showed the world that our nation is turning its back on Chaing Kai Shek and the freedom that some Chinese have found in Nationalist China.

Already other nations are rushing to join President Nixon in recognizing Red China. For example, both Great Britain and Turkey have announced that they will vote in favor of seating Red China in the UN and ousting Nationalist China from the Security Council. Turkey has withdrawn its ambassador from Taipei, capital of Nationalist China, and has sent one to Peking.

Japanese business firms are shifting away from trade with Taiwan and toward trade with mainland China. These are only a few instances of a world-wide trend. This is a bitter blow to the enslaved people of the world who have looked to the American people to help free them and now our President plans to wine and dine with their Communist slave masters.

The U.S. government has been making overtures toward the Chinese Communists for more than two years. Lifting restrictions on travel, lifting trade restrictions, approaching Peking through third nations, beginning to refer to Red China as the People's Republic of China in official announcements. These clear signs of changing U.S. policy has encouraged countries such as Canada, Italy, Kuwait and others to recognize Peking and consequently to sever their ties with the Republic of China. The announced trip, closely followed by the changed U.N. policy, were the final cracks in freedom's dike which loosed the flood.

In the eyes of foreign nations we are committed now to Red China. Uncertainty about the determination of the United States to continue opposing Communist expansion, aroused in the minds of many foreign leaders by our demonstrated inability to defeat a fifth-rate power like North Vietnam, has been transformed into certainty that we no longer have that determination. Nation after nation is scrambling to recognize Peking, permanently altering the diplomatic balance against the Republic of China.

We are turning our backs on a friend and recognizing a cruel enemy. It has been estimated that over 34 million people have been killed in cold blood in Red China in order for Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai to take over and control China, and now our President plans to visit and pay homage to these murdering despots.

Are the leaders of the United States for freedom or for despotic enslavement of the world's people?

We should write to Mr. Nixon and say "Please, Mr. President, do not go!"

Property Taxes

Editor, Times-News:

I undestand our own state, Idaho, and probably many others do not require a widow of advanced years to pay property taxes. But how about a divorced widow of retirement age? Many are not aware of the problems facing this particular group.

I am now 74 years of age and started drawing my social security check 12 years ago. It is my own. I worked over 20 years before I started drawing it. Because I was divorced I could not receive a social security raise until President Johnson made it possible. I neither asked for or received any financial aid from my former husband.

I have always paid my taxes. How could we manage without our various forms of taxation? But I do not appreciate being discriminated against. I do not know whether it is because I am a woman or just a victim of a law that should have been changed when divorce became legal. As to my home, I bought it nine years ago.

We have the best country in the world but we are still primitive in many ways. Divorce is legal. So why am I penalized?

Prayer For Today

Dear God, help me to resist the temptation of trying to build myself up by putting someone else down. When I'm conscious of my own weaknesses or when I think I've been criticized unfairly, it is so easy to try to prove that I'm not so bad by showing how much worse someone else is. Help me to be able to admit my weaknesses and not fall into that trap.

FUNNY BUSINESS — By Roger Bollen

John W. Roper

For Better Business

You have to continue to get better in order to stay good. And this applies to a community, a business or an individual.

John W. Roper, Twin Falls businessman, is without doubt one of the most enthusiastic community workers in Magic Valley. He says the job of community betterment can never be left "to George" but must be assumed by every citizen. He admits there are some people who will probably not like the anticipated growth of Twin Falls and of this area.

"But the accelerated pace of change will produce benefits which will bring in more new residents representing more new skills and talents which we can appreciate. Such skills and talents are found among the new arrivals because of the Kellwood, Longview Fibre and Tupperware plants in this vicinity," he said.

Such activity should make everybody's business "a little better, not the rapid type of growth but the solid type and this growth should continue."

One of the upcoming projects of benefit, according to Roper, is the one calling for burying of utilities in the downtown area. Project work calls for betterment of alley sections this fall and parking lot areas next spring.

"The planning on this one is just right," Roper said. "When completed the back of the buildings will look almost as good as the front. Many merchants plan individual projects and our company is one of them. We will be building additional space and will also continue a face lift. When this downtown project is completed the entire core will have the appearance of a modern shopping center."

He said community betterment will eventually cause young people to remain in Twin Falls rather than go to other states.

"Better business means better and more opportunity for the people in your organization," he said. "There will be more jobs and better jobs and it will be attractive for young people to stay here."

Roper is a native Idahoan, having been born in Burley on May 31, 1919. He graduated from the Burley High School in 1937, attended the University of Idaho from 1937 through 1939 and then graduated from Northwestern University (BS Com.) in 1941. He was married to Alice Gaskill in 1943. A son, John W. Roper, Jr., is a third year student at Harvard Law School and a daughter, Victoria Roper, is practice teaching at Madison High School in Portland, Ore.

During his high school and college days he became well acquainted with operation of the clothing business with the "home" store being in Burley. Most Welcome

Editor, Times-News:

In your Aug. 30th paper, an editorial under the heading, "Our Doubts," you state that the ordinance passed by our county would not have been passed if this were a Sunday school picnic that was being planned over Labor Day. You are so right, we wouldn't need the ordinance if it were for that or any other decent assembly.

Our news media keeps us well informed of the degrading situations that go along at the Rock Festivals held in our country, so we called solid citizens or if you will, of the establishment, want no part of Rock Festivals held in our county.

Might I point out you are in direct contradiction with your editorials, directly under "Our Doubts", you have another one, "Shocking," this states that venereal disease is spreading with Blaine County reporting more cases of gonorrhea than any other Magic Valley counties put together. Why then do you think we're wrong in trying to stop something that will be adding to the problems already existing in our county?

I'm wondering what the reaction of the people in your county would be should they find themselves in the same situation.

You are most welcome to host the Rock Festival in Twin Falls, with the blessings of most all Blaine County folks.

Editor, Times-News:

We would like to express our opinion concerning your misrepresentation of the facts of the feelings of the people of Bellevue.

According to your article we are opposed to peaceful assembly. We are NOT opposed to peaceful assembly but we feel that rock festivals are NOT NECESSARILY PEACEFUL. We base this opinion on facts.

Calls and contacts have been made by local citizens to the State Police and the Chamber of Commerce concerning what took place at Farragut State Park. Your KMVT-TV announcer seemed amused by the citizen who expressed an opinion at the hearing concerning nudity, drugs and morals at the above mentioned festival.

None of these things are figments of the imagination of the citizens of Bellevue. Rather they are hard facts.

We had little if any adequate time to prepare for this invasion and we have done our best to enact laws to protect ourselves. For this we have been accused of being biased and narrow-minded. We have been taught to respect the idea of law and order yet we are denied the right to pass a protective law, which we might add, IS a law in Twin Falls county.

Your article also stated that it did not "seem" that we had a drug problem in Bellevue. This is your opinion and at this time we DO NOT LIKE your opinions expressed as being ours.

We are aware of the fact that a drug problem does exist here as well as anywhere else but we ARE NOT proud of it and would do anything possible to keep the problem from getting worse.

We would appreciate if your articles from this time on would express our opinions with the exact quotes and not inferences. After all, isn't the news supposed to represent facts or a better word for a change — THE TRUTH.

Yellow Stain

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem when I perspire. It stains and turns my clothes yellow. I have tried just about all the deoderant sprays.

This is very embarrassing when you have to wear white uniforms. I would appreciate any help. — S. L.

I think I can help. First of all, don't worry about ALL perspiration. There are two types of sweat glands, called eccrine and aporcinre.

The first, and more numerous, ones release a watery perspiration which evaporates and doesn't cause much trouble.

The apocrine glands, which are larger, give off an odorous perspiration which isn't as close to being plain water. It is odorous, but besides that, the matter in it is affected by bacterial action. This bacterial action is what causes the yellow color that bothers you (and your uniforms).

We all have a crop of bacteria on our skins; ordinary baths won't get rid of it. By way of example, you doubteless know that surgeons spend 20 minutes washing their hands with special soaps before starting an operation — and they do so even though they don surgical gloves afterwards. This is just an example of how difficult it is to displace all of the bacteria we carry on our skins.

Now to apply this to your problem. The apocrine glands are situated in hairy areas of the skin, i. e., the armpits and around the genitals. It's the armpits that bother you.

So, if you do not so so already, shave the armpits and keep them shaved. The hair, like the skin, can harbor bacteria.

Then use an antiseptic soap in the armpits daily, to keep the bacterial population at a minimum. After using the soap, rinse thoroughly.

You can use antiperspirants in addition, and they will doubtless help, but the important thing is to reduce the amount of bacteria in that area.

Some people have more apocrine secretion than others, but the secret to solving your problem is not to prevent perspiration but to get rid of the bacteria.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 10-year-old daughter has losing her hair for nine months. I believe this is called alopecia areata. I have read this is not a new disease but I have taken her to different doctors and they have all told me there is nothing that can be done. I would appreciate information. — F. B.

I confess that we don't know as much about hair growth (and loss) as we wish we did. It is true, however, that alopecia areata (patchy, "area" baldness) is not new. And as a general thing, it is also true that usually there is nothing to do about it, except wait.

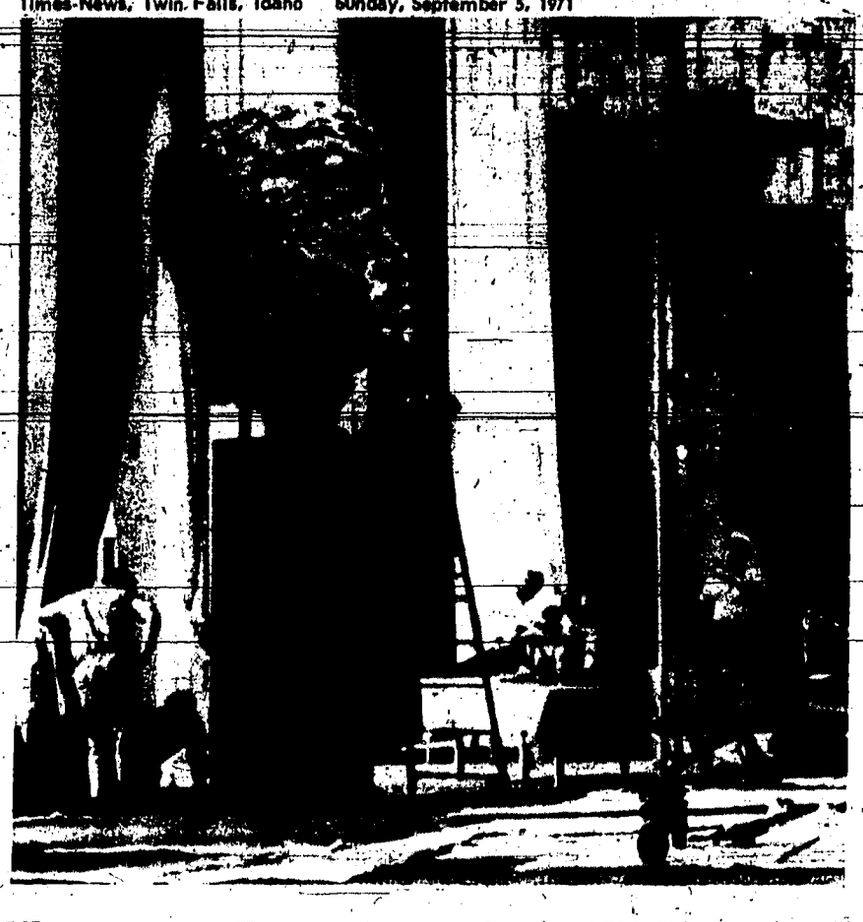

Most of the time, the hair grows back again. There is no visible sign of disease in the scalp. It may be a matter of breaking the hair shaft.

Should the trouble recur later, it is believed that various methods of stimulating the scalp can help, but this has to be done carefully to avoid risk of damaging the scalp. The best suggestion I can make is that you see a dermatologist, and be patient.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm sure there are thousands of people with the same problem as mine. I have an average frame but too large a bust. Is there anything a woman can do to reduce the size of the bust? — Mrs. J.B.

Sometimes, of course, it's mainly a matter of overweight. If not, surgical correction can be made — it's a well-accepted procedure and has been used for many years now. Not a simple operation, obviously, but the techniques have been well worked up.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy, write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box [illegible], enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and [illegible] cents in coin.

Yank effort fails goal

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
UPI Foreign Editor

The number of U.S. combat deaths announced in Vietnam this week was 19. Read together with President Nguyen Van Thieu's announcement on the same day that he will run alone for president on Oct. 3, the toll has a particular poignancy for Americans.

Ten years of effort to provide the conditions for a non-Communist democracy at the expense of more than 45,000 American combat deaths appear to have fallen short of an important goal —free election of a representative South Vietnamese government capable of standing by itself after U.S. troops have been withdrawn.

A one-man election is hardly that, even though Thieu has given South Vietnam a reasonably stable government and would be the strongest candidate even if he had opposition.

By design or miscalculation, however, he made the conditions such that his two opponents, retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, saw more advantage for themselves in staying out than staying in.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has been meeting — feverishly does not seem to strong a word —with all parties concerned to try to avoid a one-man election in October. Thieu's announcement that he would run alone also announced Bunker's failure.

For the United States, all this raises disturbing questions, and it demonstrates the limits of imperial power.

Do the lives of Americans lost in Vietnam give the United States the right, or the obligation, to see that the presidential elections are free?

Should the United States interfere in the internal affairs of another country, even in the interests of free elections?

Should the standards of Western political morality, often violated at home, be forcibly imposed in a faraway Asiatic country with different traditions?

If so, how could they be imposed? Does the United States government want free elections more than it wants Thieu to win?

Every world power faces the contradictions between its ideals and the expediency of its immediate interests. For the United States, the contradictions have often boiled down to a choice of whether to support the friendly dictator or try to impose its own higher morality against its own short term interests.

Should all dictators be denounced or only ones who are hostile? The answer has seldom been clear or consistent.

A one-man election in Saigon will be embarrassing. The manuevers surrounding it and the ineffective U.S. attempts to prevent it already have been embarrassing. The answer to the American dilemma of what, if anything, to do about it is hardly clear or consistent this time either.

The United States will go on withdrawing its troops. As it does, its already diminished influence in South Vietnam will further decrease.

Kennedy center Washington's memorial to slain President

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts formally opens Wednesday as Washington's official memorial to the late President. Some devotees boast the event marks this city's debut at last into the select circle of world capitals that are cultural centers.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis had been expected to sit in the President's Box at the inaugural performance of the two-week long festival marking the opening of the huge edifice overlooking the Potomac river.

Out of deference to her, President Nixon announced he would not attend the opening performance of "Mass," written by Leonard Bernstein especially for the opening.

But a spokesman for Mrs. Onassis announced late last week that the former First Lady would not return to Washington for the performance.

There has been some grousing about the extravagance of the $70 million Kennedy Center, the price of its tickets and the food at its three restaurants, and its overall esthetic quality.

But many patrons of the arts feel the Kennedy Center is the crowning achievement that has catapaulted Washington from a cultural void to a city of sophistication equal to any except perhaps New York and Chicago in this country or London, Paris and Venice abroad.

"What it does," said Roger L. Stevens, the Broadway producer who came to Washington 10 years ago at President Kennedy's invitation, "is that it puts Washington in a place where it can hold up its head. The nation need no longer be embarrassed."

Said Father Gilbert Hartke, chairman of the drama department at Catholic University where Helen Hayes ended her long career last spring in "Long Day's Journey Into Night":

"Throughout history, the political capitals of nations have also been their cultural capitals —all except Washington. Now Washington is about to be both, too."

'Sesame Street' effects show up in new children's viewing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —What hath "Sesame Street" wrought?

Part of the answer came Thursday night when ABC-TV offered a preview of "Curiosity Shop," one of the various new Saturday daytime series for children that the networks will present this season trying to emulate the success of non-commercial television's "Sesame Street" pacesetter.

All this sudden do-gooding is nice, I suppose, primarily because the new series will be displacing some of the moronically violent Saturday morning children's fare that developed into a network disgrace. On the other hand, if the preview of "Curiosity Shop" was an example, these new replacements will serve chiefly as less harmful video babysitters — surely nothing brilliant as educational entertainment tools, or even coming near equaling the programming achievement of "Sesame Street."

My own feeling is that an ideal situation in video would be Saturday mornings with absolutely no children's programming at all, so that youngsters, in their weekend spare time, would not be distracted from more active, self-involved pursuits that invariably are more personally rewarding. But there are products to sell to children, so the shows are there, and I guess we should be grateful for the new trend. But I think hopeful viewers delude themselves if they try to believe the new shows for youngsters are much more than merely quieter timekillers.

The preview of "Curiosity Shop" was the same mixture as before in these projects for children —film, live action, animation, music, comic puppets, bits and pieces of alleged educational material, sequences at least aimed at trying to make youngsters think (as though they wouldn't think otherwise), and precocious kids all over the place. I don't mean to put down the intent of the hour, but, despite —several amiable bits, it didn't seem to have any particularly worthwhile point of view, or, for that matter, any point of view at all, except to distract pleasantly.

Money Box

By Frank Schell

From W.L. S., Burley, Idaho: Please settle an argument. I say it is not legal for collectors to hold foreign gold in their collections. It seems to me I read that it was not legal. Didn't Canada have a gold piece a few years ago that we could not legally bring into this country? My friend says it is all right to have it. Please tell us about this if you have the information.

Answer: When the Gold Act of 1934 went into effect in 1935 it became illegal to use gold for legal tender and all gold was supposed to be turned in to the government.

At the same time, all importation of gold from foreign countries was cut off, although our gold coinage was still used as exchange with other countries, by the government. In the past 10 years, laws have been liberalized to admit the importation, under license of "collector" coins. For some unknown reason, this means gold coins minted before 1934.

The Canadian gold piece you refer to minted in the Canadian commemorative sets of 1967 fell under this strange interpretation of the law, and so was illegal for United States collectors to hold, although they could buy the rest of the set, which was minted in silver. More recently, many of the formerly restricted coins have been allowed into the country under license, although the government still makes strange decisions on this importation.

Recently the restrictions on importation of Mexican gold coins has been relaxed so that you can now own all Mexican gold coins. Now it appears that the Government is preparing to allow importation of virtually all formerly restricted gold coinage by license. Quite a turn around.

From L.R., Twin Falls, Idaho: Why is it that we still do not get half dollars? Didn't I see in your column some time ago that the mint had made many millions of them? What has happened to them? Surely collectors do not want to hold the cooper nickel coinage. It seems strange to me that we do not receive many of them.

Answer: It seems strange to me, too. So far this year, over 300 million half dollars have been produced. According to latest reports banks are not asking for them. The government is anxious to get them into circulation, but cannot send them out if they are not requested and that is exactly what is happening. If your bank would request half-dollars, I am sure it could get all it wants. People have become used to receiving two quarters in change, so there is no demand for them.

I, personally, would like to see them come back. A pocket full of quarters annoys me — and it seems that is all we get in change. There are plenty of halves available — if we can get our banks to order them.

From A.R., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have heard that one-dollar bills signed by Joseph W. Barr are worth hundreds of dollars. I found two of these the other day and would like to sell them. Can you give me the name of a collector who will pay this for them?

Answer: I wish I could. I'd sell a few myself. This rumor keeps cropping up, and we receive many telephone calls about these Barr dollars.

When Henry Fowler resigned, Lyndon Johnson appointed Joseph Barr to fill his term. This job he only held for 20 days, then was replaced by Nixon's choice, David Kennedy. Ordinarily, only 20 days in office would have produced a small amount of notes, if any.

Hence the rumor spread that Barr had only a few notes with his name on them. In reality, although he served for only 20 days, some 470 million notes were printed with his name on them — but from only five of the Federal Reserve Districts.

There is no shortage of the notes — and they can be purchased in any quantity in crisp, uncirculated condition. Do not believe the rumors — they are not true.

Ship sinks, crew saved

HONOLULU (UPI)—A 10,000-ton tanker broke in half, exploded and sank during the night in the north Pacific Ocean, the Coast Guard reported Friday.

All but two of the 32 crew members of the Panamanian vessel Aaron were picked up by a nerby freighter at the site, 1,100 miles northeast of Midway. The other two were missing.

The Coast Guard said the Aaron, en route from Hilo, Hawaii, to Japan, broke up on the high seas early in the evening and all but five of the crew abandoned ship shortly before the forward half sank. Three others were picked up out of the water.

About an hour later, a boiler explosion ripped through the stern and it sank.

The Coast Guard cutter Ponchartrain, on station about 50 miles away, rendezvoused with the rescue freighter, the Liberian vessel Spruce Woods, and put a doctor and hospital corpsman aboard. All survivors were suffering from acid burns. One man was reported in critical condition with severe lacerations, the Coast Guard said.

The Spruce Woods was proceeding to Midway with the survivors. The Ponchartrain remained at the scene to look for the missing crewmen.

The Aaron, whose Hawaii agent is Hawaii Freight Lines, was carrying a cargo of molasses, acid, tar, oil and gas. It left Hilo Aug. 24.

Cox picked

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Idaho Personnel Commission Friday elected J. Ray Cox, Coeur d'Alene attorney recently appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, to serve as their chairman.

Cox, a Democrat, was minority leader of the State Senate in 1961.

"I feel that the job is a real challenge," Cox said. "I'm looking forward to working with the various state agencies involved and with the legislature in order to have a fine working merit system."

Other members of the commission are Emily McDermott, a Democrat from Pocatello, and Blaine Evans, a Republican from Boise.

38 Nezperce tribe graves desecrated

CLARKSTON, Wash. (UPI)—A total of 38 Nezperce Indian graves dating back more than 100 years have been robbed and desecrated near here recently by persons who apparently knew just what they were doing.

The graves were located in an old burial ground about 15 miles west of here on Alpowa Creek.

Discovery was made when Dr. Roderick Sprague, University of Idaho anthropologist, graduate assistant Mike Rutherford, and a group of eight workers went to the site to move the graves. The burial ground is scheduled to be covered by the pool to be formed when Lower Granite dam on the Snake River is finished in 1975.

Rutherford said the grave robbers were "awfully good."

"Most of the holes were sunk directly to burials," he said.

Sprague said the work crew was opening up the holes to find out how much damage was done to the graves.

He said apparently the robbers drove a rod into the ground until it touched a coffin, then dug down and opened the coffin and took jewelry and the skulls.

Skulls are worth $25 each on the local underground market and considerably more when smuggled to California.

"It makes me mad to just be around the place and see what has been done," said Richard Halfmoon, Lapwai, chairman of the Nezperce tribal Council. "They don't let our Indians rest in peace whether they are dead or alive."

Halfmoon claimed, "We know the name of the dentist who has Chief Joseph's skull and uses it for an ashtray."

Cuban's hijack effort foiled

MIAMI (UPI)—A young Cuban refugee, "worried" about his mother, whipped out an icepick Friday and tried to hijack an Eastern Airlines Chicago-to-Miami jet, but was overpowered by four airline employes and two passengers.

There were 80 persons aboard the plane—74 passengers and a crew of six.

Three of the men who wrestled the would-be hijacker to the floor of the plane received slight wounds and a stewardess aboard the flight, Eastern's 993, suffered a wrenched arm.

But the Eastern employes, all pilots who were riding aboard the flight as passengers, and their two civilian helpers managed to tie up the alleged hijacker—identified as Juan Miguel Borges Guerra, 20—and deliver him to the FBI when the plane touched down at Miami International Airport.

The FBI said the hijacker came from Cuba in June of 1970 and had been living at Rockford, Ill.

Landon efforts may bear fruit

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)—Although Republican Alf. M. Landon lost his bid for the presidency in 1936, he's been campaigning on another front for the lest 23 years.

As he turns 84 years old Thursday his long, dogged campaign for U.S. diplomatic recognition of Communist China seems closer to realization.

President Nixon's planned trip to Peking and support for admission of Communist China to the United Nations is watched closely by the elder statesman, whose old office desk here is covered with the latest newspaper clippings.

Landon recently engineered a public endorsement of the President's Peking trip, which included such signatures as David Rockefeller, Leonard Woodcock, and eight other leaders from American life.

The former Kansas governor's active support of the trip indicates the continuing energy of the man who still takes a morning horseback ride near his home before spending some time in his office at radio station WREN.

Landon says he has not written directly to President Nixon, about his views on recognition of Communist China, but his speeches on the subject are mailed to the White House regularly.

It's no secret anyway that Alf M. Landon has been calling for U.S. recognition of Communist China since about 1948. Almost every speech he has made on foreign policy has contained the plug.

He contends it's hard to ignore a nation as populous as Communist China, adding that recognition doesn't necessarily means a nation endorses the policy of another nation.

"I'm particularly gratified in the bipartisan support—the volume and extent of it—that the President has received on the proposed Peking trip," Landon said.

He thinks a meeting between Nixon and Mainland China's leaders would have great meaning for not only the two nations involved, but the whole world.

"If they make any progress toward opening up culture and trade between the two countries —nothing more than that—it would be of great value," Landon said.

Engineer promoted

BOISE (UPI)—State Highway Engineer Ellis L. Mathes today announced the promotion of Andrew D. Nielsen to district engineer at Pocatello.

Nielsen, assistant district engineer at Boise since 1966, is a graduate of Utah State University.

In his new job he will be responsible for all construction and maintenance activities on the 779.3 mile state highway system in southeastern Idaho.

He succeeds Orion L. Grunerud who has been transferred to Boise as state construction engineer.

Drug tests for Yanks

SAIGON (UPI) —All U.S. military personnel departing Vietnam on two-week leaves will be tested for drug use beginning Sept. 10, the U.S. Command said Friday.

The tests, designed for early detection of drug abuse, originally covered only American servicemen headed back to the United States on completion of their one-year duty tours in Indochina.

Since first ordered by President Nixon on June 19, the tests have been expanded to cover servicemen returning to the United States on 14-day leaves, servicemen spending 30 days of temporary duty in South Vietnam —generally Air Force personnnel —and all servicemen who extended their tours of duty in Indochina.

Red seat support hinted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of State William P. Rogers indicated today the United States might favor giving Communist China a United Nations Security Council seat in addition to membership in the world organization.

However, Rogers told a news conference that the United States remains committed against any effort to oust the Nationalist Chinese from the U.N. General Assembly.

The administration has previously indicated it will not oppose admission of Communist China to general U.N. membership. The position has been that it is up to the United Nations itself to decide who gets the powerful permanent Security Council seat now held by the Nationalist Chinese under the original U.N. Charter.

Rogers, for the first time, disclosed the United States has not decided what position to take on that point. He said the administration had discussed it with "about 90 government" and found a "good deal of support" for having the Security Council seat go to the People's Republic of China if the Communists gain membership.

He said the United States would make its decision within the next few weeks.

Dutch student likes Gem state

PAYETTE (UPI) — Idaho is "just how I imagined America would look," said Jaap Hollander, 18, Holland, the fourth international student to visit here this summer under the Experiment for International Living program.

The program places overseas students planning to spend a year before returning home to study for his doctorate of psychiatry.

He said Holland would not recognize his year of study, but it would help him improve his English.

Hollander said his home town of Leewarden is in the province of Friesland, the most agricultural area in the whole of Holland with an emphasis on dairy farming.

He said however, farms in Holland are very small and most farmers are subsidized by the government and with the subsidies come the inevitable restrictions.

The Dutch farmers he had met in America commented on the freedom they found in the United States he said.

Hollander said he liked the free and easy atmosphere in America schools, adding class distinctions were still very rigid in Holland. There, he said, schools are divided into academic ability with trade schools and high schools, with only students from the high schools allowed to enter universities.

He also said there were strong similarities between Dutch and American teen-agers. He said while waiting at Amsterdam Airport for his flight over he could not tell which were Dutch students going to America and Americans returning home unless he spoke to them.

Rates up

MANILA (UPI)—The cheaper value of the Philippine peso abroad has prompted the 22 international airlines operating in the Philippines to raise their travel and freight rates up to 5 per cent.

Soviet oil claims scotched by town

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — This northwestern Pennsylvania city refuses to get uptight about a new Russian claim that the world's first oil well was drilled not here but near Russia's Caspian Sea coast in 1847.

"We keep a file on these things, and they come up about every seven years," said James B. Stevenson, publisher of the Titusville Herald and chairman of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

"Every time it seems to be a different place or date. And when Russia isn't yapping like this, it's Canada. We're not going to be bothered with it. We know there were oil wells before Col. Edwin Drake drilled here in 1859, but Drake was the guy who went for oil and got it."

Russia's claim of the new "first" was published Thursday in the trade union newspaper Trud. It said docuemnts found in the "Caucasian Archeographic Commission" files showed the first oil drilling project was started near the Caspian Sea in 1844 and the first well brought in by an engineer three years later.

The Green Thumb

GEORGE ABRAHAM

These plants can play tricks on home gardeners. We've seen fall-blooming mums flower in June or July. Right now a lot of fall varieties are in full bloom. Hot weather is partly responsible for erratic blooming. It can also slow up bud development.

Most mums grown in the garden should be from the six to eight-week response group. This means it normally takes them six to eight weeks to flower from a time in late summer when days become short enough for flower bud formation.

How about potted mums purchased from the florist? They are not garden plants unless definitely marked as such. They belong to 10 and 11-week groups and thus often freeze before flowering. Most of them are not reliably winter hardy. Florists mums can be potted up in fall and brought indoors where they'll eventually bloom.

Did you know that the overhead night lights affect mums? A reader writes: "I had the most beautiful mums for years until my neighbor installed a bright night light. From then on out I had no flowers. Mums need a certain number of hours of darkness to flower. They'll flower in the poorest soil if they have time to sleep."

HOW TO HASTEN TOMATOES: If your tomatoes are slow to ripen, can you hasten things along by removing some of the foliage? Removing some of the leaves may hasten maturity four or five days. Ripening and coloring of tomatoes depends upon fruit temperature, not light. removing some of the foliage allows more direct sunshine to reach the fruit, raises the temperature and thus hastens maturity. Tomatoes do not color up well at temperatures below 65 degrees or over 85 degrees.

Removing leaves has some advantages and some disadvantages. Advantages: Picking is easier and faster. Fruits and soil under the vines may dry off faster in mornings or after rains, thus reducing rots and molds. The amount of cracking may be reduced.

Disadvantages: exposed fruits may sunburn if a hot spell follows treatment. More fruits will be exposed to damage by early light frosts than normally would not harm fruits protected by leaves. Defoliation might cause an increase of anthracnose on fruits. Also, exposing the fruit may cause poor shoulder ripening of the green-shouldered varieties.

Incidentally, putting green tomatoes in a bright window does not hasten coloring, since light has little effect on coloring.

VINES THAT KILL TREES: We've been asked if it is true that trumpet creeper vine will kill trees. I'll let a reader answer it: "We lived in S.E. Arkansas for several years and there trumpet vines are a horrible 'weed.' It climbs fence posts, telephone and electric poles; farmers fight it all the time. It will choke out a tree."

It is true that a trumpet creeper vine can slowly choke a tree to death. However, it still has a place in landscaping. It can be trained to climb up a wire or trellis near a house. Keep it trimmed to prevent rank growth. Many vines will actually choke and kill a tree, and these include wisterias as well as bittersweet. But this is no reason why the vines should be avoided. They weren't meant to climb trees, but need artifical supports such as wires or trellises.

PEONY NOTES: A reader asks if it's true that nothing will grow where peonies have been growing? She wants to transplant her peonies and put in a row of pines, but was told that nothing will grow where peonies have been. Actually, there's no reason why pines or any other plants cannot be planted where the peonies have been dug up. The only exception to this would be planting grapes. It's difficult to get a young grape started where one had been growing.

The reason: competition from surrounding grape roots, or perhaps trouble from grape root louse. Grape growers fill in vacant spot by layering. To do this they take a cane and lay it flat on the ground, then cover it's entire length with soil. It will form roots up and down the cane, and following rooting the cane can be cut from its parent plant.

FOR BETTER TOMATO SET: Apartment dwellers who are growing a pot of mini-tomatoes may wonder why a poor set. Tomatoes growing in a house, or greenhouse or on a balcony are sheltered from the wind and wil not pollinate themselves as readily as those growing outdoors where they are constantly being stirred by the wind. For this reason some home gardeners shake tomato vines growing in pots, or in a greenhouse, to agitate the plants and insure fruit set. Commercial growers use an electric vibrator on tomato vines in greenhouses to insure pollination.

CACTI PLANTS FOR CHILDREN: If you want to keep children busy, why not let them start a desert garden in the kitchen? Start them on various cacti plants, such as the Old Man Cactus, Peanut Cactus and Prickly Pear. All are easy to grow: bright window, sandy, well-drained soil, and clay pots. Avoid overwatering and overfeeding.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: S.E. of Twin Falls: "Please tell us how to collect and preserve wild flowers for winter arrangements. Any information you can pass along will be helpful as we want to make arrangements for raising money for our church."

You can start gathering a host of items such as strawflowers, globe amaranth, money plant (lunaria) celosia, zinnias, rose, bee balm, sorrel, yarrow, golden rod, and spikes of many wild grasses. Dry these items by hanging them upside down in a dry, dry place. You can also use certain materials for drying flowers, such as clean builders' sand, borax, cornmeal, or silica gel. Borax, when used with either 50 per cent sand or cornmeal, makes a fine drying material.

Home gardeners like to use sand alone, but it is heavier to handle and tends to flatten flowers more easily than cornmeal. An empty shoe box or cake tin make good containers. Flowers will dry in about two weeks, some longer, some in less time.

Silica gel (used by floriest) comes under various trade names and it has the advantage of removing moisture from the petals rapidly. Silica gel normally dries flowers in 36 to 48 hours, and since it dries blossoms so fast, the color is often better preserved. Use the gel in air-tight containers or it will take on moisture from the air. After it becomes moist you can dry it in the oven and use it over and over again.

When using the materials for drying, place the blossoms on carefully, and add just enough material so that the back row of petals is resting firmly. Then sift on the material, around and between petals so all are held in a natural position. Petals allowed to flatten or fold will dry in that position. Don't hesitate to experiment with various flowers and weeds for drying and arranging.

C.F. of Burley: "I've heard of a night-blooming cereus, but don't know if we can grow them indoors. Are they difficult?"

Many plants are called night-blooming cereus. The cereus tribe of the cactus family is a big one, but all of them have huge blossoms, many fragrant, and they always open at night. They remain a thing of beauty until dawn. Probably the most outstanding night-blooming cereus is Hylocereus undatus, noted for its large flowers. Unlike its brother cacti, it is thornless, but fleshy and succulent. Another night-blooming cereus is the Epiphyllum oxypetalum, which has many day-blooming hybrids known as orchid cacti.

CULTURE: All like a humusy soil, good drainage. A potting soil of equal parts sand, peat and loam is fine. Best temperature is 72 to 82 degs. Low temperatures (below 50 degs.) cause them to wilt.

CHOOSING GOOD NUT

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The outer shells of nuts may give hints on the quality inside, say agricultural experts at Texas A&M University.

In choosing nuts, pick out clean, bright shells because they are most likely to contain good kernels. Unshelled nuts usually require about two pounds to yield one pound of nutmeats.

Buckley assails Lindsay

HOUSTON (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckely, R-N.Y., criticized New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay today as "a liberal leader too representative of the disease of our time."

It was Bucley's first major criticism of Lindsay, who last month switched from the Republican to the Democratic party, raising speculation he might run for president.

"You and I know, as I believe a majority of Americans now sense, that the liberal creed has proven its complete and utter bankruptcy; its complete and utter inability to deal with the afflictions which beset the body politic," Buckley told the Young Americans for Freedom national convention.

Mind Your Money

Q — I have read announcements concerning the increase in interest on series E savings bonds up to 5½ per cent if held to maturity: It has also been stated that people holding already matured bonds would get the new rate of interest. Where can I find out where I stand with my bonds? — L.H.K. Tonawanda, N.Y.

A — The Treasury Department has an excellent new booklet on savings bonds and you can ge it by writing: Saving Bonds; Office of Public Affairs; U.S. Treasury; Washington, D C. 20226.

Actually, all E savings bonds are now drawing 5½ per cent interest no matter when they were purchased. H series bonds also earn this interest. These are bonds you buy at a bank and they pay dividends twice a year. With banks and savings and loan associations paying lower interest in the past six months or so, these government savings bonds are not a bad investment. The interest rate will never be lowered.

With E bonds, interest earned does not have to be declared for tax purposes until they are redeemed or reach final maturity. This makes them a good investment for a retirement fund when overall taxable income is lower. Series H bonds, of course, are taxed every year as they pay out interest.

Q — Does interest on series E savings bonds discontinue at any time? We are getting the new 5½ per cent interest on our bonds which we have held since the mid 1940s. Can they ever cut off interest payments? — Mrs. P. T., Darlington, Wisc.

A — Interest is now being paid on all series E and series H bonds because the Treasury decided to keep on paying. They make decisions on granting interest extensions for different time periods. There is an eventual cut-off date. Your oldest bonds (1944) will stop paying interest in 1984, 40 years after purchase. Treasury predicts there will be no more extensions.

Q — What's the difference between 5 per cent per year straight interest and 5 per cent yearly interest calculated and compounded daily? A local savings and loan association promises to pay interest on all deposits "calculated and compounded daily from the day of deposit to day of withdrawal." — Mrs. L. M. F., Willingboro, N. J.

A — If you want to invest through passbook savings, grab the daily compounded interest deal. The more often interest is compounded, the more you get. Just how much more has to be figured on a table. Maybe, as an added promotion, the S & L will figure how much more you get under daily compounding as opposed to quarterly or monthly.

Q — I am living in a housing unit of many families. You have to pay the first and last month's rent as a security deposit. Every year they raise the rent and you have to up the ante on the deposit. The landlord collects interest on the deposit money. Why don't we get some of this interest? — L. P., Los Angeles.

A — Good question. You should share in the interest. Unfortunately, there's no national law that requires landlords to pay interest on deposit money. Some tenants have banded together into unions to negotiate better contracts with landlords and, in some cases, have gotten some share in interest earned.

The time to be cautious is when you sign a lease. For any long-term arrangement, you should have a lawyer look over a lease before signing. Local bar associations have a lawyer's referral service which costs around $12 for a half-hour's advice from a contract lawyer. A lawyer can often reduce or eliminate some of the deposit crush.

As for deposits on utilities service (gas, electric, phone), be sure to demand interest payment. In most states, utilities must pay 6 per cent a year and in some states they even have to pay 7 per cent.

Back-to-nature

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—There's a new type "back-to-nature" city park development at Echo Canyon near Phoenix. The Canyon is part of a 90-acre tract in the famed Camelback Mountain area, site of many prehistoric Indian ceremonials. It was in danger of being completely overrun by commercial and residential complexes.

Students given trips home

LONDON (UPI) —James Black, president of the House of Lloyd Travel Agency, gave free flights home today to stranded students who said they had bought worthless roundtrip air tickets from charter companies in New York.

Black, from Dallas, sat interviewing students in Trans World Airlines' (TWA) London office.

"For the sake of the travel business in general somebody had to pull these kids out of this mess," said the 51-year-old Black.

"These young people have been let down real hard. After all, they paid their money in New York and they've a right to expect a flight home.

"Something must —and will —be done to stop the activities of crooks like the ones that sold dud tickets to these kids. I cannot understand how the American people can allow such a thing to happen."

The State Department and the New York attorney general's office said they are investigating New York charter companies which sold worthless tickets to the stranded students, an American embassy spokesman said.

T.F. County Fair, Rodeo Sept. 8-11

Outstanding title holders add bonus to county rodeo

TWIN FALLS — Something new has been added for the 1971 Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, under the theme, "Cavalcade of Queens."

The fair and rodeo board is honoring women of the Magic Valley and four from the Treasure Valley area who have won state titles (or better) and past Miss Rodeo of Idaho winners.

Each night prior to the beginning of the rodeo, Sept. 8 through 11, each woman will be introduced and seated in a special box section at the rodeo. On Thursday evening, Gov. Cecil Andrus (or a representative from his office) will present each woman a special citation from the state of Idaho, and on Saturday evening, a special award will be given each woman by the fair and rodeo Board.

Those pictured on this page are only part of the list of outstanding title holders. Many who have received such honors while residents here are now residing elsewhere or the list would be much longer. The decision, for obvious reasons, was to honor only those who could attend and participate in this year's fair and rodeo.

Cynthia Walker, Koffer say vows in local rites

MR. AND MRS. MARK S. KOFFER

TWIN FALLS — The First Presbyterian Church of Twin Falls was the setting for the marriage of Cynthia Gene Walker to Mark Stephen Koffer, Aug. 20. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Walker, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Warren Koffer, Northridge, Calif.

Rev. D. Robert Van Nest performed the double ring ceremony before a candle-arch and candelabra of white tapers decorated with multi-colored pink gladioli and white Spider chrysanthemums. Baskets of matching flowers decorated the altar. Mrs. Charles Allen was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding dress of ivory silk, designed with a fitted bodice and modified V-neckline edged with lace. The floor-length skirt, with a chapel train, was gathered to a dropped waistline and the center front featured an inverted pleat with an underlay of lace. The fabric had been sent from France by her father when he was stationed there during World War II. The full-length veil of illusion was held by a coronet of lace which matched the lace trim of the dress. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace. It had been a her father's wedding gift to her mother.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and camelia leaves.

Linda Victor, Danville, Calif., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rosemarie Koffer, Northridge, Calif., sister of the bridegroom; Arlene Johnson, Lewiston, and Carolyn Cron, Boise, friends of the bride at the University of Idaho.

James Koffer served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Fred Walker, brother of the bride; Cliff Eidemiller, Homedale, and Roger Stone, Gooding.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the Fireside Lounge. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink and centered with a white four-tiered wedding cake topped with white sugar bells and pink roses. White tapers in silver candelabra, fern and pink roses completed the table decorations.

The cake was served by Mrs. Richard Victor, Danville, Calif., and Mrs. Ray Dills, Louisville, Ky, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Rolland Rinabarger, Tulelake, Calif., aunt of the bride, presided at the coffee service. Punch was served by Janice Carroll. Also assisting with the reception was Mrs. Frank T. Giese.

Nancy Neale, Pocatello, registered the guests. Kathy Neale, Pocatello, and Michael Dills, Louisville, received gifts.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mrs. A.C. Victor, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Walker, Filer.

Out-of-state guests attended from Ohio, Kentucky and Clifornia.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Turf Club.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple will reside at 316 So. Lilly, Apt. C. Moscow, where the bridegroom will continue his studies in botany at the University of Idaho.

The bride was honored at miscellaneous showers given by Mrs. Dominic Amara in Northridge and by Mrs. Harvey Cook, Mrs. David Fix and Mrs. Jack Stephens, Twin Falls. Mrs. Gene Hull and Mrs. Max Brown hosted a kitchen showers. A coffee hour honoring the bride was given by Mrs. James Kinney and Mrs. George Davis. Mrs. A.C. Victor and Mrf. Rolland Rinabarger honored the bride with a "pink" luncheon. Mrs. Frank Giese and Mrs. H.A. Giese entertained at a brunch for the bride. A buffet dinner was served prior to the wedding for members of the families of the couple and the bridal party in the garden of Mrs. A.C. Victor.

A reception in the church parlors was held after the ceremony for 150 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koepplin and Mrs. Lillian Armga, grandparents of the bridegroom, were honored guests. Also attending from Twin Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Armga, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ruhter and daughter, Mrs. Mike O'Dell.

What's new

A first self-buttering electric popper for popcorn looks like a streamlined, bubble-top lunar lander in miniature. An insert in the transparent lid holds solid butter that melts and drips down evenly on light, non-stick lining on the metal part and a kernel separater to sift out unpopped corn. The lid doubles as a serving bowl.

Hints

Don't pinch the produce. Rough handling of fruits while you are selecting them causes spoilage and waste. The loss to the retailer usually is passed on to the consumer. When you must handle fruit to judge quality, do so carefully and gently:

Stories berries and cherries whole and uncovered in the refrigerator until ready to use. Washing and stemming before refrigerating results in loss of food value and increased spoilage. Use within one or two days.

For best results, a beef roast meant to cook with dry heat (oven roasting) should weigh at least four pounds.

Most leafy greens should be torn, rather than cut with a knife or shears. Contact with metal tends to induce discoloring or "rust." When using only part of a head of lettuce, for instance, break off the amount needed.

Fresh citrus is one of nature's best sources for Vitamin C, necessary to the health of cells. It also supplies Vitamins A and B and some minerals.

Eyebrowing

Here are some hints for good eyebrow grooming. Cleanse area thoroughly before plucking. Brush the brow along its natural line. Pluck strays which are not in the natural line. Never pluck from above the brow, only below. Then fill in the sparse areas with an eyebrow brush, making sure that the color is as close to your own as possible.

Rinnae Beams, Suggett marry

TWIN FALLS — In a candlelight ceremony performed at the Bethel Temple Church, Twin Falls, Aug. 27, Rinnae Beth Beams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beams, and Patrick Leon Suggett son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Caldwell, Arkansas, were united in marriage.

Rev. J. L. Tankersley repeated the marriage vows with the couple as they stood before a garden archway draped with greenery and white gladioli, two large cherubs, spiral candelabra and blue tapers. Topiary trees of white gladioli completed the altar background. Each window of the sanctuary was adorned with matching floral arrangements and blue tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal Original organza gown; lace trimmed in a princess-styled bodice and skirt with a lace outlined removable watteau chapel train. The empire dress featured the high Victorian neckline and full bishop sleeves. A Chantilly ruffled lace cap with a ruffle of pearl-edged tulle and perky crown held her elbow-length veil with a butterfly face veil of English nylon illusion. She carried a lace handkerchief, a gift from her Grandmother Beams. Her nosegay featured a Jephett orchid encircled by white roses and gladioli. florets entwined with ivy and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Mark Beams, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Doug Johnson, Livermore, Calif., Diana Wildman and Lorene Messener.

Frank Addington, cousin of the bride, served as best man. Groomsmen were Doug Johnson, Livermore, Mark Beams, brother of the bride, and Everett Messener. Seating the wedding guests were Clyde McClain, uncle of the bride, James Winkle and Gary Heideman.

Mitzie Addington carrying the bride's Bible and Ken Bauer bearing the ring on a satin pillow, cousins of the bride, were miniature bride and bridegroom. Pam Wildman and Sharon Messener lighted the tapers.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Frank Addington, cousin of the bride. Organist was Mrs. J.L. Tankersley who accompanied Mrs. Everett Messener, soloist. The bridegroom sang to the bride "My Cup Runneth Over With Love." Carrying umbrellas and scattering rose petals before the bride were her flower girls, Carma Foulk and Pam McClain, cousin of the bride.

Blue thank-you scrolls were given to guests by Greg Hine and Danny Munger.

The newlyweds greeted their guests at the reception held after the ceremony in the church reception hall. Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with lace and centered with flowers by Keith Jones, Lyle Novak and Max Whitaker.

Mrs. Clifton Bircheat and the bride's mother arranged all of the floral pieces. Appointments of powder and royal blue blended throughout the sanctuary and reception hall revealed the bride's color scheme. Frank Addington designed and made the huge wedding bell scene behind the bride's table.

Focal point of the bride's round table covered with lace was the four-tiered white wedding cake decorated with scallops, cherubs, satin wedding bells, doves and a tiny white Bible. Mrs. Elvera David and Mrs. Ken Bauer, Eugene, Ore., cousin of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. James Winkle and Mrs. Dale Messener served the mints and nuts. Presiding at the punch table was Mrs. Clifton Bircheat and Mrs. Ron Weidemann, assisted by Mrs. Max Whitaker. Mrs. J.L. Tankersley was in charge of the reception, assisted by members of the Better Girls Club of the church.

Mrs. Paul Roberts, Mrs. Robert Heideman and Mrs. Everett Messener provided background piano music during the reception.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. Richard Foulk, Mrs. Norval Wildman, Burley, Marion Williams. Gift carriers were Kathy Hanner and Jayna Alldritt.

A personal shower was given for the bride at the home of Mrs. Jade Addington. Mrs. James Winkle, Diana Wildman and Mrs. Addington were hostesses.

After a honeymoon trip to the Paradise Lake area, the couple will reside at 1748 Linden St., Livermore, where the bridegroom is engaged in assistant pastoral work. He graduated from WABC, Stockton, Calif., in May, where he received his degree in theology.

Set off a clingy knit dress for fall with a chic door-knocker pendant, framed by a sleek rope. Add a hinged bracelet and door-knocker earrings.

The blazer over a soft dress, one of the fall and winter looks, takes drop earrings, a bold link bracelet, plus a stunning bow pin on the lapel. If you want to add something else, select a hi-low necklace.

The jewelry for the new wider pants outfits for fall, according to fashion authorities at Monet: glittery chains around the neck and looped down to the waist; bold button earrings; a big pin plus twin bracelets — one on a wrist.

The medieval look for fall is achieved via a short leather tunic over ribbed tights, fittingly accessorized with a swash-buckling Maltese cross pendant. Button earrings and a hinged bracelet complete the picture.

The dinner suit in the new season abrad is best brightened by a beautiful necklace — say a fringed fall of slim shimmering chains. Matching earrings and a duo of mesh bangles for the wrist complete the outfit.

Try making own cosmetics

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you can follow a recipe, you can stretch the family dollar a little further—by making some cosmetics and toiletries right in the kitchen.

A woman who's been doing just this for two years maintains the only things you probably can't concoct on the homefront are lipsticks, eye makeup, hair coloring brews, and permanent wave lotion.

Beatrice Traven, a New Jersey housewife, tells how in a cosmeticook book "Here's Egg on Your Face" (Pocket Books). In an interview she said she also saves by making acne treatments, suntan lotions and after-bath powders for her five children. And sometimes she makes aftershave lotion for her husband, Dr. Frenc Tibor.

(Traven is a pen-name and so is the name of Tibor, the chemist who helped the housewife to formulate the recipes for cosmeticooks.)

"We didn't write the book to make ourselves famous," Miss Traven said. "We don't want the publicity but we do want to share the recipes."

To keep the identity a secret she's seven refusing invitations to appear on televion talk shows.

Miss Traven said you can buy most of what you need to make cosmetics in the supermarket or drug store at much less than the cost of one jar of $15 face cream.

Miss Traven spends an afternoon a month making most of the preparations her family needs. Sample: using 20 cents worth of aluminum chloride she makes underarm deodorant. Her suntan lotion's base is tea.

"Instant tea is not as effective as regular tea," she said. "There's more tannic acid in regular tea and that's what screens out the sun's burning rays."

"Making your own cosmetics is a great revelation," she said. "It's as though you'd cooked television dinners all your life and suddenly discovered cooking from scratch."

The recipe for perfume goes like this: gather flowers with as little stalk as possible and put them into a jar filled with a bland oil like olive oil or sweet almond oil. Let flowers stand in oil for 24 hours to extract the fragrance. Then filter off blossoms through a coarse cloth, warming the fat slightly if you've used a solid one. Discard spent flowers and repeat the process with fresh blossoms three or four times, gradually increasing the strength of the perfume.

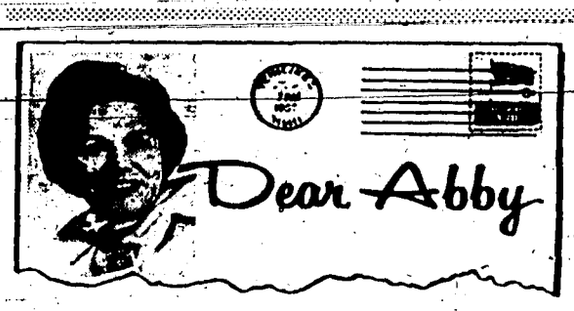

When you've reached the potency you like, mix the fragrant fat with an equal amount of 70 per cent ethanol rubbing alcohol. Put the fat-alcohol mix in a tightly closed bottle and shake vigorously. Let stand a day. Shake again daily. Repeat each day for a week.

Then let fat and alcohol separate. Pour off the now fragrant spirits of alcohol and there you have it—your home-made perfume.

Miss Traven dedicates her book to "all the women in the world who ever held a mysterious cosmetic jar in their hands and wished it weren't so mysterious."

P.S.—Miss Traven's publisher said the chemist who helped the author is a highly respected cosmetics formulator. He got involved in her project two years ago and when the initial experiments were done married her—over a year ago.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a 22-year-old fellow. Jeff is real nice, a clean liver and a considerate person. There's only one thing wrong with him. He has almost a babyish attachment to his mother.

If he's going to be out after midnight he always calls her to let her know because he says she worries about him getting hurt in his car.

Jeff will never make a date with me unless he checks with his mother first to be sure she has something to do because she's a widow and he doesn't want her to be alone.

We can never make plans for Sunday afternoon because he reserves that time to take his mother to visit friends and relatives. [She's an invalid.]

Jeff says he wants to marry me, but I'm afraid I will always play second fiddle to his mother. I need your advice.

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: Grab him. For a peek of how a man will treat his wife, take notice of the way he treats his mother.

DEAR ABBY: After paying five dollars to see a show at our local auditorium I am still burning. I am allergic to smoke, but have never had to ask anyone to stop smoking on my behalf—until today. The woman in question was a chain smoker, and the smoke from her cigaret kept hitting me right in the face.

At intermission I politely asked her if she could switch her cigaret from her left hand to her right hand to alter the path of the smoke. She replied, "No, I can't. I'm left-handed and if the smoke bothers you, you can move!"

Believe me, if I could have found another seat in the five-dollar section I would have moved, but after paying for the seat I didn't feel like moving to the balcony. I was completely nonplussed. Smoking was permitted in all sections of the auditorium for this performance.

What choice has a person who is sensitive to smoke—other than to stay home?

STILL BURNING IN RENO

DEAR STILL: None. Happily, out of consideration for those who cannot tolerate smoke, special sections for nonsmokers are now designated in airplanes. Now if restaurants and other public places were to follow suit, it would be dandy. Most smokers graciously cooperate if nonsmokers complain. Your neighbor at the auditorium was obviously no lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my boy friend is 16. Before we started going together [just a few months ago] Burton went steady with a girl named Jenny for three years. He broke up with Jenny because he liked me more.

Last weekend I went to the family cabin with Burton and his parents. I had a very nice time except that Burton's parents kept calling me Jenny. It got very embarrassing, but I didn't feel like correcting them, so I just let it go.

I guess it didn't bother Burton, or he didn't feel like correcting them either, because he didn't say anything. What should have been done in a case like that? NOT JENNY

DEAR NOT: Since Burton didn't set his parents straight, you should have. [Respectfully, of course.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOEY: If your wife really doesn't care how late you come home it's later than you think.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Safety check heating equipment for winter

TWIN FALLS — With cooler temperatures, many residents are starting their home heating systems or planning to do so, Fire Chief Bobby K. Bopp said today, in reminding residents defective heating and cooking equipment cause 79,300 fires each year in the United States.

In Twin Falls, he said, 26 home fires resulted last year from such conditions. Bopp urged residents to have their heating equipment, flues, chimneys and other heating equipment checked. He suggested they contact a qualified heating contractor to make certain the units will operate safely through the coming winter months.

During warm weather, Bopp said, a furnace room often becomes a storage area and the furnace is surrounded by piles of combustible material.

Former resident marries

TWIN FALLS — Debra K. Tolley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Tolley, Caldwell, former Twin Falls residents, was married to Steven R. McCain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. McCain, Namps, in rites Aug. 18 at the Caldwell Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes, Twin Falls.

Rev. John Harland performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of pink chrysanthemums and gladioli accented with white daisies and greenery. The pews were marked with green and yellow satin ribbons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white nylon lace, fashioned with a scooped neckline and long lily point sleeves. The fitted waitline was enhanced with a wide cummerbund. Her floor-length weil was enhanced with appliques of white daisies.

She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and yellow roses.

Becky Ann Tolley, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, with Leona Judy, Pocatello, as bridesmaid.

Jim Knapp, Nampa, was best man. Ushers were Doug Killman, Rick Brewster and John McCain, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with the Debonaire of Boise catering the event. Mrs. Jerry Finn, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Reed Brown, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Arnold Knapp serving cake.

Guests were registered by Maureen McCain, sister of the bridegroom, and gifts were displayed by Debbie McCain, sister of the bridegroom.

Out-of-town guests attended from California, Washington, Twin Falls, Boise, Pocatello, Nampa and Mountain Home.

The couple took a wedding trip to the Oregon coast and will reside in Pocatello, where both are seniors at Idaho State University. Both will be graduated at the end of the first semester.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at the Thoroughbred Restaurant.

MRS. STEVEN R. McCAIN

A forest fire is a dreadful, awesome sight. It flashes up hills and down ravines. It welcomes wind for then it can jump roads and streams. Its roar as it feeds upon our forests is unique among nature's sounds. However, most forest fires have a human element — you. If you are careful in our forests, fire will rarely have a chance to start.

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER

TWIN FALLS — The other day a lady asked me, "What should I look for when buying a study lamp?" This opens a whole new area for discussion and with the beginning of another school year this seems a most appropriate time to begin a series on the subject of lighting.

After I was asked this question I did some shopping to find out what is available in good study lamps, only to find there is a sad lack of those that can qualify in this category. Oh! There are plenty of lamps — you can find them in all styles, but not approved study lamps. Why? Because people do not buy them. And why not? Simply because we do not know the principles of good lighting, so we buy style or popularity rather than good lighting.

A baby begins life with good eyes, in all but a few cases, but by the time he reaches forty — what then of his seeing ability? It was found by the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness that in occupations involving close work like those of stenographers and draftsmen over 80 per cent had defective vision. Nearly all of our difficult visual work of today is done indoors at close range, under a small fraction of the amount of light found out-of-doors, and under other poor conditions.

Good lighting is one of the most important, yet one of the most neglected aspects of home beauty, safety and comfort. Surveys show that less than 1 per cent of the homes in America are adequately lighted. Does yours rate in this 1 per cent or do you know? If lighting is so important why is so little emphasis placed on it and such a small allowance for lighting fixtures in a new home? To get good lighting the homeowner must be able to define his lighting needs to the builder. So if we are to know what to ask for, we need some basic knowledge.

There are three types of lighting:

No. 1. General — a moderate level of background lighting throughout the room. General illumination should be inconspicuous and subtle. It is the background glow that makes a room look and feel comfortable.

No. 2. Local — lighting for specific seeing tasks such as reading, sewing, food preparation.

No. 3. Decorative — lighting which creates focal points which emphasize pictures and other art objects. Some fixtures are, in themselves, considered art objects.

It is difficult to lay down hard and fast rules to cover all of the various phases of home lighting. It should be remembered that some light throughout the whole room is advisable, then add local light to be directed to the task you are doing. It will depend on your own individual family needs. Tasks which do not require much eye use can get by with less light while such things as reading, sewing, studying and hobbies will require a great deal more.

A Lovelier You

GOOD LOOKS, HOMEGROWN

By Mary Sue Miller

Some women go out to work. Some labor in the home. More and more do both.

In spite of rumblings to the contrary, a homemaker is greatly valued by her family. Not only for her ministrations but also for her attractive presence. However, that fact sometimes seems to slip her mind. It surely has when she uses frumpy odds-and-ends or discarded street clothes for home wear or work.

The practice causes her to look like Cinderella in cast-offs. Besides, such clothes are constructed neither for safety nor comfort on home grounds. "Work-wear" should combine flatterability, practicability and washability. Like so:

- Colorful drip dry coats and skimmers for breakfasting and light tasks.
- For heavy chores, sturdy smocks or pants.
- Supporting foundation garments — not cramping, but certainly not stretched.
- Well-fitted flat or low-heeled shoes, with a firm arch support. For "operation ladder," shoes with non-skid soles. Slovenly shoes threaten your safety and ruin your legs.
- To protect your hair from dust, pretty scarves smartly tied. Plus work gloves for your hands. A dash of lipstick of course.

And do try to coordinate house clothes. It is quite as easy to assemble complementary colors as a hodgepodge. Results look niftier and changes multiply thereby. You've got job appeal!

Idaho story has publication date

TWIN FALLS — "Those Idaho Elk," written by Don Bressette, Twin Falls, will be published in Western Outdoors, a nationally circulated magazine this November or December issue.

Bressette wrote the story from his experiences on an elk and deer hunting trip in the Copper Basin area the fall of 1969. He said the story will be accompanied by several photos of he and his partner on the trip.

His idea to write the story came after an accident that almost took his life. He was foreman on the Diamond Dragon Ranch south of Bellevue when a horse threw him and fell on his back while herding cattle. He had to have back surgery twice, once in October, 1969 and in April, 1971. He wrote "Those Idaho Elk" while he was laid up between operations.

Bressette said he has two more stories in the works, both full-length books. One will be a modern-day western and the second a book about his boyhood in New England.

Lincoln county appraiser dismissed in tax dispute

SHOSHONE — An appraiser in Lincoln County has been dismissed and a replacement hired as a dispute over the county's reappraisal program erupted anew, it was reported Saturday.

County Assessor Sanford Connell said he dismissed Ed Messenger, tax appraiser, Friday, and replaced him with Rev. James Holt, a Baptist minister who has been working part time on Connell's farm.

The dispute involved a request from Floyd Silva, chairman of the Tax Equality League, for a file on the appraisal of his property. Silva said he needed the file on appraisal of his real property in order to complete an appeal to the State Board of Appeals regarding his newly established assessed valutaion. Messenger denied him the files, Silva said, Connell said he requested the file from Messenger and was also denied.

Saturday Silva said he had requested the file again Friday afternoon from Connell after learning Messenger had been discharged. Silva said Connell told him he could not have the file without a court order.

In explaining his need for the appraisal information, Silva said he does not believe there is anything irregular about the file but rather the whole matter is a case of the appraiser being stubborn about yielding when he feels the information should not be open to the taxpayers.

Connell said he had asked for a clarification on the matter from Don Lovelahd, chairman, Idaho Tax Commission, and was told in the opinion of the tax commission any taxpayer is entitled to the information concerning assessment placed on his property. Connell said he then requested the file from Messenger and was refused and as a result dismissed the appraiser.

"The action I feel will ease the tension among county taxpayers over the and clarify the question of who is running the county reappraisal," Connell said.

Numerous community meetings have been held this summer with the county Tax League reactivated to oppose the reappraisal program. The program is part of a state-wide reappraisal designed to establish uniform valuations on the basis of true market value in all counties of the state and equalize taxpayer burdens in all counties.

Messenger has been working on the reappraisal program the past year and is a trained appraiser. Lincoln County appraisals are reportedly well below those in some neighboring counties and taxpayers there are discovering the reappraisal increases their assessed valuation by above average amounts, it has been pointed out in taxpayer meetings.

The reappraisals began under the administration of Shirley Tews, assessor, who hired Messenger to direct the program. She resigned about a year ago and moved from the county. At that time the county commissioners appointed Connell to fill the vacancy and he was elected in the 1970 general election.

Connell said two of the three county commissioners have stated they support his action in replacing Messenger.

Fat stock sale concludes fair

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — The 4-H and FFA fat stock sale and awards assembly climaxed the Minidoka county fair Saturday afternoon, with youthful owners of the prize winning livestock entries receiving top prices at the sale.

The three-day fair concluded Saturday night, but pari mutuel horse racing continues Sunday and Monday at the fairgrounds here. Post time is 2 p.m.

The grand champion swine, owned by Henry Sabin, weighed 224 pounds and sold for $1.82 per pound to the Burley Livestock Commission Co. for a total of $407.

Skaggs Furniture, Burley, paid $3.25 per pound for the grand champion sheep, owned by Brian Humphrey. The animal, which weights 114 pounds, brought $364.

The grand champion beef, owned by Lee Harrison, weighed 885 pounds and was purchased by Shelby's Foodliner, Burley, at $1.05 per pound for a total price of $957.60.

There were 14 swine, 61 sheep and 44 beef animals, all blue and red ribbon winners in the 4-H and FFA fair, sold at the fat stock sale Saturday afternoon.

A registered Holstein heifer, owned by Rod Merrigan, sold for $710 at the sale. He had shown the heifer last year and this is the first time an animal project has been kept for two successive years and entered in the Minidoka fair, according to County Agent LaMont Smith. He said several other youths are keeping their animals and will enter them next year.

Another first for the Minidoka county fair this year was the inclusion of an open class produce division. The fair consists primarily of 4-H and FFA projects.

Mormon visitor center dedicated

NAUVOO, Ill. (UPI) — An estimated 1,200 persons came to this west-central Illinois town on the Mississippi River Saturday for the dedication of a Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints visitors' center, a key building in the restoration of the historic old Mormon community.

The $1 million, two-story visitors' center, built from handmade brick, is "the heart of the interpretation of the sage of Nauvoo," said Delbert L. Stapley of Salt Lake City, a church elder and main speaker at the two-hour ceremony.

"The displays in this visitors' center illustrate the forces that organized the Mormon people and brought them here to settle in 1839, motivated them to build a large city with its unique temple, and then abandon it rather than foresake their spiritual convictions and ideals," Stapley said.

The Mormon Church has been the main backer of a multi-million dollar program of restoration of old homes and buildings in Nauvoo, the city which the Mormons left to begin their historic trek westward behind Brigham Young.

David Kennedy, former U.S. Secretary of the Treasury and now an ambassador at large for the Nixon administration, said the story of the Mormons in Nauvoo tells "of a prophet and people who were taught faith and hard work and the principles that made this country what it is today."

Driven from Missouri, the Mormons under the leadership of Joseph Smith settled at Nauvoo and in seven years built it into a city of 11,000, the largest in Illinois at that time and one of the 20 biggest in the nation.

But in 1844, Smith was killed in a jail cell at nearby Carthage, Ill. Two years later the majority of Mormons abandoned Nauvoo and followed Young West to what is now Salt Lake City.

In the last 10 years, the Mormon Church has purchased nearly 3,000 acres of land in Nauvoo, now a sleepy community of about 1,500, and restored more than a dozen of the homes and businesses to look as they did when the city flourished. The restoration has made Nauvoo a growing tourist center.

J. Leroy Kimball, a Salt Lake City physician and founder of the restoration movement, described the development as "an example of what can be done with the effort of public spirited men and women interested in preserving our American heritage and those things that make this nation great."

Inside the visitors' center is a model of the church temple at Nauvoo, a huge and intricately designed building that was the city landmark in the mid 1840s. It was one of the few buildings not included in the restoration plans.

Warns over misuse

BERLIN (UPI) — Erich Honecker, first secretary of the East German Communist party, warned the West Saturday against misuse of the Berlin traffic routes under the new Big Four agreement on the city.

"It goes without saying that, as is customary internationally, the traffic routes are not to be misused and the existing public order in the (East) German Democratic Republic must be observed," he said in an interview carried by the East German news service ADN.

Western Allied diplomatic sources said his statement could foreshadow trouble in the East-West German talks to implement the agreement. The talks will begin Monday in Berlin and Bonn.

Nixon repaying help, ADA says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) charged Saturday that the 92nd Congress has been diverted from consideration of major postwar social questions by "President Nixon's report to repay the business community for their support."

"Two administration bills with virtually nothing to recommend them — government support for the SST (supersonic transport) and the failing Lockheed Corporation — received the major share of the administration's lobbying efforts for this session," the ADA said in its periodic report on Congress.

"The issues for which ADA has consistently fought, programs that speak to the needs of people rather than property, are the very ones the administration has neglected," the ADA said. "This administration's values make it imperative that ADA and other liberals shape and enact legislation which does meet the needs of people."

While encouraged by significant reform in the House, the ADA criticized "the poor performance of the new House democratic leadership and its failure to be responsive to the national Democratic majority." It cited the failure of Speaker Carl Albert and House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs to vote with the Democratic majority on two antiwar ammendments.

The ADA said that eight potential Democratic presidential candidates scored at least 85 per cent in its ratings for the first session of the 92nd Congress.

The ADA said, however, that two other potential candidates earned poor ratings. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., scored 38 and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., 20.

Sens. George SM McGovern, D-S.D.; Birch Bay, D-Ind.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, all scored 100. Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and William Proxmire, D-Wis., were rated 92, and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., 85.

The lone Republican presidential challenger, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., earned 55.

In all, nine senators — all Democrats — earned 100 per cent ratings, the others including Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.; Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.; Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.; Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill.

Nine senators — all Republicans — scored zero. They were Sens. Howard H. Baker Jr. and William E. Brock III, R-Tenn.; Norris Cotton, R-N.H.; Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., the GOP national chairman; Paul N. Fannin, R-Ariz.; Romand Hruska, R-Neb.; J. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and John G. Tower, R-Tex.

The ADA based its rating on such votes as the supersonic transport, an amendment to prohibit the use of federal funds for busing school children for desegregation purposes, an amendment to deny food stamps to strikers, and an amendment to place a ceiling on Defense Department procurement.

O. Barratt, 80, dies at Bellevue

BELLEVUE — Ora Erl Barratt, Sr., 80, resident of Bellevue since 1950, died Saturday in his home after a long illness.

Funeral services will be announced by Bird Funeral Home.

Tuttle man gets award

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, received an award Friday from the American Association for Conservation Information in recognition of six years of service. Ravenscroft, president of the Idaho Sportsmen Council for the past six years, received the award from acting Director Robert Salter, Boise.

In other action at the annual summer meeting, the council voted to continue its "Idaho respect day" program where by hunerts purchase patches and agree to respect private property.

The council also approved support for legislation now pending in congress that would designate the fourth Saturday in September of each year as "national hunting and fishing day."

Bank eyes branch at Hagerman

BUHL — The Farmers National bank of Buhl has applied for permission to establish a branch bank at Hagerman.

Dave Nicholson, Hagerman, director of the bank, and J.P. Hamilton, president, said this is the third application of their bank for a branch in Hagerman. They previously applied for a motor branch in November, 1967, and a permanent branch in September, 1968.

The bank officials said their re-application was encouraged by the many commercial and agriculture accounts which the bank currently services from the Buhl office.

Results of an economic survey made by the bank indicate an increased population growth and larger annual gross dollar volume of business arising from fish sales, dairy and farm produce sales created by the Bell Rapids project, Hamilton said.

If the bank is permitted to operate a branch in Hagerman, the firm will construct or lease new quarters and will offer "full service" banking, the president said.

Landing systems approved

The board chairman said work of replacing much of Runway 25 at the field is progressing and that as things stand now it would be ready for use about Oct. 1.

"This will give us a 7,200 foot modern jet runway that engineers tell us will need only minimum maintenance for the next 10 years. At that time an overlay would assure an active life of another 10 years," Kelker said.

He said a new composition floor in the terminal building will be put down, probably this week. New waiting room seats were added previously.

Next year's program, already government approved, will see new taxi strips and a new ramp completed.

"Completion of this work, together with the instrument landing system would make the Twin Falls City-County Airport the most modern in the intermountain country," he said.

Valley rests on holiday

TWIN FALLS — Many Magic Valley residents headed for their favorite recreation areas and fishing streams to spend the Labor Day weekend, the last long holiday of the summer.

State police said traffic was heavy and had been since Friday afternoon. As of late Saturday, accidents had been of a minor nature. Many campers and small trailers were reported pulling into mountain campsites Friday and Saturday and sunny skies encouraged late season boaters, fishermen and campers.

All schools, business offices, federal, state and local government offices, along with most stores, will remain closed until Tuesday morning. Students who started school this past Monday were enjoying their first long holiday weekend of the year.

State police said traffic has been orderly and said full forces are on duty to encourage observance of traffic regulations. Officers asked motorists to maintain caution through Monday night and to start their trips home in time to avoid the pressure of rushing and having to remain on the highway when tired.

For Twin Falls County residents, the weekend offered many county fair exhibitors an opportunity to prepare for judging which begins at Filer Tuesday. Most Twin Falls County workers will receive another holiday, at least of a half-day on Thursday or Friday during the fair.

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the city hall.

Senate seat bid decision looming

"I would say that has to be a very great possibility because we are both interested in seeing that this Senatorial seat is filled by a Republican. Preliminary indications from the contacts I have made, and I'm sure Orval finds the same is true, show we are a couple of the leading contenders for the Senate seat and have the greatest amount of support. The being so, one or the other of us will get into the race. But I say again, certainly not both of us," Cong. McClure said.

During the discussion Cong. McClure said he did not anticipate "a great groundswell of demand and I am not waiting for any great groundswell of demand, but I don't want to jump into the race if it doesn't have the approval of a great number of people. I think that so far my reaction has been favorable."

He said the look he was taking during his tour of this area, which ended Saturday when he returned to Washington from Boise, was "very serious."

"As a matter of fact I'm taking more than just a look at it. I'm testing the water, as they say," Cong. McClure said.

Cong. McClure did not indicate when an announcement of the decision between he and Cong. Hansen would be made, whether immediately after the Sept. 13 meeting or at a later date. Cong. Hansen will be in Geneva, Switzerland this week in connection with his post as Congressional advisor to the Fourth International United Nations international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy. He is a member of the joint committee on atomic energy.

Protestants demand arms against IRA

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Protestant civilians demanded arms from the government Saturday to fight the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), which was blamed for three more deaths in escalating violence in Northern Ireland.

The deaths of a British soldier and two civilians Saturday raised to 40 the number of persons killed in sectarian street fighting and terrorist attacks since Aug. 9, when the government began arresting IRA suspects and imprisoning them without trial.

The toll for the 24-hour period ending at midafternoon Saturday was five dead and 38 injured. One of the dead was a 17-month-old girl shot from a speeding car Friday as she was playing with her sister in a Roman Catholic section of Belfast.

Sixty-seven persons have been killed this year.

A British army spokesman said Trooper John Leslie Warnock, 18, was killed and two other soldiers injured Saturday when their scout car hit a mine at Bessbrook near the border with the Republic of Ireland.

Ky denies his threat to Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) The office of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky denied Saturday that Ky had threatened to "destroy" President Nguyen Van Thieu if the chief executive attempted to set up a dictatorship after South Vietnam's presidential elections next month.

The denial was considered by political observers and correspondents here, however, as a routine statement issued for the benefit of Vietnamese-language newspapers, which are regularly confiscated or ordered to suspend publication by the government for publishing inflammatory stories.

Thieu is unopposed for reelection to a second four-year term as president Oct. 3. Ky and retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh both withdrew from the presidential race, charging that Thieu had rigged it.

Ky met with a group of newsmen Friday night at his villa and told them he would not allow Thieu to establish a one-man form of dictatorial rule in South Vietnam.

"I am going to destroy him (Thieu) and all of his clique," Ky told the newsmen. "If I believe by destroying Thieu I can remove a dictator and help my country and my people, then I'm going to do it and I am capable of doing it tonight or tomorrow."

Deadline listed

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Air Force will pull half of its 80-plane strike force of supersonic Phantom fighter-bombers out of South Vietnam by Dec. 1, military sources said Saturday.

The 40 swept-wing F4 Phantoms of the 12th Tactical Fighter Wing will be sent home as part of the curren phase of President Nixon's withdrawal program. The wing was stationed at Phu Cat Air Base, which will be transferred to the South Vietnamese, the sources said.

On the battle front Saturday, two American jet fighters attacked an antiaircraft gun in North Vietnam as the gun prepared to fire at other aircraft flying a bombing mission over Laos, the U.S. Command said. It was the 55th "protective reaction" strike this year in North Vietnam, source said.

Mountain bills' approval seen

"So far as the peaks are concerned I think it is important to deal with the Sawtooth peaks separately from the White Cloud peaks. First, they are both mountains, but secondly, and more important, we have a very accurate inventory of what is in the Sawtooths but we do not yet have that inventory of what is in the White Clouds.

"The White Cloud studies are under way but it will be over a year before the field work is done, let alone until the reports are ready. Because of this I believe the two areas should be treated in separate legislation. I don't think it is fair to the people of Idaho to have so many unknown factors involved as were involved when we were talking about the peaks last year.

"Will hunting be permitted or will it not? Will grazing be permitted, and in what areas and under what conditions? Which would be park and which would be recreation area? These were not known when we were discussing this legislation last year because they were variable. I think the people ought to have a specific proposal to look at, to study and to evaluate. They can't [illegible] know," Cong. McClure said.

JUDY KENDRICK, drum majorette of the 42-piece Filer High School marching band, shows her baton and costume. The band will play nightly at the Twin Falls County Fair Wednesday through Sept. 11 and also has appeared at a number of other recent events.

Filer band set for 'fair' play

FILER — Good performances mean long practices and the Filer High School Marching Band has been seizing every opportunity for practices it can, in preparation for performances it will give each night at the Twin Falls County Fair, Sept. 8-11.

The group comes to school to practice early before classes every morning and also takes advantage of the noon hour and other spare moments.

Russell Terrell is band director for the 42-member group. Ron Wright is band president; Jim Deitrick, vice president; Cindy Miller, point secretary; Janice Shepherd, librarian, and Judy Kendrick, drum majorette.

The band marched at the recent national High School Rodeo held in Filer and performs at every home athletic game. It has again been asked to march in the Fairyland Parade at Boise this fall and will participate in the district four music festival. Concerts by the group will be presented at Christmas, the spring awards concert, and a special pops event.

A special pep band is made up of a portion of the marching band.

Jerome prepares for airport vote

JEROME — An election to create a regional airport authority will be held in Jerome County Oct. 26, according to Mrs Ella McVey, county auditor.

She said this week that she had been notified by the state of the election date which will be under the control and supervision of the county commissioners.

She said approval of the authority will create a new taxing unit in Jerome county.

Details of the election have not yet been worked, she noted, and polling places and time of the election will be announced later.

Mrs. McVey said Idaho election laws have been revised to include persons who will become 18 years old at this time or will be 18 before any regular election.

"Now is the time for students who plan to go out of the country for any length of time to come into the county's clerk office at the courthouse and register," Mrs. McVey said. She noted that the new materials are presently ready for use.

Any other persons who are not registered at this time may also call at the clerk's office and complete the registration card, Mrs. McVey said.

Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black has been hospitalized at Bethesda Naval Hospital to undergo treatment for unspecified reasons, it was announced Thursday.

Black, at 85, the oldest of the nine-member high court in both age and years of service, in the past has been troubled with spinal arthritis and failing eyesight, family friends said.

Not included

TWIN FALLS — Victor Deahl, Twin Falls president of the Magic Valley Trail Machine Association, said today a report of trail machine associations assisting with the Slaughterhouse Rock Festival at Bellevue does not include the Magic Valley organization.

He said his association's membership was not in any way involved with the festival or with traffic in the Bellevue area during the festival.

Rodeo producer now on crutches

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

FILER — Reg Kesler, Canadian Rodeo producer, recently broke a leg at the Calgary Stampede and since that time has been directing his show from the arena on a pair of crutches instead of his faithful horse.

The Calgary Stampede is but one of the many places for which he furnishes rodeo stock from his very large stock which includes 250 head of horses, 50 bulls, 100 steers, 120 calves, six livestock trucks and a complete line of rodeo and parade equipment including ten good pick-up horses and 20 parade mounts.

This is the third year Kesler has produced the rodeo in conjunction with the Twin Falls County Fair, to be held Sept. 8-11. His outstanding stock and excellent management contribute a great deal to the fair and rodeo's growth and success, according to Tom Shouse, secretary-manager.

Kesler keeps his stock and equipment on ranches at Missoula, Mont., and Rosemary, Alberta. The Miller Creek Ranch at Missoula consists of a ranch headquarters, first class rodeo arena and 10,000 acres of leased range land. The arena is the spot for the annual Oral Zumwalt Memorial Rodeo. The Rosemary ranch consists of 24,000 acres of deeded and leased land and on these are kept 300 head of Hereford cattle in addition to the rodeo stock.

This year marks Kesler's 21st year in the rodeo business. From spring until late fall his company has a contract to fulfill almost every weekend. He believes in purchasing good bucking stock and in taking good care of his animals. As he states, "Excellent care keeps my horses and bulls from aging fast." One of his best horses Hat Rack, was purchased for $100 19 years ago and co-named because he was so thin. "You could hang your hat anywhere on him."

Since that time Kesler has refused $3,000 for the horse.

JEROME — Ted Diehl, manager of the North Side Canal Co., announces the appointment of Warren Hart as hydrographer-engineer.

Hart was born in Twin Falls and graduated from Filer High School.

Farmers Union raps Nixon plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Farmers Union, after taking several weeks to ponder President Nixon's dramatic new economic policies, has decided to view the President's package with chilly scorn.

"Under the plan, the rich will continue to get richer," the NFU said in a newsletter.

Other farm organizations have given the Nixon plan a friendlier reception. The National Grange, for example, sent the President a message of praise. The big American Farm Bureau Federation pledged cooperation, though voicing reservations about the new import surcharge and making plain it considered cuts in federal spending of basic importance in attacking the causes of inflation.

But the NFU, in its free-swinging blast, charged "the absurdities surrounding this new economic game plan know no bounds."

"The President calls for more jobs, but abolishes government jobs. Additional spending is urged, not to end hunger and hardship but to buy more luxuries such as Detroit automobiles," the farm group said.

The NFU conceded Nixon's action to cut the value of the U.S. dollar abroad will help farm exports.

But it complained the 10 per cent import surcharge will invite foreign retaliation against American exports.

"The (price-wage freeze) is shot through with deception," the NFU added, charging that exemption of raw farm products from the freeze was meaningless because processors will hold farm prices down in order to protect their profit margins."

Nevada agency stopped

WASHINGTON — Western States Livestock Marketing Center of Nevada, Inc., operators of a stockyard at Fallon, Nev., has been suspended as a registered market agency and livestock dealer for violating trust accounts and accounting requirements under the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today.

The firm which is registered as a livestock dealer and as a market agency to sell livestock on a commission basis in commerce, drew livestock from southern Idaho, northern California and throughout Nevada.

Bull said largest in Holstein breed

WINTON, Cal. — Dam of Lazy L Skyliner Wallie, latest addition to the Genetcis, Inc., bull battery, is considered by many to be the largest cow in the Holstein breed.

"That fact is only one of the bright spots in the life of this 4-year-old Idaho bred bull," reports Dr. Harold J. Schmidt, president of the Hughson, Calif., headquarterd artificial breeding company.

"Wallie," now known as 24H220, was purchased from two Idaho dairymen, Reed Lewis, Rupert, and Raymond Lane, Meridian. The latter has since sold his herd and moved to Colorado Springs, Colo.

Besides Dr. Schmidt, two other Genetics Breeding consultants, John McKitrick and Bob Strickler, report that "Wallie" daughters are a "vast improvement in type over their dams."

Sired by Gray View Skyliner, with a plus P. D. of plus 581 lb. milk, "Wallie" is out of Will-K Stylemaster Wanda, who classified "Ex" as a 12-year-old.

"Wallie" has an unofficial production record based on nine daughters in two herds that shows a plus 2,866 lb. milk and plue 68 lb. fat actual increase over herdmates, for an unofficial P.D. of plus 570 lb. milk, plus 15 lb. fat, 19 per cent repeatability.

Tobacco use rises

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Although broadcast media were forced to abandon cigarette advertising as a major source of revenue at the first of the year, consumption of tobacco products has continued to rise, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cigarette consumption from January through April by domestic and military smokers climbed three per cent over the levels of the same period in 1970, the USDA's statistical report indicated.

Major factors in the continuing increase were the introduction of several new cigarette brands last year, a leveling-off of retail prices and advance buying by wholesalers in anticipation of tax increaes.

With the 1971 crop predicted to slump nine per cent from the 1970 total, of 1.9 billion pounds, U. S. manufacturers and exporters may purchase a larger proportion of the overall crop this year.

Farmer exists because of great efficiency

GREELY, Colo. — Today's farmer is managing to stay in business in the face of low net income only because of his spectacular efficiency and increased productivity, but this situation cannot continue indefinitely, William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said today.

"We as farmers and ranchers are proud of our accomplishments in feeding the nation as well as meeting some of the food needs of our foreign neighbors, but we are concerned at the same time about the future of our industry caught in a continuing cost-price squeeze," he said.

Output per man hour in agriculture, Kuhfuss said, in the past decade has increased twice as fast as in industry.

However, the increased efficiency and higher farm output have meant higher out-of-pocket expenses for farmers, Kuhfuss explained.

"Farmers and ranchers have had to increase their purchased inputs such as fertilizers, chemicals, machinery and other equipment. These inputs make up more than half of the total resources that are used in farming and explain why farmers are so hard hit by spiraling inflation."

Net farm income in the first half of 1971, Kuhfuss reported, calculated at an annual rate of $14.7 billion, was nearly 14 percent below the $17 billion annual rate for the same period in 1970. Gross farm receipts averaged about the same as a year ago, but higher production costs cut net income to a three-year low.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Kuhfuss said, predicts better income prospects for the second half of 1971, especially for livestock producers, but there are other factors which may have adverse effects on net income.

"Our ability to maintain or increase our farm exports could have an important influence on net farm income," Kuhfuss said, "and the outlook is somewhat blurred by current developments.

"For example, the prolonged West Coast dock strike could have serious effects on 1971 farm exports, and also for the future. Foreign markets lost as a result of the strike may never be regained. There also is the threat of a strike at Gulf ports by Oct. 1.

Bellevue fest begins late, attendance low

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer

BELLEVUE — The Wood River Rock Festival started at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, 24 hours after its announced starting time and several thousand fans short of pre-festival estimates.

Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler, who spent several hours at the scene, said Saturday afternoon there had been no trouble with the fans. He voiced hope that things would remain calm.

Pacific Gas and Electric, a Los Angeles-based rock-music group, climbed a makeshift bandstand Saturday afternoon and began sending its music out across Slaughterhouse Gulch to about 900 fans gathered at the site.

For the most part the crowd was quiet. Fans sat on blankets, listening to the music while drinking beer and wine and smoking marijuana. Only one incident marred the opening hours of the event.

Radio personality and festival master of ceremonies Wolfman Jack became involved in a shouting match with two bare-chested female fans. After a short time, the announcer left the platform, pleading for "peace and happiness."

Generally, the crowd was appreciative of the musicians, at times standing to clap and dance with the music. Several fans, however, expressed disappointment that the start of the festival had been so long delayed. At least one demanded his money back, saying "All there's been is stalling."

Festival backers made an abortive attempt to get the show under way Friday night. Pacific Gas and Electric performed for a short time, but left the stage when a public-address system proved inadequate due to lack of power.

Virgil Gonzales, a saxophonist for Pacific Gas, said Saturday "We did a set last night but the equipment was bad. I feel sorry for the people here. It's very disorganized and bad for business."

Festival officials said Saturday they had lowered the price of admission from $15 to $10, and planned to drop it further to $5 today, in an attempt to boost attendance.

The number moving into the site was not large, but officials declined to estimate the crowd size.

Concession stands were set up at the site and began dispensing hot dogs for 50 cents each, cigarettes for 50 cents a pack and soda and corn on the cob for 25 cents.

Lawrence A. Boyd, owner of the land on which the festival was held, commended law enforcement officials on Saturday for their cooperation. On Friday, he had blasted several local groups, saying "I've had a gutful of these little, narrow-minded pipsqueak acts."

State Adjutant General George Bennett and a group of eight National Guardsmen with three helicopters were stationed at the nearby Hailey airport. They were making surveillance flights over the area at regular intervals.

"We are here to support the sheriff, as he requested," Bennett said.

State police officials beefed up local law enforcement agencies for the event, sending 10 troopers into the area to complement the usual state forces.

Several hundred fans spent Friday night huddled on the floor of Slaughterhouse Gulch as temperatures dipped into the 30s. Ticket - takers reported a brisk business into the early hours of Saturday morning.

Blaine County is one of several in Idaho to adopt wine sales in grocery stores.

According to several fans, drugs were in the hands of many people but there was little selling. One young man said, "Most people are bringing their own stuff in."

He said, "The prices are too high any way, about $2.50 for a cap of acid (LSD) and $10 for a lid of marijuana (two ounces).

As of Saturday evening, the festival had drawn nearly 1,000 young people, tourists and curiosity seekers. Several thousand had been expected to attend. The scene was peaceful with no trouble. Several stands were set up, with corn on the cob, soft drinks and cigarettes for sale.

Anyone who needed a "hit" of wine was able to get it easily and full bottles could be purchased from those with a large supply. Hits from both wine and marijuana cigarettes were being given freely.

None of the young people at the festival said they had been bothered by the townspeople or by the law.

One young boy with long blond hair who seemed to have had more than his share of wine said most of the local people are "actually being friendly."

He ended the conversation saying, "It's a good thing to happen, have a hit of wine and peace."

Youths at fest lament lack of prime requirement, music

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Staff Writer

BELLEVUE — "You can't have a rock festival without music," is the consensus of the young people invading Slaughterhouse Gulch north of here for the Wood River Rock Festival this weekend.

The young people, numbering nearly 1,000 by late Saturday afternoon, generally agreed the rock fest was a good idea.

One young man from the Hailey area who claimed to be 16 years of age, but appeared to be about 13 or 14, said between swigs of strawberry and apple wine, "It is the second day of the festival and we really haven't heard any music yet."

"Right now, the festival is a drag," he said, "but it would help if the music would start when they say it would."

The music was scheduled to begin at noon Saturday but was delayed for numerous reasons until around 2 p.m.

The boy's sister, who he claimed to be 11 years old, said if Jack Teater, promoter, would get all of his stuff together, everything would work out. She added if Teater were smart he would have dropped ticket prices and had the bands playing sooner.

It was noted every time a certain make of vehicle drove past the area, the girl would dive into the hay bale "castle" in which the group was staying. Her brother explained, "Our old lady is paranoid about her (the 11-year-old girl) being up here."

Many of the festival goers interviewed agreed there was not much else to do over the weekend but come to the festival.

One man, about 25 years of age, and his attractive wife, said they would probably spend more in a bar in one night than they are spending at Slaughterhouse Gulch. He said the gatekeepers let them in for $5 each.

"We told the guy at the gate that was all the money we had," he said.

He said the $5 was better than climbing over the top of the hill.

Drugs have not been as prevalent at the rockfest as many had expected.

Wine is the big "high" for those at the festival. Many gallons have been consumed along with large amounts of beer. Local grocery store personnel say they have had record wine sales in the past few days.

Decision on Teater's arrest not reached, attorney says

HAILEY — Blaine County Prosecuting Attorney Stephen W. Boller said Saturday "no decision" had been reached on the possible arrest of Jack Teater, sponsor of the Wood River Rock Festival at Bellevue.

The county had gone to court in an attempt to overrule a motion from Teater that the county should be restrained from enforcing an ordinance controlling the festival. Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward ruled on Wednesday that Teater was free to continue his plans.

The event started Saturday, about 24 hours late.

Judge Ward's ruling exempted Teater from compliance with the provisions of the Blaine County ordinance calling for a 30-day advance registration of a large gathering. At the same time, the judge upheld several other provisions of the county ordinance.

Teater admittedly had failed to comply with some provisions of the ordinance. He said Friday "I expect to get busted (arrested) Saturday."

Lloyd Webb, Twin Falls, Teater's attorney, commented Friday, however, that "I don't think there'll be an indictment."

Webb said Teater had not applied for a license with the county for the weekend festival, and therefore could not be held responsible for compliance with any other provisions of the ordinance.

"If we don't have a license, there can be no violations," he said.

Rudolf Barchas, Twin Falls, an associate of Webb's, said his client had posted an indemnity bond with the county on Friday, as the ordinance required. He declined to release the amount of the bond.

He denied Teater intended to comply with the county ordinance, however. "We did it (posted the bond) as an act of good faith," Barchas said. "We're willing to do things we don't have to do."

Barchas said he had conferred briefly on Friday with Boller and John C. Fox, Blaine County commission chairman.

"I advised them that I thought an arrest would be illegal," the attorney said.

Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler said Saturday that in the event of an arrest, he would be the arresting officer. But, he said, "The prosecutor will have to decide."

Technically, for Teater to be arrested, either the sheriff or the county commission would have to swear out a complaint against him, and take it to the county magistrate, who would then issue a warrant for Teater's arrest. The arresting officer would be required to serve the warrant.

Some come to spread word about Krishna, happiness

Das

BELLEVUE — Not everyone in Slaughterhouse Gulch Saturday was there to hear the sound of rock music.

Patraka Das was there to spread the message of the International Society of Krishna Consciousness and Hare Krishna.

Das and several of the followers fanned out into the festival site explaining their movement and their message. Dressed in ankle-length flowing robes and beach sandals, their heads shaved except for a long tuft of hair extending down the back of their heads, they were easily recognizable.

"Hare Krishna chanting comes from an ancient form of Yoga," Das explained, to a group of fans. "You begin to realize the soul. The soul links with the source of happiness which is Krishna, which is God."

Occasionally, society members would exhort idle festival fans to join them in the chanting of Hare Krishna. But the music seekers, more engrossed in their conversation or their marijuana, tolerated the attempts with amused indifference.

"We don't use drugs, including tea or coffee or cigarettes," Das said. "It only increases our attachment to material effects." He went on to say that it is the philosophy of his sect to seek perfect peace of mind through meditation.

"We realize," he said, "that God is our most intimate Friend."

To spread its message further, the sect with temples in 15 foreign countries, published a monthly magazine. Das said he was handing it out for free, but he would accept no less than at 25-cent "donation" for each copy.

Peterson fires one-under 67, cops first-round lead in Magic Valley

Willie Peterson became the only man in the field of 188 Saturday to better par as he fired a one-under 67 and took the opening lead in the annual Magic Valley amateur golf tournament.

Peterson, long a contender but never able to quite reach a championship since leaving school, held a one-shot edge over Gooding champion Jim Packard of Twin Falls and his 68 was the only one equallying par.

The tournament will continue Sunday and Monday with a 10-man elimination derby slated for about 3 p.m. Sunday. It will be comprised of the 10 low scorers at the completion of first round play. Surprisingly, the first flight provided four of the 10 eligibles as the cut-off point fell at 70.

Playing in the derby will be Peterson, Packard, Don Lowman, Gary Hoxer, Ken Huizinga, Ken Morris, Del Rupert, Porter Ingram, Doug Wood and Mark Mueller.

Hoxer and Lowman stayed two shots off the pace set by Peterson with 69s while Huizinga of Burley and Kent Morris of Idaho Falls turned in 70s to round out the list of top contenders in the championship flight.

A four-way jam developed for the lead in the first flight with Rupert, Ingram, Wood and Mueller shooting 70s. Three others were just one step behind at 71, including Bill Dewald, Rick Lowe and Bill Cork and Jim Hollenbeak was alone at 72.

In the third flight, Bruce Mecham and Gary Rene shared the lead at 74 and that gave them a two-stroke advantage over third place Bradford. D.L. Cain, Del Erickson and Don Hutchings were knotted at 77.

Long-hitting Ken McClain got his putter working well, too, and swept the lap money and lead in the fourth flight with a 76. Right behind was John Carlton, Frank Schulties and Merrill Wood.

Dick Meadows, one of the last players in, carved out a 75 to claim the fifth flight lead with D.L. Douglas, almost the day-long leader, shunted down to second at 78. They were followed by Bob Dunn at 79, Ken Hurlbert at 80 and Gene Hull with 81.

Two youngsters raised a fuss in the second flight. Sophomore Kevin Packard grabbed the lead with a 71 while Burley frosh Bill Spencer tied with veteran Carl Feeler for second at 72. Sherm Williams had 73 and Ken Bell 74.

Stenerud's field goal with no time left lets Chiefs tie Cardinals 17-all

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Jan Stenerud kicked a 28-yard field goal with no time remaining Saturday night, giving the Kansas City Chiefs a 17-17 tie with the St. Louis Cardinals in a topsy-turvy rain-drenched National Football League exhibition game.

Stenerud's field goal equaled a 47-yard effort by Jim Bakken, which came with only 19 seconds to play.

The Chiefs got the ball with 12 seconds to play and Len Dawson passed 46 yards to Otis Taylor, who was dragged down on the Cardinals' 21. Taylor immediately called time out with two seconds to go and the Chiefs' kicking team raced onto the field.

The tie was the first blemish on Kansas City's record in five pre-season games, while the Cardinals now are 1-2-1.

The Cardinals scored 10 points in the last three minutes to wipe out

The tie was the first blemish on Kansas City's record in five pre-season games, while the Cardinals now are 1-2-1.

The Cardinals scored 10 points in the last three minutes to wipe out a 14-7 Kansas City lead.

With 2:50 to go, MacArthur Lane slammed the last yard of a 75-yard drive. The 15-play march was helped by a 24-yard pass from Jim Hart to Dave Williams, which put the ball on the Chiefs' eight. A pass interference penalty on Jim Marsalis gave the Cardinals a first down on the one.

The Chiefs' tie-breaking drive came with 9:21 to play. They were helped by a 15-yard penalty on linebacker Larry Stallings for a late hit, putting the ball on the Cards' 37. From the 26, Podolak dashed seven yards to the 19, then 17 to the two.

Len Dawson and Pete Beathard accounted for the first-half touchdowns with scoring passes.

Dawson put the Chiefs on the scoreboard first when he flipped deep to Taylor on a third-and-14 play from his own eight.

Taylor outraced rookie cornerback Norm Thompson, caught the ball at midfield and ran into the end zone to complete the 92-yard play.

Shaw-led Buffalo surprises Detroit with 31-17 drubbing

DETROIT (UPI) — Dennis Shaw scored one touchdown himself and passed for two others Saturday night to spark the Buffalo Bills to a 31-17 smashing of the Detroit Lions in a National Football League exhibition game.

O.J. Simpson, held to negative yardage more often than not, ripped off a 68-yard run early in the third quarter to set up the touchdown which broke up a 17-17 deadlock.

Haven Moses scored it on a nine-yard fling from Shaw, who finished the game with 12 completions in 25 attempts for 234 yards.

Max Anderson scored on a three-yard run in the fourth quarter when the Bills' second-string took over.

Marlin Briscoe, who caught six passes for 178 yards, went 87 yards to score with one of Shaw's passes in the second quarter and the second-year Buffalo quarterback opened the game scoring by sneaking over from a yard out in the first quarter. Grant Guthrie kicked a 44-yard field goal for Buffalo in the second quarter.

Detroit tied the game at the half when quarterback Bill Munson hit Earl McCullouch with an eight-yard scoring strike and clicked on one of 23 yards to Mel Farr only 1:53 away from the half.

Errol Mann, who has kicked field goals of 52 and 53 yards already in the exhibition season, added a 52 yarder just before Farr's touchdown. He later muffed a shorty of 34 yards and Detroit lost the ball on downs at the Buffalo five to flub two second half scoring chances.

Eagles humiliate Saints

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles and a driving tropical rain drenched the New Orleans Saints 34-0 Saturday night with three Eagle touchdowns on fumble returns.

Tackle Don Hultz, linebacker Steve Zabelpand and Mel Tom ran 28, 36 and 32 yards respectively with fumbles. Former Texas kicker Happy Feller added a 12-yard field goal. Mark Moseley kicked one from 17 yards and wide receiver Harold Jackson ran five yards for another score.

The Eagles' first touchdown came on the Saints' first play from scrimmage. Tom picked up an Edd Hargett miscue and ran home with it.

With the artificial turf at Tulane Stadium a sheet of water, Zabel picked up another fumbled handoff near the end of the half and ran it in. Hultz grabbed the third when punter Julian Fagan fumbled a snap from center.

Denver surprises Minnesota by 14-7

DENVER (UPI)—Linebacker Dave Washington jarred the ball loose from quarterback Gary Cuozzo and right defensive end Pete Duranko recovered it in the end zone Saturday night to give the Denver Broncos a 14-7 National Football League exhibition win over the Minnesota Vikings.

Minnesota got one last chance to tie when Denver cornerback Leroy Mitchell interfered with wide receiver John Henderson in an interception attempt on Denver's six, giving the Vikings one more shot after time had actually elapsed. But Denver cornerback Bill Thompson made a diving block on Cuozzo's last gasp pass in the end zone to preserve Denver's first win of the exhibition season.

It was the Vikings' first loss in five games. The Vikings will be going for their fourth consecutive NFC Central Division championship when the regular season starts.

Duranko's score came with just 3:44 left in the final period after Denver kicker Jim Turner had given the Vikings the ball on their 20 by missing on Denver's fifth field goal effort of the evening.

Washington jarred the ball loose, Richard Jackson bobbled it, and Duranko fell on it.

Wide receiver Bob Grim carried 14 yards for the touchdown on a reverse from Cuozzo to Jim Lindsey to Grim for Minnesota.

Denver quarterback Don Horn bulled four yards on a fourth and one situation and then hung a post pattern pass of 25 yards between two Vikings and into Dwight Harrison's hands for Denver's first touchdown of the game at 8:52 of the second quarter.

Houston rolls over Bears 37-17

HOUSTON (UPI)—Ken Burrough, a lanky second-year receiver with 9.3 speed, scored one touchdown and set up another to spark the Houston Oilers to a surprisingly easy 37-17 triumph over the Chicago Bears in an exhibition game Saturday night.

Burrough caught an 18-yard pass from quarterback Charley Johnson for one touchdown and combined with reserve quarterback Dan Pastorini on a 52-yard play to put the ball on the Bear 7 to set up another. Pastorini ran it in from the six three plays later.

Rookie running back Leroy Sledge, a Canadian import, scored the other Houston touchdown in a 23-yard run. Tom Rodgers and Braden Beck, the latest in the Houston parade of kicking aspirants, each kicked two field goals — Rodgers from the 38 and 30 and Beck from the 18 and 13.

Houston's rugged defense, which held the Bears to three first downs the first three quarters, provided the other four points on two safeties.

Elvin Bethea, Dave Rowe and Pat Holmes ran Bear quarterback Bobby Douglass out of the end zone in the second quarter and Bethea tackled reserve signal caller Kent Nix in the end zone in the fourth period.

Douglass hit George Farmer on an 87-yard scoring pass for the Bears first touchdown in the second quarter and Nix connected to rookie tight end Earl Thomas on a three-yard scoring pass with 2:50 to go in the game.

ISU coach praises defense

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State University's Bengals held the season's first full scrimmage Saturday and afterwards head coach Ed Cavanaugh described his defense as "outstanding as usual."

The offense, he said, "was able to move the ball well at times. Most of our runners hit hard and ground out yardage."

Senior halfback James Jackson showed more confidence in his knee, Cavanaugh said. Jackson is recovering from an off-season knee operation and ran for 18 yards on one play Saturday.

There was no scoring in the scrimmage. The closest thing to a touchdown was a long pass wide receiver Jim Clark caught on the one yard line, but the play was called back for offensive interference.

Brewers' Parsons beats Cal

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Bill Parsons allowed four hits in the first two innings then pitched hitless ball the rest of the way to hurl the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-1 victory over the California Angels Saturday night.

The Brewers snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth with the aid of some wildness and an error by May. Ellie Rodriguez and Dave May walked with one out and Rodriguez scored the tie-breaking run on a single by Rick Auerbach. Parsons then beat out a bunt and when Rudy May fired the ball over the first baseman's head, both Dave May and Auerbach scored.

L.A. cops 2-1 win over Reds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Southpaw Al Downing made Willie Crawford's two-run double in the first inning stand up with a four-hitter Saturday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1.

In beating the Reds for the sixth straight time at home, Los Angeles stayed 8 1-2 games behind the San Francisco Giants in the National League West with 23 remaining.

Downing bested Jim McGlothlin, who also yielded just four hit, recording his 17th victory, three more than his previous high.

During one stretch from the second through the seventh inning, the Dodger lefthander retired 17 men in a row. But Tommy Helms and Woody Woodward opened the eighth with singles.

Alabama may spring wishbone offense on Southern Cal in first game Friday

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Cagey Bear Bryant doesn't like to talk about it, but it looks like Alabama is going this fall to the wishbone offense that has worked so well for Texas.

Bryant, unhappy about two sub-par, for him, 6-5 seasons, is trying so hard to keep his new offense hidden he has even been chasing away the group of spectators that usually attend his practice sessions.

"Oh, I've run the wishbone some in the past," Bryant told the "Skywriters," a group of sportswriters and sportscasters on the last leg of their tour of the Southeastern Conference. "Maybe we'll run it a little more this year."

But Bryant's players were a bit more revealing.

"Yeah, I like the wishbone," Bryant's star runner, Johnny Musso, said. "It's harder to key on any one back so I think it will help me if it makes it harder for the opposing defenses to key on me."

Any help Musso gets should make him mighty tough indeed since the 195-pound senior from Birmingham, Ala., gained 1,137 yards last season —more than any other runner in the Southeastern Conference in the past 20 years.

The wishbone, with minor adjustments, is just another name for a triple-option running offense. The quarterback either hands off to a man slashing into the middle, pitches out to a back swinging around or keeps it himself.

One of its basic characteristics is that the guards and tackles on the offensive line sometimes switch places with their neighbor.

"It's hard to learn," said senior guard Jimmy Rosser. "There's a lot of difference between tackle and guard. The guard usually plays head to head while the tackle gets to move out more. You have to learn two different techniques."

Since it appears that Alabama will be emphasizing its running game this year —now that passing star Scott Hunter is no longer eligible, the "Skywriters" were especially interested in Musso and wanted to learn the technique that has made him one of the top college runners in the nation.

"When I run, I try to take one more step," said Musso. "When I get that step, I fight for another. I just keep on trying to get that next one."

Bryant indicated that Alabama is short on what he calls "quality" football players and that he has been working his better players at more than one position in hopes of "being two deep at two different positions with only three people."

But Bryant insisted that this is not new, that Alabama, during its 1961-1966 heyday, did not have the great depth that some felt.

"We used to have three or four great players and a lot of mediocre ones who thought they were great," said Bryant. "I don't recall ever having a lot of depth around here."

At that point, someone wanted to know what Bryant blamed for Alabama's recent decline.

"The reason Alabama has gone down is the Alabama coach," said Bryant. "This is true a lot of places but certainly true here. It's how you go out and get the players and how you coach them. I did a lousy job with both."

Not true, said Musso. "You can't blame the coaches, you have to blame the players. Just a few years ago, after Alabama had those great seasons, it was hard to recruit players when you had so many you couldn't play them all.

"A lot of good players in my class quit, maybe 14 or 15 out of 40," Musso continued. "Now that's not an unusual number to lose between the freshman and senior years, but it just happened that the ones we lost were the best players.

"I don't know why they quit. I guess they just didn't want to make the sacrifice."

Bryant and his players are looking forward to next Friday night's game at Southern Cal, a team that beat the Crimson Tide, 42-21, in Birmingham last year.

"Losing to Southern Cal didn't help us," said Bryant. "They not only beat us, they humiliated us."

"After the Southern Cal game, I thought they were the best team I ever played against," said Musso. "But, after seeing the films, I feel we made them look better than they were."

"We want to redeem ourselves," said defensive end Robin Parkhouse. "We just want to beat them. One point will be enough."

Browns drops New York, Steelers thump Jets in grid doubleheader

CLEVELAND (UPI) — An alert Cleveland defense set up two touchdowns and a field goal while quarterback Bill Nelson hit for nine of 14 passes in the first half as the Browns snapped a four-game pre-season losing streak Saturday night by rolling over the New York Giants, 30-7, in the second game of an N.F.L. doubleheader before a gallery of 82,710.

The Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the New York Jets, 35-21, in the opener behind Terry Bradshaw's four scoring passes which covered 178 yards.

Nelsen, in his initial starting assignment this season, engineered five sucessive first downs in the first quarter to power the Browns 78 yards with Bo Scott darting in from the three-yard line to score at 9:10.

Middle linebacker Dale Lindsey picked off a Fran Tarkenton to Clifton McNeil pass and returned it 10 yards to the Giants' 28 to set up the second Browns' score late in the same period.

After Nelsen failed to connect on a short pass to Fair Hooker, Leroy Kelly went over tackle for six yards to make it third and four from the Giants' 22. Jerry Shay was called for roughing Nelsen on the next play and Kelly scored from the 11 to put the Browns ahead with 54 seconds remaing in the period.

Don Cockroft split the uprights to make it 13-0.

Jack Gregory recovered a Bobby Duhon fumble on the Browns' 20 at the end of the first quarter and Bo Cornell went in from the four-yard line with 12:36 left in the half. Nelsen then moved the Browns 92 yards in five plays with a pass to rookie Paul Staroba covering the final 23 yards to make it 27-0.

Tarkenton, who connected on 18 of 25 passes for 80 yards, paced the Giants late in the second period to their only score when he hit Coleman Zeno at 1:12 with an eight yard touchdown pass. Pete Gogolak scored the extra point to make it 27-7.

A pass interception by Bill Andrews set up a Cleveland field goal with 11:16 left in the game to make it 30-7.

It was the first time the Browns won a game in the doubleheader since 1964, when they defeated Green Bay 20-17 and went on to win the N.F.L. title.

Bradshaw, who played three quarters and hit on 12 of 21 good for 226 yards, tossed only three touchdowns in the first three Steeler pre-season games.

Bengals rally twice to drop Green Bay

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Rookie quarterback Ken Anderson threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Bruce Coslet and rookie fullback Fred Willis plunged three yards for another second half touchdown, as the Cincinnati Bengals came from behind twice to defeat Green Bay, 27-24, for their fifth straight pre-season victory.

Horst Muhlman, Cincinnati's soccer style kicker, booted a 52-yard field goal in the first period and a 43-yarder in the third.

The defeat left the Packers with a 1-4 record in NFL preseason play.

Essex Johnson sprinted 17 yards for a touchdown to give the Bengals a 10-3 lead in the second period. The touchdown was set up by rookie Willis's 54-yard run.

But veteran Packer quarterback Zeke Bratkowski threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Dave Hampton, one play after a fumble by Cincinnati's Dave Buchanan. With 39 seconds to go in the half, Hampton ran six yards for a second touchdown, for a 17-10 Packer lead.

Anderson passed 49 yards to Doc Trumpy on the Green Bay 15 and then hit tight end Bruce Coslet in the end zone with a 14-yard toss to tie the score at 17-17, in the third quarter.

Later, Anderson fumbled on the Bengals 16-yard line to set up a five-yard touchdown pass from Bratkowski to tight end Rich McGeorge.

But the Bengals won the game in the fourth quarter, as Willis capped a 65-yard drive by his three-yard touchdown plunge with 6:27 showing on the clock.

Montana tips South Dakota 14-7

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) —The University of Montana Grizzlies finally came to life and kicked off the 1971 college football season here Saturday night by beating the University of South Dakota Coyotes 14-7.

Montana, which ranked fourth in the UPI college division pre-season poll, found its veteran offense rusty but still explosive, and the young Grizzlie defense proved quick and alert.

The University of South Dakota took the opening kickoff and marched to the Montana 24, where they were halted by the strong Grizzlie defense. A field goal attempt by Barry Blue went wide of the uprights.

Montana took over on its own 20 and after an 80-yard march Grizzlie quarterback Gary Berding scored on a sweep from one yard out.

Late in the third quarter John Sanders of South Dakota took a Montana punt on his 15 and scampered 85 yards untouched for a score. Barry Blue's kick was good and knotted the game at 7-7.

Raiders rally by 49ers

OAKLAND (UPI) — Don Highsmith's 14-yard touchdown run and George Blanda's 32-yard field goal brought the Oakland Raiders from behind in the fourth quarter Saturday night and carried them to a 34-28 exhibition victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

The 49ers, down 17-7 at the half, exploded for three touchdowns in the third quarter for a 28-17 edge, but the Raiders closed the gap with 1:17 remaining in the period when Daryle Lamonica connected with Ray Chester on a 37-yard touchdown pass.

Then, with 9:25 remaining to play in the game, the Raiders marched 80 yards in six plays with Highsmith capping the drive with his burst around right end.

Ewing assumes two-shot lead in Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—Stocky Jack Ewing of Bakersfield, Calif., already enjoying his best year in four on the tour, took a slender two stroke lead Saturday in the $110,000 Greater Hartford Open.

The 29-year-old Ewing shot a four-under 67 despite a painful hand injury and high humidity at Wethersfield Country Club for a 36-hole score of 65-67—132, 10 strokes under par.

Seven players were bunched in a tie for the runnerup spot. They included Hubert Green and Rick Rhoads, each at 66-68—134; Al Geiberger, George Archer and Herb Hooper, all at 68-66—134; and J.C. Snead and Dave Stockton, each at 65-69—134.

Dave Hill, Deane Beman, Dick Lotz and Hale Irwin were in another cluster tied at 135, three strokes off Ewing's pace.

Ewing, who has already earned $10,733 in 22 tour events, was gunning for the $22,000 in cash and new Cadillac that goes to the winner following the Labor Day round.

Ewing was one under on his round after nine holes but knocked in a 140 yard second shot on the 364-yard, par-4 tenth hole with an eight iron for an eagle that helped him to his ten-under pace.

The tournament field was cut to 88 players after 36 holes with Lee Trevino, the pre-tournament favorite despite recent surgery, the principal victim.

The cutoff mark included those who shot 141 or better which was one under par for 36 holes, one of the lowest cutoff points on the tour this season.

Biggest victim of the second round was opening day leader Joel Goldstrand who had been eight under par after 18 but shot a 77 for a 36-hole total of 140, narrowly making the cut.

Bob Stanton, Lionel Hebert, Gibby Gilbert, and Bob Payne were among the others who failed to make the cutoff point.

Ewing, like most of the players, admitted he was bothered by the extreme humidity and hot sun which resulted in most of the gallery huddling under trees during the day.

Jack, a 200-pounder, had 32 putts on his take charge round, two-putting from 50 feet for his birdie on the second hole and dropping an eight footer for another on the seventh.

He missed the green on his only bogey, the 173-yard, par-3 fifth, and two-putted from eight feet.

"I missed a couple of closies," he said, noting he could have had two more birdies if he could have knocked in putts of less than ten feet.

Several of the players complained about the slow round. J. C. Snead, who made a run at Ewing and tied him at 10-under with five holes remaining, fell away on the final holes to wind up in the second place deadlock with seven others.

Stars cut ex-addict, offer help

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Harlem's Earl Manigault, called by Lew Alcindor "the best basketball player his size in the history of New York City," was cut from the Utah Stars training camp Friday.

But his career, at age 25, may be only beginning.

Stars' owner Bill Daniels is trying to get Manigault into a Utah College and give the former playground hero-turned drug addict "a new place in life," said Assistant Coach Larry Cregar, "and maybe someday he can try out for the team again."

Manigault, who started in New York's ghettos along with the likes of Alcindor and Connie Hawkins, has been referred to as "one star who didn't go on."

Daniels read of the 6-foot-1 legend in a book that referred to Manigault as "the king of his own generation, the idol of the generation that followed."

Then, he became a drug addict and, trying to support his three-year habit, turned to burglary, then prison ...

When Daniels read about the former city star, his road to drug addiction and self-cure in jail, he looked him up in Harlem last February.

"Bill brought Earl to Hempstead, N.Y., when the Stars played the New York Nets one night," Cregar recalled. "I talked to Earl for a few minutes and when we were through, I went away with the feeling he really had the desire to give pro ball a try."

From that point on, Creger and Manigault corresponded, and the Stars offered him a crack at their training camp this fall.

Manigault spent the summer at odd jobs and getting back into condition before Daniels brought him to Utah last week for his tryout.

Raiders lose Wells to jail

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders' Warren Wells, one of professional football's most exciting wide receivers, has been sentenced to state prison for violation of his probation for a 1969 attempted rape conviction and appears to be lost for the 1971 season.

Superior Court Judge Leonard Dieden Friday sentenced Wells, 28, to Vacaville State Prison after a hearing concerning an incident last May in which Wells was stabbed by a woman at a Beaumont, Tex., bar.

Dieden sentenced Wells to prison under a California penal code section calling for a 90-day diagnostic study at the prison's medical facilty. After the 90-day period, Dieden said he would make a decision with the recommendation of prison officials on whether to release Wells.

But Wells' attorney, Stanley Golde, who expressed "keen disappointment" over the ruling and said he has no method for appeal, estimated that prison diagnostic studies are usually 120 days, which means Wells would be lost for the entire season.

Spitz sets mark, U.S. squad wins

BERLIN (UPI)—Mark Spitz of Carmichael, Calif., established a worlds record in the men's 200-meter freestyle and helped the United States to a world mark in the 400-meter medley relay Saturday as the U.S. scored a 221-123 victory over East Germany in a two-day swim meet.

The meet, held at Leipzig's Swim Stadium, was the first sporting event ever held between teams of the two countries. The United States and East Germany do not maintain diplomatic ties.

Spitz, a member of the University of Indian's NCAA champions, set a new standard for 200 meters with a time of one minute, 54.2 seconds, 1-10th of a second faster than the mark previously held by Yale's Don Schollander.

Spitz then teamed up with Charles Campbell, Peter Dahlberg and Jerry Helden reich to shear four seconds off the previous record for the 400 meters with their clocking of 3:50.4.

Spitz now has set four new records in the space of a week. Last week, in the National AAU meet at Houston he established new standards in the 100-meter and 200-meter butterfly.

Roland Matthes was a two-time record setter for East Germany. He set a mark of 2:05.6 in the 200-meter backstroke on Friday night and clocked 58.7 for the 100-meter backstroke on the first leg of the 400-meter medley relay on Saturday.

United States mermaids swept all the, women's events with the exception of diving. East Germany's Heidi Becker accumulated 434.90 points to win that event.

Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., won both the 100-and 200-meter butterfly events, Jenny Bartz of Sunnydale, Calif., took the 200-and 400-meter individual medleys and Linda Johnson of Santa Ana, Calif., captured the 100-and 200-meter freestyles.

Other double winners among the American girls included Susan Atwood of Lakewood, Calif., in the 100 and 200 meter backstroke and Ann Simmons, Long Beach, Calif., in the 400-and 800-meter freestyles.

Miss Evert takes tight net match

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Sixteen-year-old Chris Evert captured the hearts of the crowd at the U.S. Open tennis championships Saturday by fighting off six match points in the second set and coming back to beat Mary Ann Eisel, 4-6, 7-6, 6-1, in a second-round match.

The thrilling rally by Miss Evert, heroine of America's Wightman Cup triumph last month, brought the crowd roaring to its feet. Down 40-0 in the 12th game of the second set, little Chris fought back from the triple match point to deuce. The score was deuce six times when Mary Ann holding match point three more times before Chris caught the corner on a fine forehand and then put away backhand to even the set at 6-6.

In the tie-break which followed, Chris was the winner by five points to one. Then in the third set, her confidence oozing out of every young pore, she blasted through Miss Eisel, breaking Mary Ann's service in the first game and again in the third to win going away.

Not as fortunate, or perhaps as good, as Miss Evert was the other teenage winner of the tournament. Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., who had won a heart-warming five-set first round match from Alex Olmedo by coming from two sets down, went out of the tournament abruptly, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, to Coline Dibley of Australia.

Seeded players in both men's and women's divisions advanced with little trouble.

Top-seeded Billie Jean King raced by Helen Gourlay of Australia, 6-2, 6-2, and said afterward that she saw "my best chance in years" to win the title, a victory she has achieved only once before, in 1967 over Ann Haydon Jones.

Billie's knees, both of which have undergone surgery, were standing up well and the Long Beach, Calif., veteran pronounced herself "perfectly fit" and anxious to pick up the first prize of $7,500.

As the foremost member of the "women's lob" pro circuit, Mrs. King already has won by her estimate "about $80,000" this year.

Second-seeded Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., the favorite now after the first round loss of John Newcombe to Jan Kodes, had trouble in the second set, coming back from 2-5, to win over New Zealand's Brian Fairlie, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2; third-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands took care of Australia's Phil Dent, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3; and seventh-seed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., survived a shaky start, splitting two tie-break sets, before putting down Bob Hewitt of South Africa, 7-6, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2.

One of the big names on the international circuit, Dennis "the Menace" Ralston, was a surprise victim of Milan Holecek, the Czechoslovakian who is now stateless.

Mira shrugs off rain, leads Miami by 'Skins

MIAMI (UPI)—Quarterback George Mira waded out of a tropical downpour Saturday night and threw two third quarter touchdown passes to lead the Miami Dolphins to a 27-10 win over the Washington Redskins in a preseason duel.

Mira, a former University of Miami star from Key West, showed 61,202 rain-soaked Orange Bowl fans the strong arm that earned him the name "Key West Comet" by hitting Jim Mandich with a 14-yard touchdown pass with 8:42 left in the third period, then bombing speedy rookie Otto Stowe with the 69-yarder two minutes and 13 seconds later.

The sluggish Redskins suffered a major setback just as the third quarter ended when quarterback Sonny Jurgensen injured his arm while tackling Miami safety Dick Anderson, who had intercepted a pass at his 8-yard line.

Jurgensen charged Anderson on the sideline, hit him low, lost his helmet, and hobbled off the field suffering an undetermined injury to his upper left arm.

Hubert Ginn scored Miami's final touchdown with an 86-yard romp down the soggy Polyturf with 5:03 left to play. Ginn cut left and broke a tackle on the line of scrimmage, and then poured on the speed, outdistancing four defenders to the goal.

Washington's Billy Kilmer took over for the hurt Jurgensen at the start of the final period and climaxed his first series by hitting rapid Lloyd Jefferson with a 47-yard touchdown pass with 10:27 left in the game.

John Stofa, who was to battle Mira for Miami's number two quarterbacking job against the Redskins, injured his right pelvis with less than a minute remaining in the first period. He led the Dolphins to the 7 where the drive stalled and Garo Yepremian kicked a 14-yard field goal. Yepremian added a 23-yarder on the last play of the second quarter.

Washington scored first when Jurgensen moved the Redskins from their 42 to Miami's 35 before the drive stopped and Curt Knight booted a 33-yard field goal with 7:44 left in the first quarter.

Mets sweep twin bill with Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Ed Kranepool and Ken Singleton hit solo homers Saturday night and Jim McAndrew won his first game of the season as the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 in the nightcap to sweep a double-header and run their winning streak to five games.

The Mets won the opener 6-5 in 10 innings when Bud Harrelson singled home Don Hahn to give Tug McGraw his 11th relief victory of the year.

McAndrew needed relief help from Danny Frisella when he tired in the seventh but posted his first victory against five defeats. Philly starter, Barry Lersch (4-13) suffered his 10th straight loss as Philadelphia ran its losing streak to eight games.

Nicklaus, Trevino collide

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus, who squared off head to head in a playoff for the U.S. Open title earlier this summer, will go at it again Saturday and Sunday in the 10th annual World Series of Golf at the Firestone Country Club Course.

But the two leading money winners of the Professional Golf Association tour this year have a couple other guys to watch out for this time, namely Masters champion Charles Coody and Bruce Crampton, who got into this year's series by winning the Western Open.

Trevino, who was second in money winnings to Nicklaus going into this week's Greater Hartford Open, upset the usual format by winning three of the first five tournaments used by WSG officials to decide the participants.

In a space of three weeks, "Superpro" captured the U.S. Open, the Canadian Open and capped it off with a victory in the British Open. So Series officials then turned to the Western Open, won by Crampton.

Baltimore and Palmer rip Solons

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jim Palmer became the fourth Baltimore pitcher to win 17 games this season by scattering nine hits as the Orioles stopped the Washington Senators for the 11th time in 14 games, 6-2, Saturday night.

Palmer, fanned 10 and walked one in gaining his 17th victory in 24 decisions and his 17th complete game. He has lost only one game since July 21. Three other Baltimore pitchers, Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Pat Dobson, have also won 17 games.

The Orioles jumped on Denny McLain for two runs in the first inning on Boog Powell's RBI single and a sacrifice fly by Frank Robinson. They added a single run in the third when Paul Blair tripled and scored on another single by Powell.

Champdubs eagle shot of life

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)— A beaming Gary Cowan, the new U.S. Amateur champion, Saturday called the eagle he holed out from 135 yards off the 18th green to insure his victory "the greatest shot of my live."

Cowan went to the 18th tee knowing he needed at least a par to win the 71st championship at the Wilmington Country Club and then put his drive into the rough left of the fairway.

Cowan, who also won the amateur in 1966, said he wanted to walk up closer to the green to look at the scoreboard and see what he actually needed to win.

Phil Strubling, the president of the U.S.G.A., "wouldn't let me," Cowan said. He said it would be delaying play."

"Then I said to myself, what the heck, I know what I need," Cowan added.

He took a nine-iron and knocked the ball on the fly to the green. It hit short, rolled up to the pin tucked in the back right and dropped into the hole for the three-stroke victory over Eddie Pearce, 19, of Wake Forest.

Eagle helps Cowan collect U.S. golf title

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)— Gary Cowan sank a nine-iron approach shot from the rough, 135 yards away on the 18th hole, for an eagle two and a three-stroke victory in the U.S. Amateur championship here Saturday.

Cowan, 32, of Kitchener, Ont., had blown an early three stroke lead. The Canadian risked losing his slim, one-stroke margin over young Eddie Pearce when his drive on the final hole at the Wilmington Country Club went into the left rough behind some trees.

Faced with a possible bogey that would have forced an 18-hole playoff, Cowan responded to the intense pressure by lofting his approach shot over some trees. the ball hit on the green and rolled into the cup, giving Cowan a par 70 and a 72-hole total of 280, four under par, for his second U.S. Amateur championship.

Pearce, 19, a Wake Forest student, was at the 18th green, watching. He had finished with an even par 71, for a 283 total, one-under-par.

Vinnie Giles, 28, a three-time runner up from Richmond, va., had a two-under 69, to finish at 284. Jim Mc Lean, 21, of Seattle, Wash., a University of Houston student, had a final round 73, for 285.

Nineteen-year-old Ben Crenshaw, the current NCAA champion from the University of Texas, also had a par 71 for a 286. Tom Culligan, 29, San Mateo, Calif., had a 74 for 288 to tie Marty West, 23, Washington, D.C.

Cowan, who became the 10th foreigner to win the U.S. Amateur and the last to do it with his triumph in 1966, began the day at 210, three-under-par, and one stroke ahead of West, his playing partner.

A curly-headed insurance broker, Cowan actually lost the lead to West on the first hole when he put his drive into a fairway bunker. He would up with a bogey five. West, almost eagling the hole, tapped in a two-inch putt for a birdie.

But West quickly fell back, by bogeying the next hole, and then suffering a double bogey on the par-five third hole when his drive hit into some trees, and he took four strokes to get to the green.

cowan, meanwhile, picked up the stroke he had lost, by dropping in a 40-footer on the fifth hole, to make the turn at one-under par 35 and a three-stroke lead over Mc Lean and Giles.

Cowan suffered bogeys on the 12th and 13th to go one under. Mc Lean scored a birdie on the 12th and Giles had on on the 14th, and both tied Cowan after they had completed 14 holes.

Cowan promptly birdied the par-five 14th when he two-putted from about 50 feet. He picked up another stroke with a birdie on the 15th, to go three under.

Mc Lean, meanwhile, had bogeys on the 15th and the 17th to fall back at one over and Giles bogeyed the last hole to drop out of contention.

Swope stops 2-point play as Bruins nip Las Vegas 21-20

LAS VEGAS — Joe Swope, after catching the winning touchdown pass, made a game-saving tackle on a two-point conversion play with 55 seconds remaining Friday night to let the Twin Falls Bruins outlive three errors in the second half and nip the Rancho Rams of Las Vegas 21-20.

Swope's tackle on quarterback Riddas came after the Rams had intercepted a Twin Falls pass that left coach Norm Thomas open to second guessing. With 1:55 left, Twin Falls was faced with third and 13 at the Rancho 49. After a timeout, quarterback Jerry Barbour threw a pass that was intercepted and returned to the Bruins 43. Two plays later Riddashit Walker with a 28-scoring aerial. That's when Swope saved it.

Coach Thomas said "We felt the pass play would work and we wanted to keep possession of the ball. It backfired on us but if it hadn't, we would have controlled the last two minutes."

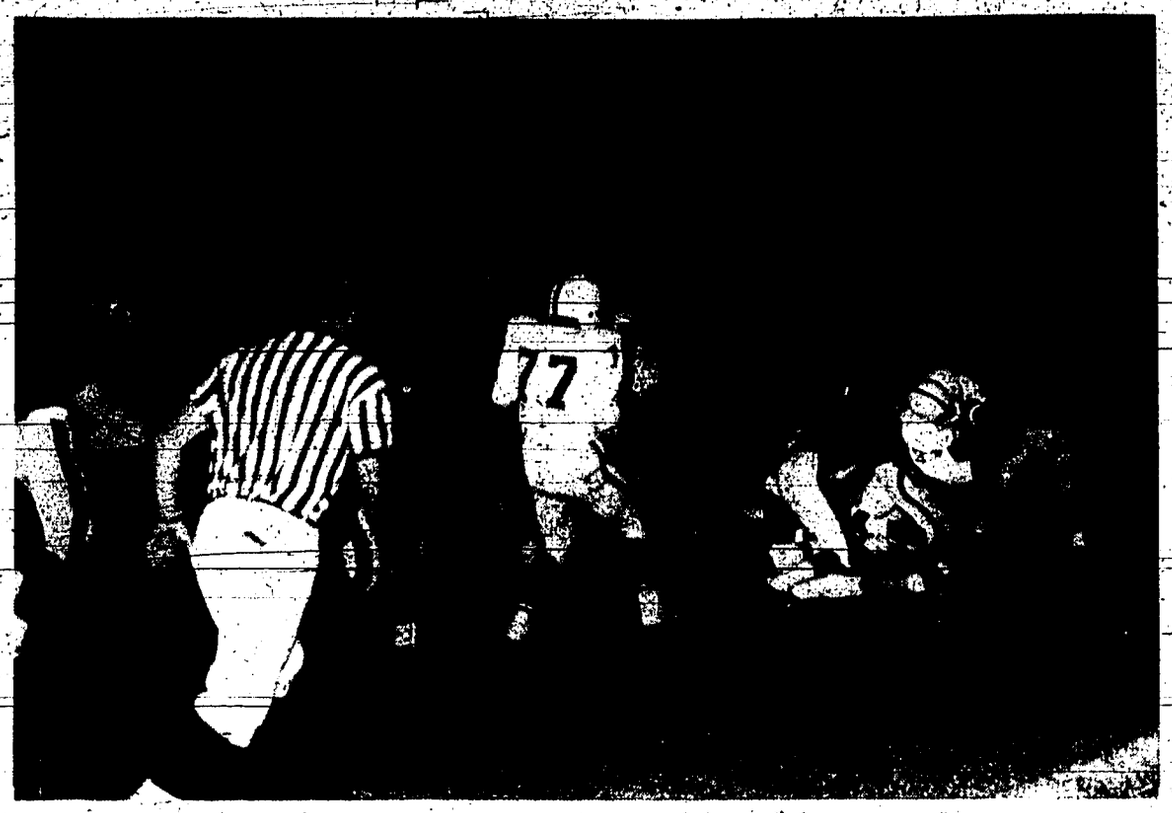

Defensive Coach Steve Buratto said his unit looked sharp. "They completed some passes on us. In fact, they got 184 yards. But they were throwing the ball about 80 per cent of the time."

Twin Falls looked sharp in building up a 14-0 halftime lead, the defense smothering almost all of Rancho's ground game. But the Bruins showed they haven't shook their nemesis — the forward pass — and Rancho picked up a lot of yards and scores through the air.

Kevin Nelson got the Bruins started with a seven-yard run and Bob Brodeen added the second touchdown with a four-yard burst. Junior Brent Fenstermaker tacked on the two conversions.

Rancho got its first break midway through the third period when the Bruins fumbled the ball away on their own 39-yard line. Rancho scored on an eight-yard pass from Riddas to Steve Juarez. Rancho then recovered an on-sides kick but the Bruins held. They came out of the hole with a first down but then a quick pitch was fumbled, Bob McRoy picked up the ball for Rancho and battling 37 yards into the end zone. Rancho threw for the tying points.

Twin Falls bounced right back to regain the lead, the touchdown coming on an 18-yard aerial from Barbour to Swope with 11:55 left in the game. Fenstermaker again tacked on the decisive point-after.

LUNGING ACROSS, Burley's fullback Brent Larsen falls into the end zone for the go-ahead points during action Friday night at Buhl. Trying to make the stop is Dave Clark (32) while Dennis Barnes (23) and Steve Abshire (63) are out of the play. Buhl came back with a third quarter score and the game ended in a 13-13 deadlock.

Jerome begins season with 20-10 victory over Wendell

WENDELL — The Jerome Tigers turned three Wendell mistakes into a season-opening 20-10 victory Friday night.

The Tigers, looking sharp for the opener, kept mistakes at a minimum while Wendell, which absorbed its second loss, committed the three costly ones — although Jerome had to earn the points.

Jerome took the opening kickoff and marched 57 yards only to be stopped on the Wendell nine-yard line by a fumble. But the Trojans fumbled the ball back on the 10 when a bad hike from center while in punt formation resulted in a Jerome recovery. Three plays later Jeff Weigle squirted in from the four.

Two plays after the ensuing kickoff, Childers picked off a Wendell pass on the Jerome 38-yard line. In 11 plays the Tigers moved to the touchdown, aided by a 15-yard penalty that carried to the 11. Rick Thomason got the last two yards early in the second period.

After the kickoff, Wendell drove 51 yards, fumbling the ball away at the Jerome one. But on the next play, Jerome was called for intentionally grounding the ball in the end zone, giving the Trojans a safety.

Wendell made another thrust in the third quarter, but ran out of downs at the Tiger 16. Jerome punted out of the hole and recovered a loose ball when the kick was muffed at the Trojans 28-yard line. Three plays after that, Thomason went in from the 11 and Childers passed to Gary Walters for the two points.

Wendell then went for its only touchdown, taking the kickoff and moving 65 yards. The big play was a 41-yard pass from Kirk Webb to Matt Bunn. Russ Rost then shook loose on an 11-yard carry to the one and Kip Dennis ended it on a dive play. Rost got the extra points.

Jerome then used up the clock with a long drive.

Buhl and Burley battle to 13-13 draw

BUHL — The Buhl Indians and Burley Bobcats, entering the game with undefeated records, battled to a 13-13 deadlock Friday night with the teams taking turns dominating the halves.

Burley, behind the running of Brent Larsen, held the advantage in the first half when it mounted a 13-7 lead. But Buhl came back to control the second half, particularly defensively. A 15-yard penalty with less than a minute to go, took Buhl off the Burley five-yard line and prevented a good shot at winning it with a field goal.

Buhl almost pulled off the stunner on the opening kickoff, Rick Long romping 77 yards with it to the Bobcat 10-yard line. But the Bocat defense held on downs.

After a long punt that got them out of trouble, the Bobcats had a big opportunity when a short Buhl return punt went out of bounds at the Indian 32-yard line. That hope died on a fumble momentarily but two plays later, Burley's Paul Garrett intercepted a pass at the 37 and this time Burley went for the score. It came on the first play of the second period when Scott Crane went in from the one. Russ Taylor converted.

Buhl bounced back almost immediately, Long setting things up on a 32-yard reverse run to the Burley eight. Three plays later, Mark Machacek threw to sophomore tight end Brent Watson for the touchdown. Pat Charlton converted.

Burley replied with a ground attack, working particularly on the left side of Buhl's line with double team blocking on the tackle. Larsen did most of the carrying although Karlson chipped in with some. Larsen swept the right side for the final two yards with 3:36 left. But the kick was wide.

Buhl used up most of the third period with a drive that got a big boost from the Bobcats 35-yards from paydirt. Joel Watson carried the first four times in the drive for 24 yards but Buhl then appeared stymied. On third and eight however, Burley intercepted a pass, then fumbled it with Buhl recovering and getting a first-down to boot. On fourth and six, Steve Dennis made a diving catch of a pass and fell into the end zone for the touchdown. Charlton drilled the extra point but a penalty killed it and the 30-yard attempt after that failed.

The last dramatics came late in the game when Dennis Barnes fell on a Burley fumble at the Bobcat 35-yard line. Watson ripped three times to the 17 and Dennis came up with nine yards to the eight.

Dennis then lost three but Watson got them back. Watson belted to the five — directly in front of the goal posts — on the next play but the Indians were caught illegally using their hands and that moved the ball out of range.

Solons hit early, drop Vikings 11-6

EDEN - HAZELTON — The Gooding Senators crammed all their scoring into the first half Friday night and defeated the Valley Vikings 11-6.

Gooding went driving early in the first period and got the payoff on a 26-yard touchdown pass from Garry Gorrell to Fred Cheslik. Jim Thompson swept end for the extra two points.

The Senators added a field goal in the second period off the toe of Jim Thompson from 15 yards away.

Gooding dominated the first half but Valley started moving a little against its defense in the third period. Valley drove to the Gooding 15-yard line during that period but lost the ball on a fumble. Gooding punched back to the Viking 35 before running out of downs and the Vikings immediately mounted a 65-yard march. Mostly on the running of Joe Ritchie, but some passing from Tim Brulotte, the Vikings moved to the two-yard line and sent Ritchie across.

From then on fumbles marred the game but in the waning minutes, Gooding moved deep into Viking territory but couldn't beat the final gun.

Hansen overpowers Hagerman

HANSEN — The Hansen Huskies shook off an early bomb by Hagerman, then rode the passing of sophomore Marty Shepherd to a 36-18 Magic Valley Conference victory Friday night.

Hagerman dropped the bomb to Doug Butler early in the first quarter but Hansen stopped the conversion attempt and came right back with a drive that Shepherd capped by getting the last 12 yards.

In the second period Hansen moved ahead 12-6 on a 25-yard pass up the middle from Shepherd to Dave Lockwood. Hansen provided a bomb of its own for the only score of the third period, the play — from Shepherd to Dennis Pollard — covering 65 yards. Shepherd then threw to Roger Sievers for the two points.

Hagerman opened the fourth period on another 16-yard strike to Butler but Hansen came back for the rest of its points. Ralph Hopkins got the first one on a six-yard drive, with Shepherd getting the extra points and the Shepherd - Pollard combination clicked for 14 yards and the final score. A pass to Steve Cook got the final conversion.

Hagerman scoring in the waning minutes on a five-yard quarterback rollout.

Castleford romps into second win

CASTLEFORD — Halfback Lynn Reese and quarterback Mike Nihill provided most of the scoring punch Friday night as the Castleford Wolves won their second straight game, a 32-8 decision over the Rockland Bulldogs.

Reese shoved the Wolves ahead in the first quarter when he capped a drive from two yards out. Nihill got the two-point conversion. In the second period Reese shook away on a 25-yard touchdown scamper to give the Wolves a 14-0 halftime lead.

Nihill took over in the second half, scoring on a four-yard run in the third period and getting another from a yard away later in the quarter.

Rockland posted its lone score two minutes into the final period, connecting on a 50-yard pass play.

Cut the Wolves had the last say, Nihill throwing an eight-yard TD pass to Curt Carter.

Castleford benefitted from four interceptions and a fumble recovery to prevent any consistency by Rockland's offense.

Declo nips Indians in last period

SHOSHONE — The Declo Hornets converted a fumble into a touchdown in the closing two minutes and then passed for the decisive extra points to nip the Shoshone Indians 8-6 Friday night.

Shoshone dominated the first half pretty well but could score only on a 50-yard pass from Gary Kinghorn to Tim Pagoaga.

Declo's defense stiffened perceptibly in the second half and the teams slugged it out until four minutes remained. Then Shoshone fumbled inside its own 30-yard line and quarterback Robb Riding made it pay off on a five-yard rollout. He then flipped a little basketball type pass over the middle for the victory points.

Panthers blank Richfield

CAREY — The Carey Panthers opened their 1971 football season with a 22-0 whitewashing of arch-rival Richfield Friday afternoon.

The Panthers scored on a wild play in the first period after Chrigel Hofstetter broke through to deflect a Richfield punt. Most of the players on both teams scrambled for the ball before Carey's Thayne Thatcher scooped it up and went 17 yards. Dick Simpson got the two extra points on a run.

In the second period, Carey drove for its second touchdown, Simpson getting it on a nine-yard burst. He then swept end for the extra two points.

The Panthers wound up scoring in the third period when Hofstetter threw a 15-yard pass to Dale Stockings. The conversion try was stopped.

Murtaugh turns late fumble into 20-19 win over Kimberly

MURTAUGH — Opportuning Murtaugh turned a fumble into a touchdown with 5:49 remaining Friday night and nailed down the decision on an interception by Stuart Tolman with 25 seconds left to nip the Kimberly Bulldogs 20-19.

The foot of John Flynn played a big part in the decision as he converted the two extra points and his booming 65-yard punt set up the turn-around. That came with about 6:30 remaining and the punt wound up in the end zone. Two plays later Dennis Tilley pounced on the Kimberly fumble. The Devils quickly pushed to the one-two plays by Flynn getting big yardage — and Tolman boomed in from there. It didn't matter that Kimberly blocked the point-after kick.

Kimberly started out well, taking the opening kickoff and a couple plays later shaking Wes Remaley loose on a 65-yard touchdown jaunt.

Murtaugh came right back with a drive that ended when Flynn plunged in from the one and then converted.

Kimberly regained the lead early in the second period when Lee rambled 45 yards on a reverse play but the Bulldogs didn't hold the advantage for long. Two minutes later Tolman took a screen pass from Steve Stanger and zipped 50 yards to score. Flynn again converted.

But with five seconds left in the half, Lee shoved Kimberly ahead with a 10-yard sweep and Randy Stanger converted.

Until the crucial fumble, neither team mustered much in the second half.

Raft River rolls to second victory

MALTA — The Raft River Trojans rolled to their second non-conference victory Friday night, downing Westside 36-12.

The Trojans broke it open in the third period with two touchdowns after being held to a 14-6 intermission advantage.

Del Hutchison got the Trojans started when he took Westside's second punt and rambled 53 yards to score. Del Paskett threw to Phil Thompson for the extra points. Before the first period ended, Paskett picked off a Westside aerial and returned it 55 yards to the visitor's five. Three plays later Hutchison bowled in from the one and Sam Patterson converted.

Westside got a break to get on the scoreboard in the second period. They hit Paskett trying to pass with a fumble resulting. Westside recovered on the seven and pushed it in.

In the third period, Paterson capped a Raft River drive by getting the last three yards, Paskett throwing to Edwards for the points-after. The Trojans mounted another drive a short time later, finally sending Paskett in from the seven.

In the fourth period Cliff Edwards intercepted for Raft River and was hauled down on the one-foot line. Paskett got the touchdown, and Hutchison added the extra points.

Westside then replied with a 55-yard drive, most of the yardage coming on three reverse plays, to get the final points.

Filer bows to Marsh Valley

FILER — Marsh Valley dampened the home opening of the Filer Wildcats and debut of Coach Ray Berryhill Friday night when it pulled to a 24-0 decision.

Buddy Jones got Marsh Valley started with a six-yard touchdown jaunt and Brad Bowen got the extra points on a sweep. Another six-yard run by Ron Vaughn got the second Marsh Valley touchdown and the visitors converted on a pass.

Ed Barnes scored the last one on a 13-yard run with Bowen again sweeping for the conversion.

Filer moved inside the Marsh Valley 20-yard line on two occasions but was unable to muster a scoring punch.

Cash belts 2 homers for Tigers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norm Cash smacked his 29th and 30th home runs of the season and Mickey Stanley drove in four runs Saturday in support of Joe Coleman's five hitter for his 16th victory of the season as the Detroit Tigers routed the New York Yankees, 9-1.

Cash, who won Friday night's game with an eighth inning home run, hit his first home run off Closter with two out in the fifth. The 36-year-old veteran increased his American League lead in homers with a two-run blast off reliever Jim Hardin in the seventh.

Opening lead—♠ 5

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South analyzes the five of spades lead as fourth best of a four or five-card suit. He can't be sure at trick one, but he knows enough to hold up his ace until the third lead of the suit.

South should proceed on the assumption that West does hold five spades. This means that he does not want to let West gain the lead again if he can help it.

South's longest suit is clubs and he sees no reason not to start by working on it. He plays out his ace and king and is delighted to see the queen drop. Now he can count five clubs plus three aces for an eight trick total.

All else being equal South would go to dummy and work on a diamond finesse. He has four diamonds in dummy and there is a potential long suit trick.

All else isn't equal. South doesn't need three extra diamond tricks or even two extra diamond tricks for his contract. He needs one extra trick somewhere and he can be sure of that trick if he goes after hearts and keeps West out of the lead.

He leads his jack of hearts and finesses. If East gets tricky and lets the jack hold, South should not repeat the finesse. They don't always work the second time and South is trying for his contract, not for overtricks.

'PASS IT ON' by L.M. Boyd

"NO, SHE WAS dead before she ever hit the water," says the television detective, sagely. "The autopsy showed there was no water in her lungs." TV script writers seem fond of the foregoing statement, or words to that effect. They err. I'm now told. Most drowning victims don't get water into their lungs." They don't get air, either. A panic spasm closes the throat. They dry drown. Or so cheerily reports a medical fellow who specializes in such.

MORE BOYS are born in the summer, more girls in the winter. Such was the claim of geneticist Herman M. Slatis of Magill University in Montreal. The why of it remains unexplained . . . AMONG POETS, the women outnumber the men by four to one. That's not great poets. Not even published poets. That's the poets who submit their verses to magazines.

Q. "WOULD a railroad tankcar full of helium weigh less or more than the car empty?" A. More. Maybe a ton more. When helium is shipped by rail, it's compressed into liquid.

Q. "IS IT NOT a fact no Boy Scout has ever been hanged for murder?" A. Now there you've got me. Do know, however, that Charles Whitman, that young fellow who killed all those people with a rifle from the University of Texas tower in Austin, was an Eagle Scout.

Q. "AS TO LIFE EXPECTANCY, I'm 37, I drink one quart of whiskey a day as I have for the last four years, eat only one meal a day, supper. So can you send me a letter to tell me how long I can figure to live?" A. Expect a telegram.

CAPRICORNIANS make dandy debarers. Pisces natives lead unconventional love lives. Aries people tend to be the liveliest humorists. Those born under Taurus retain a huge interest in cash. Geminians are artistic, unmaterialistic and impulsive. Moon Children learn early, sometimes get cynical. Leo people are not apt to forget a slight, become bad enemies. Virgoans are the premier clothes horses. Librans can be superb salesmen, if trained. Scorpio natives in general work harder than any. Sagittarians are sentimental, a little melancholy, and exceedingly ambitious. That's it, today's report from our Planet man. More later. Maybe in January.

A WHALE'S SPOUT is not condensed vapor. Old sailors thought it was. But a couple of British scientists, Dr. F.C. Fraser and P.E. Purves, claim their studies indicate it's an oil foam from the whale's lungs. They contend further this foam speedily absorbs nitrogen. It's widely known nitrogen bubbles in the bloodstream are what gives a diver the bends. When he comes up too fast from too deep. But whales don't get the bends. The oil foam is why, they say.

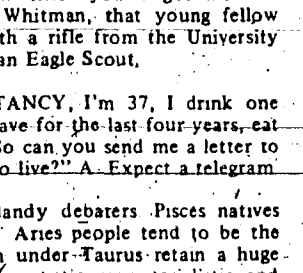

WAIT, ALMOST forgot to tell you there are 2,260,000 grains in a pound of sugar. By Monday it wouldn't be news.

Irish spasm shows tolerance fragile

By DAVID W. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The current spasm of violence in Northern Ireland is a dramatic demonstration of how fragile is the tolerance of this oft-called "ecumenical age" and that religious bigotry still runs deep in the peoples of the world.

In Northern Ireland more than a score of people have been killed in the fighting between Roman Catholics, Protestants and British soldiers, the latter brought to keep the peace between the feuding religious factions.

Roman Catholics are a minority in Northern Ireland and are subjected to widespread discrimination because of their religious beliefs—in jobs and housing, particularly—by the Protestant majority.

At a glance the situation in Northern Ireland would seem to be unique, an exception in an age when dialogue between religious groups is on the rise.

For example, Pope Paul VI has sent a letter to the United Methodist Church in America expressing "profound Christian joy" over Methodist intentions to drop derogatory references to Catholicism when the church revises its articles of faith.

In another ecumenical move, leaders and scholars from half a dozen of the world's major religious bodies will gather at the Harvard Divinity School this fall for a kind of "spiritual summit" meeting to promote greater tolerance and understanding among the great faiths.

A survey of the world's most volatile trouble spots—beyond Northern Ireland—indicates religious differences play an important if not always foremost role in the trouble.

In the current Pakistani crisis, for example, differences between the majority Muslim and minority Hindu religious groups are an explosive additive in the political and economic problems of the divided nation.

Religious tensions between Arab Muslims and Israeli Jews, while not the major factor in the political crisis in the Middle East, are considered by many political observers to exacerbate the situation.

Anti-Semitism is, of course, only one form of religious bigotry and without doubt a myriad of other examples of faith's intolerance to faith can be documented.

It is a reminder, however, that in this flowering of dialogue that is the ecumenical age, religious leaders have a task facing them in which talk is only the first of many steps to be taken.

Every effort is made to eliminate false and misleading advertising. Ads that inconvenience or disappoint readers have no place in these columns.

In the event of error, notify the Classified Department at once. Advertisers are expected to check the first insertion. Newspaper will not be responsible for errors after the first day.

When phoning in a Classified Ad always ask for the wording to be repeated back to you. Be certain to check the first day ad appears to make sure it is right. Especially check phone number and address.

All "Help Wanted" ads must state the nature of the work. "Sales Help" ads must name the product to be sold and if the pay is salary or commission or both.

The publisher assumes no financial responsibility for typographical errors, errors in duration of publication, wrong classifications, the omission of copy (partially or completely) or complete omission of the total ad in either the classified or display advertising sections of the paper. Liability for errors or omission shall not exceed the cost to the advertiser of that portion of space occupied by such error.

Claims for adjustment of the cost of the ad must be made within 10 days of publication. Credit is allowed for first insertion only. Receipts must be presented for cash refunds.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—I find black or brown marking pens ideal for polishing the sole edges and heels of children's white shoes. No more dark smudges on the white, such as a big polishing rag makes. Great for adults' shoes, too.—M. S.

© 1971 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY—When I have room left in my dishwasher, I fill the remaining space with my good china and crystal from the china closet. This keeps my good things clean without taking a day to wash them all. Also I do not waste water, soap and the expense of running the dishwasher without a full load.—MRS. F. K. C.

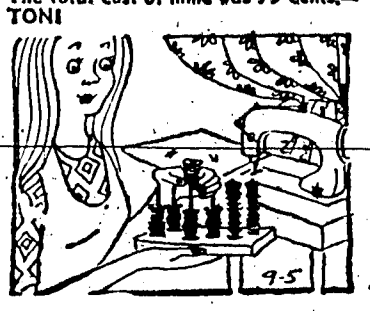

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—By the end of the day my eye shadow turns into a heavy caked line on my eyelids. I found that putting a small amount of base make-up on my lids before applying eye make-up stops the eye shadow from collecting on my lids.—SHARON

DEAR POLLY—If you have no book mark just use a photo corner tab. Slip it over the corner of the page, close the book and the place can be easily located.—M.E.M.

DEAR POLLY—I buy the large cans of juice and like to store them on the refrigerator door shelf. I found the opened cans splashed over when opening and closing the door. I use the plastic lid from a one-pound coffee can. It fits inside the juice can rim and I have no more spills.—MRS. J. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—To save the cost of an expensive sewing box, make your own holder. Buy a piece of styrofoam (used for artificial flowers) that is about 12 by 16 inches, and some candy apple sticks. Place the sticks in the foam. They will hold 36 to 40 spools of thread and 64 bobbins if anyone has that many. The total cost of mine was 79 cents.—TONI

DEAR POLLY—Every so often I cut slips from my many house plants and put them in a vase of water until they root. If a new neighbor moves in, or I am going to visit someone who needs cheering up, I pot one of these rooted plants and take it along. Everyone seems to enjoy these "special" gifts, as they know how much I love my plants.—JUDITH

DEAR POLLY—When going to a bridal shower, I wrap the gift in plain white paper and paste recipes and helpful pointers all over the package.—MRS. C. H.

DEAR POLLY—My daughter, 8, likes to cook, under supervision, but I insist that she put her long hair in a pony tail before starting, as it could be a fire hazard. Sometimes we would both forget, but now I keep a pony tail band in the drawer next to the stove. She automatically remembers when she looks at the stove, and back goes the hair.—LYDIA

DEAR POLLY—For people who have hook-on soap dishes on their bathtubs: Put a wet, not dry, washcloth under the soap dish. This anchors it well to the tub with no more falling in the water.—ETHEL

Ask Them Yourself

FOR GERALD M. LOEB,

author of "The Battle for Stock Market Profits"

I heard that you believe elderly people should not leave their possessions to heirs. Is this true?—Mr. George Moe, Milwaukee, Wis.

● Not exactly. But I do believe many people worry too much about the size of their estate when they should be thinking more about their own welfare. Capital is a fleeting thing. Federal estate taxes currently go as high as 61 percent and, as times goes on, will probably go even higher. The value of money steadily decreases. What to leave an elderly person is comparatively simple to decide. You know the person's situation and needs. But I think people should be more conservative about how much they leave to younger heirs. Youth never respects unearned money as he does money earned through his own ability. There is a happy medium between self-denial for the benefit of heirs and leaving amounts that will give heirs something helpful and useful, but not excessive.

TO ANDY WILLIAMS' "BEAR"

Who are you? How did you get your start? Is the bear costume uncomfortable? Do you really like cookies?—J. Brown, Biloxi, Miss.

● Allan Blye, coproducer of the "Andy Williams Show," does the voice. I, Janos Prohaska, play the bear, and I will answer the rest of the questions. The reason two people do the bear is because I was born in Hungary, and we needed an American bear, not one with a Hungarian accent. I got my start as an acrobat in a Budapest circus. Since then, I have inhabited a long line of animals and weird characters in television and movies—among them, a rock monster in "Star Trek," a composite weirdo in "Lost in Space," a germ in "Outer Limits," and a white gorilla in "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea." The bear costume is enormously hot and uncomfortable. When I take off the hands and turn them upside down, water drops out. I lose five or six pounds in each show. But, yes, I love cookies!

FOR GORE VIDAL, author

I have heard that you are interested in a "Ralph Nader for President" campaign. Why do you think he has a chance?—Leo Lester, Chicago, Ill.

● Nader right now has the image of change. He has cold-blooded optimism about what is wrong with America and how to fix it.

FOR ROBERT ORBEN, comedy writer and author of "The Ad-Libber's Handbook"

I have always admired rapid-fire ad-libbers like Dick Cavett, Don Rickles and Jack E. Leonard. Is there any way a layman can develop this skill?—T. Dunn, Muncie, Ind.

● The spontaneous wit of the men you name is a God-given talent, but there is a method by which most people can become competent ad-libbers. Many comedians are helped by an encyclopedic joke memory. They have told, heard, read and absorbed thousands of stories, bits and one-liners, and these become a part of their unconscious, ready to be used at an appropriate time. In essence, they become comedy computers. You can do the same by reading a variety of jokebooks and humor columns such as "Quips & Quotes" in this magazine. When you read them, read them as you would a novel. Don't try to memorize them. Read them in short chunks, four times a day. Let the funnies become a permanent part of your memory bank. Then, when someone mentions a subject like Nixon's China trip, you'll be able to respond: "Chiang Kai-Shek must have all the security of a salesman whose new business cards are in crayon."

FOR CHET HUNTLEY

Now living in Montana, don't you miss the stimulating people you associated with in New York City?—Barbara Doll, Quincy, Mass.

● Certainly we've missed all the marvelous friends we had in New York. But we don't miss the pace and living conditions and the environment of New York. We have friends here from every conceivable group—live-stock growers, farmers, members of the legislature, professors, doctors, lawyers. Are these people sufficiently sophisticated for our taste? I would give you an emphatic yes. Communications are good enough in this country these days that there are no more so-called "Hicks" out here in the hills. As someone said not long ago, these barbed-wire fences carry more messages than Western Union.

FOR SEN. MARGARET CHASE SMITH

What advice would you give to a woman who is considering entering politics?—Mrs. T. F. Buxton, Appleton, Wis.

● My advice is for the woman to start at the precinct level and be willing to ring doorbells and do the "pick-and-shovel" work in order to learn from the ground floor up. My further advice is not to enter politics unless one is genuinely interested in and enjoys people.

FOR LUCILLE BALL, actress

You always seem so slim. What sort of diet do you follow? — Mrs. R. L. Downing, Utica, N.Y.

● I eat whatever I want for breakfast and generally skip the evening meal entirely. But I think the biggest aid to keeping my weight where I want it is that I never really "think" food. It doesn't interest me that much. This is a problem with a lot of people, especially housewives who have to prepare and seriously think food daily for their loved ones. But if you love your "loved ones," you will prepare attractive nutritious meals and cut way down on the amount served so that their tummies get down to size. This makes everything easier.

FOR JOHN HADL, Quarterback, San Diego Chargers

I thought that pro quarterbacks wore numbers under 20 on their jerseys. How did you get to wear No. 21?—Don Rains, Key West, Fla.

● I've worn No. 21 since the eighth grade. My idol at the University of Kansas, Charlie Hoag, wore that number, and I was lucky to get it when I went to Kansas. Nobody had No. 21 on the San Diego Chargers when they signed me in 1962. I asked for it and Coach Sid Gillman said I could have it. There was no firm rule about numbers conforming with positions in the American Football League at that time. There is now a rule in the NFL that stipulates that quarterbacks should wear only numbers from 1 to 19. But the rule is only for players entering the league. I've worn No. 21 for so long, even Deacon Jones couldn't tear it away from me.

FOR PAUL HARVEY, news commentator

How many people do you have working on your staff to get all the variety in little-known facts, news and oddities that you incorporate into your daily programs on radio and television? Also, do the couples you name as being married so many years send their own names into you, or how do you get them?—T. Ensworth, Corning, N.Y.

● I bang every word out of the typewriter myself. Relatives and good neighbors forward to me more than 25 names a day, on the average.

STAR PROFILE/By Peer J. Oppenheimer

TV's Lesley Warren: "I'm Going to Raise My Child Differently"

"I had some responsibilities at home, like cleaning up my room, but not enough," says the former "Mission: Impossible" girl. "Without restrictions or responsibilities, a child has no control—at least, no control over his emotions."

My first impression of Lesley Warren went straight to the heart of both her show-business success and problems: at 25 she looks 18. She has a beautifully proportioned figure, long auburn hair, brown eyes, freckles, a clean-scrubbed look—the personification of what was, 10 years ago, everybody's dream girl. Strange that such a girl was chosen to replace ultra-sophisticated Barbara Bain on "Mission: Impossible." Not so strange that it didn't work out. Said Lesley, who insisted she quit the show on her own, "The series is edited in such a way that the emphasis is on action, on quick cuts. It didn't give me a chance to show what I can do."

Lesley grew up a bundle of frustrations. "I've worked since I was very young, didn't have any social life until I was 17." Her mother was a night-club singer who gave up her career when Lesley was born. "She put all her energy into my younger brother Ricci and me. Too much of it. My emotional ties with my mother were incredible.

"I don't remember my mother ever pushing me, but I can't believe that a child of three instinctively wants to get out in front of an audience. Somehow the idea was put into my head. It's a shame, in a way, because it makes you so under-developed in other areas. Emotionally, I mean. You become a kind of compulsive performer."

Lesley's first Broadway play, "110 in the Shade," was the kind of hit that made her happy. But "A Sign of Affection," another play she was in, closed in Philadelphia before ever getting to New York. She recalled how after "A Sign of Affection" folded, she was emotionally drained. "It was horrible. I was only 18, and I couldn't cope with it. I had to go away for two weeks with my mother to a spa in New Jersey to recuperate."

All of her personal relationships, she said, were unresolved. "I was always looking for someone to guide me, instead of a give-and-take relationship. A lot of fellows asked me out for a date—just once—because I was never really interested in anyone—that is, until I met Jon (her husband Jon Peters, a bearded hair-stylist and boutique owner). Until then I was—well, neurotic."

When she was 16, and again four years later, she went to a psychiatrist who, she says, "really saved my life. Not that I was contemplating suicide, but I needed a friend, and he became one."

But it was Jon who proved the real turning point in her life. They met at the house of a mutual friend. According to Lesley, they didn't get along at all. "I was very shy and quiet and insecure. Jon was loud and boisterous. Totally foreign to my nature, as I was to his. Later he admitted that he thought I was boring.

They were married three years ago, and Jon promptly took over where mother left off. Totally and without hesitation. Especially Lesley's career. "He knows everything that goes on, and he's very bright about what is good for me. And usually he's right."

According to Lesley, Jon gets particularly angry when her approach is negative. "He's totally positive. And he just won't let me think anything but positive thoughts when I'm around him." How does Jon show his temper? Well, he yells a lot, she says, and "he's punched an awful lot of holes in doors. When we left a house we'd rented in Coldwater Canyon, every door had a hole in it."

In raising her son, two-year-old Christopher, Lesley wants to avoid the kind of upbringing that caused trouble to her. "I had some responsibilities at home, like cleaning up my room. But not enough. I think that is very important for a child. Without restrictions or responsibilities, a child has no control—at least, no control over his emotions.

"It's important to be consistently firm with a child. I am not all that strict with my son, but I am consistent and logical with him. Every set of rules has to be followed."

Lesley Warren has come a long way from the teen-ager who was type-cast as Cinderella in Rodgers and Hammerstein's TV special. "I am not trying to change my image," Lesley defiantly insists. "I am what I am. It doesn't matter much to me what the public thinks." ◆

"I was always looking for someone to guide me, instead of a give-and-take relationship. A lot of fellows asked me out for a date—but just once."

Imagin

A FLOWERING SHADE TREE
That Soars This Fast
IN JUST ONE YEAR!

SHIPPED IN PERFECT TIME FOR FALL PLANTING!

Grows so fast you'll begin to enjoy its shade giving branches just 90 days after you plant it. When did you ever see a flowering shade tree grow so high, so fast in so short a time. No wonder we call it the "One Year Miracle Tree".

- Arches out in a living masterpiece of beauty, IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR.
- Grows so fast you can take a yardstick and measure the difference in height from month to month.
- Yes, from the height of a child to the height of a man . . . in just months . . . zooms forth in breathtaking splendor in less time than you ever imagined possible.

Yes, the one single tree that recognized experts (both professional landscapers and Gov't. Plant Research Stations) agree delivers the miracle performance that you are about to read.

Presenting, the incredible Gleditsia — undoubtedly the most fantastic flowering shade tree ever introduced in America! — because, when did you ever see a super-growing tree that could do all this:

HEIGHT: This magnificent, super-growing species rockets forth higher and faster than most other trees do IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR! More shade! More height! More flowers! — all, in just one single year.

SPREAD: Not only does it surge skyward in a startling burst of beauty . . . BUT, it also arches out in a 'magazine-cover' display of showers of glorious flowers . . . each and every cluster looking as if it belonged in a florist's bouquet . . . flowering beauty that swirls breathtakingly high and wide IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

EASE: It is virtually immune to most every common tree-damaging disease . . . it requires practically no care at all. You simply plant and forget it . . . it's as simple as that!

Yes, it's the dream-tree come true . . . a "flowering umbrella" that hoists itself so high and so fast — its branches thrusting out in lovely flower laden limbs — with more grace than a cherry tree in blossom and so quickly — you can literally measure the difference in both height and spread from week to week . . . or take a yardstick and measure the miraculous difference from month to month!

A MASTERPIECE OF BEAUTY IN JUST A MATTER OF MONTHS!

Who says you have to spend a small fortune for a flowering shade tree?, — then spend half a lifetime waiting for it to grow?

That's the way it used to be with flowering shade trees, unless of course you are willing to plunk down anywhere from $200 to $400 for a really full-grown tree. BUT NOT ANY LONGER. Not since Gleditsia — Natures glorious masterpiece that has drawn such lavish praise from so many leading garden experts (see panel below) . . . yes, a super-growing, flowering shade tree that grows so fast, it —

GROWS MORE IN ONE MONTH THAN OTHER GARDEN TREES GROW IN AN ENTIRE YEAR — OR EVEN TWO OR THREE YEARS!

Just picture the miracle that takes place on your property when you beautify your home and grounds with the world's most beautiful flowering shade tree. You take any spot in your garden, on your front lawn, next to your patio or alongside your driveway . . . and in virtually no time at all see that barren, sun-beaten patch suddenly bathed in the cool shadows of this prize specimen — this super-growing, flowering shade tree. And when we say "SUPER" . . . We mean a tree that grows so fast, — and with flowers so profuse — that in just one single year it towers so high that never in your life did you imagine a tree that could Z-O-O-M to such breathtaking height in just a single year. Yes, it is the most exquisite sight you've ever set eyes on.

A LIVING UMBRELLA FROM SPRING TO FALL!

In fact, once you have this tree gracing your property . . . you'll almost start thinking it has a mind of its own. Because, during that time of year when the sun grows strongest . . . it unfurls itself into a "living shade umbrella" . . . as radiant shafts of sunlight peek through its foliage — for a soft, dappled effect.

GROWS IN VIRTUALLY ANY SOIL . . . REQUIRES NO SPECIAL CARE . . . IT IS ONE OF THE EASIEST OF ALL TREES YOU'LL EVER OWN!

Unlike most trees that demand sprays, insecticides and constant pampering . . . virtually the only thing you ever do when you plant Gleditsia is enjoy it. That is why leading Botanical gardens . . . landscape artists . . . and some of this country's most picturesque parkways and parks — why even city streets — are a living tribute to its indescribable beauty — its super-growing ability — its care-free maintenance. Is it any wonder that leading experts have hailed Gleditsia in the most glowing terms — recommend it again and again for home-owners who want a stunning display of both beauty and shade . . . in one single year . . . and with practically no more work than a few sprinkles a season.

ALL AMERICA: The Family Weekly 1971 Offensive Team

Who will be America's greatest collegiate football stars of the season that's about to begin?

Sports editors of the newspapers that bring you Family Weekly have voted the young men pictured here to stand out above all others—the 22 finest players at their respective positions, on both offense and defense.

Picking an All America team is a difficult task. So much depends on how well-known a player is—particularly outside of his conference. To pick a pre-season All America team is even more difficult, for it taxes the editor's knowledge of the game behind the headlines.

Anyway, here they are—our All America selections. Clip these pages and keep them handy. When the season winds to an end in late December, check our selections against their performances—and see how well the editors voted!

Sonny Sixkiller
WASHINGTON

THE BEST PASSER (BY SEPARATE BALLOT)

In separate balloting for best passer and best runner, the sensational quarterback of the University of Washington, Alex "Sonny" Sixkiller, outpitched all others to capture the honors in the Passing Parade. A full-blooded Cherokee who is as accurate with a football as his ancestors were with an arrow, Sixkiller averaged 18.6 completions per game in 1970 to run away with the NCAA title (against such competition as highly publicized Heisman Trophy winner Jim Pfunkett!). Only a junior this year, there's no telling what Sixkiller will do to the rest of the records, since he's only begun to fight.

PAT SULLIVAN
AUBURN
Quarterback

Named Player of the Year by the coaches in the Southeastern Conference last year, Auburn's Pat Sullivan gained that honor by virtually rewriting the NCAA record book. His 8.57 yards gained per play, one of . his record-breaking feats, led the nation, as did his performance in touchdown responsibility (26), passing completion percentage (.590) and total offense (285.6) yards per game. A man can't do much better!

ED MARINARO
CORNELL
Running Back

The pride of the Ivy League, Marinaro, a senior from New Jersey, is that jewel among players, a team man. He can run, block, fake, pass or receive. His one reputed weakness is said to be his lack of speed. "Yet when he's being chased," a rival coach growled, "you'll note he always makes the touchdown!" His own coach, Jack Musick, puts it differently: "He is that star among stars, the complete football player."

JIM BERTELSEN
TEXAS
Running Back

Although one of the best running backs in University of Texas history, Jim Bertelsen, according to Coach Darrell Royal, could easily play any of several positions. "He's an exceptional runner and blocker," Royal says, "a fine pass receiver, and has excellent football sense." As conservative off the field as he is aggressive on it," Bertelsen, say his admirers, could be All American in anything he wants—in college or out.

TOM GATEWOOD
NOTRE DAME
Receiver

Tom Gatewood's achievements need little repetition: One of top 12 in Heisman Trophy voting in 1970 . . . caught 79 passes for 1,166 yards last year . . . broke pass receiving records held by the great Jack Snow . . . tied record for most touchdown passes in one game (3) and in a career (16) . . . named to UPI, Football News and Kodak All Americas last year . . . second in nation in pass-receiving . . . excellent student . . . a real All America.

JIM POOLE
MISSISSIPPI
End

The son of former All Pro end Jim (Buster) Poole, Jim Junior already has eclipsed his famous father in nearly every phase of the game. A 228-lb. senior who stands 6'5", the younger Poole ranked second in scoring at Ole Miss last year, was an All-Conference UPI selection, and made the second team in the AP polls. Since his coach Billy Kinard rates him as "100-percent improved" this year, he is an odds-on All America.

JIM YANCEY
FLORIDA
End

James Mitchell (Monk) Yancey comes by his All America status naturally; his dad also was a star in the famed Florida "Golden Era" backfield of 1949-51, and his uncle is top Pro Golfer Bert Yancey. "Jim," says his coach Doug Dickey, "can do anything any other college tight end can do, and do it better and faster. He does the 40-yard dash in 4.8, which is exceptional for his size. He ranks at the top of the field nationally."

REGGIE McKENZIE
MICHIGAN
Guard

A Michigan native (Highland Park), Reggie McKenzie is a 21-year-old Education major who has been called "the perfect lineman" by his Big Ten rivals. He has the size (6-4, 232), speed (4.8 for the 40) and strength to be, as Wisconsin Head Coach John Jardine said, "the quickest and hardest-hitting lineman in the country." Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler says of him: "Probably the finest man at his position in the nation."

ROYCE SMITH GEORGIA
Guard

The Bulldogs' coach, Vince Dooley, sums it all up in the case of Royce Lionel Smith: "He has everything," Coach Dooley emphasized; "speed and great strength, determination and size. These are the things the pros look for, and I see him being a first-round draft choice." An All America pick as a sophomore, Smith has progressed from there to a position of having no further athletic worlds to conquer. He is a 6'3", 251 lb. senior.

JOHN HICKS
OHIO STATE
Tackle

The tremendously popular native of Cleveland, John Hicks, is a junior who started every single game at right tackle for the Buckeyes in 1970 and who hardly will be ousted from his job this year. A 248-lb. and 6'3" strong man, Hicks ran up a total of 277 minutes of playing time in his first year on the Varsity, figured prominently in the balloting for All America and Big Ten honors and figures to be a natural for the pros.

JOHN VELLA
SOUTHERN CAL
Tackle

Even though Coach John McKay calls John Vella "one of the best offensive tackles in the country," the big and handsome native of Ohio proved his all-around versatility in 1970 by switching to the defensive team at McKay's request, even though he'd been a star at offensive tackle in his sophomore year. Chosen for a spot on most pre-season All America teams, he has been called "USC's outstanding player of the year."

DAVE DALBY
UCLA
Center

Like another native of Whittier, Calif., Dave Dalby is looked on by his coach and his fans as "a take-charge guy and a recognized leader." With 315 minutes of playing time on offense last year, most of anyone in the offensive line, Dalby, according to Coach Pepper Rodgers, is extremely fast, with a sure punt snap, and an ability to protect the passer, as well as pick up the shooting linebacker. He's one of the best.

ALL AMERICA: The Family Weekly 1971 Defensive Team

You saw the All America selections for the Offensive Team on the previous page. Here are our picks for the defensive line-up.

The 22 players chosen for our final squads got plenty of close competition from a swarm of other players. Singled out for special Honorable Mention praise: Terry Beasley (Receiver), Auburn; Carlos Alvarez (Receiver), Florida; Jerry Sisemore (Tackle), Texas; John Hannah (Tackle), Alabama; Ronnie Estay (Tackle), LSU.

Then there are the hundreds of smaller colleges all around the country whose teams aren't seen on television and whose great players rarely appear on the sports pages. These are often the players who, as tomorrow's pros, turn out to have had the most potential of all. But, based on present knowledge, the 22 players on this page are the best in the country today.

Johnny Musso
ALABAMA

THE BEST RUNNER (BY SEPARATE BALLOT)

The winning nominee for best runner, Johnny Musso of Alabama, outscored every other backfield star in the voting in this all-important category on Offense. One sports authority says "Musso is the finest runner Alabama has had in years, maybe 79 years, which is all of it. He's just class, on the field or off." A second wrote: "He charges goal lines with the intent of a thirsty cattle herd approaching a waterhole and runs every play with the fervor of a man breaking out of a death cell." Musso's coach, Bear Bryant, is of the opinion that "Musso is a better all-around back than John David Crow was, and Crow won the Heisman Trophy.

BOBBY MAJORS TENNESSEE
Safety

"He could be All America at croquet, or anything else he went out for." So much for the coaches' opinion of Bobby Majors. As proof of his right to the honor in football, Majors led the nation in pass interceptions last year (10), grabbing one less than the NCAA record. He returned these thefts for a total of 177 yards and has been called one of the few safeties who is capable of completely dominating a game.

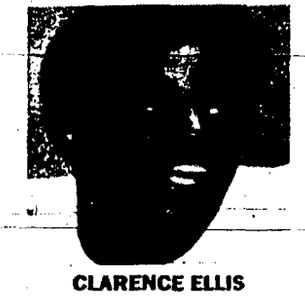

TOMMY CASANOVA
LSU
Back

According to his coaches, Tommy Casanova, because of his great speed and elusive moves, rightfully should be on Offense; but he sacrificed potential headlines for the good of the team—and he still managed to stand out as one of the most exciting runners in LSU history. A natural athlete, Casanova was an almost overwhelming choice in the balloting, the second year in a row he has won All America or Conference honors.

DICK HARRIS
SOUTH CAROLINA
Back

Teams having to play South Carolina this fall must pale when they read Dick Harris' 1970 achievements: Punt returned vs. N. Carolina—97 yds.; kickoff return vs. Georgia—96 yds.; interception return vs. Georgia—96 yds. The only back in the country with three touchdown runs of more than 95 yards, Harris is an All-America repeater whose list of NCAA records, set in 1970, may make him the most exciting player in the nation.

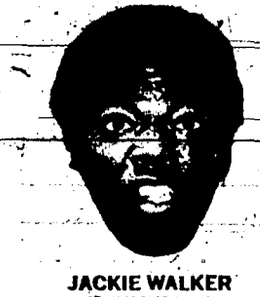

CLARENCE ELLIS
Back

"The Outstanding Defensive Back for two consecutive seasons at Notre Dame;" "Football News All America sophomore year;" "UPI All America junior year;" "Most Valuable Defensive Player, 1971 Cotton Bowl"—Ellis' long list of credentials make him virtually a shoo-in for everybody's Best Everything team this year. Texas Coach Darrell Royal said of this Grand Rapids, Mich., native: "Ellis is just tremendous, that's all."

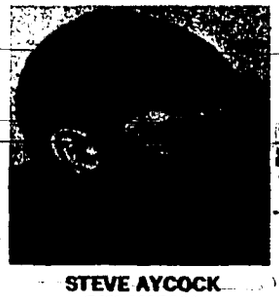

RALPH CINDRICH
PITTSBURGH
Linebacker

If Ralph Cindrich can stay healthy (he was injured on the first defensive play of the first game last year, after being named to any number of preseason All Everything teams), he is a cinch to repeat his Football News All America pick in his sophomore year, and to move up from the AP's All East squad to a national rating. A top student aiming at a law career, Cindrich also is Eastern Heavyweight Wrestling Champ.

JACKIE WALKER
TENNESSEE
Linebacker

Despite his selection as All America by the Football News in his sophomore year and a similar selection last year by both the Football News and NEA, the honor Jackie Walker cherishes most is having been elected captain of this season's Vols. For unless he breaks a leg, he can't help but be everybody's All America this year, and already has been tabbed by the experts as "The best linebacker in the SEC."

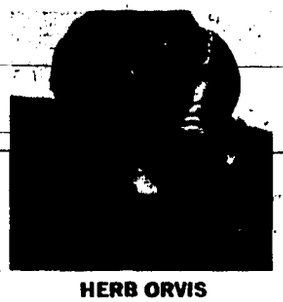

STEVE AYCOCK
OKLAHOMA
Middle Linebacker

This All-Big-Eight linebacker from Midland, Tex., who has his initials on everything he owns ("Keeps guys from taking my stuff."), is, in the eyes of his coach, Warren Harper: "A good leader who is quick, a thinker, and one of the most dependable folks on the squad. He always plays better in big games; he just gets a little excitable on Saturdays." Played every minute on defense in '70, earning the handle "Iron Mike."

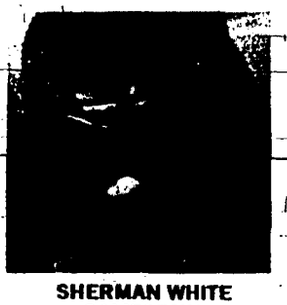

WALT PATULSKI
NOTRE DAME
End

On his way toward a post-graduate career in law, Patulski meanwhile is laying down a few laws of his own for Notre Dame opponents, mainly about trying to get past his side of the line. A Football News All America as a soph, was a UPI Honorable Mention last year and was named ND's Outstanding Defensive Lineman this year. He's a 21-year-old senior from Liverpool, N.Y., enrolled in the College of Arts & Letters at South Bend.

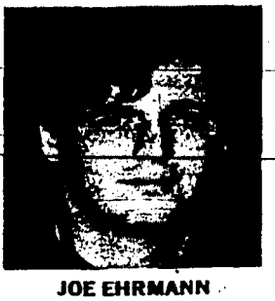

HERB ORVIS
COLORADO
End

Herb Orvis staked his personal claim to national recognition before a network TV audience last year, when Colorado ended Penn State's 31-win skein, with Orvis named National Lineman of the Week. He let everyone know that was just for openers by landing on a flock of All America selection lists. Oklahoma State Coach Floyd Gass says: "You may as well run at him; if you don't, he'll get mad and come over after you anyway."

SHERMAN WHITE
CALIFORNIA
Tackle

Sherman White is one of those guys who played no high-school football and really didn't get going till his Junior year in college. Since then he has come on so fast that Heisman Trophy Winner Jim Plunkett is said to have sighed with relief at joining the pros, if for no other reason than to get away from White. Big (6-5, 250), fast and alert, White was Honorable Mention for All America in '70, and a shoo-in now.

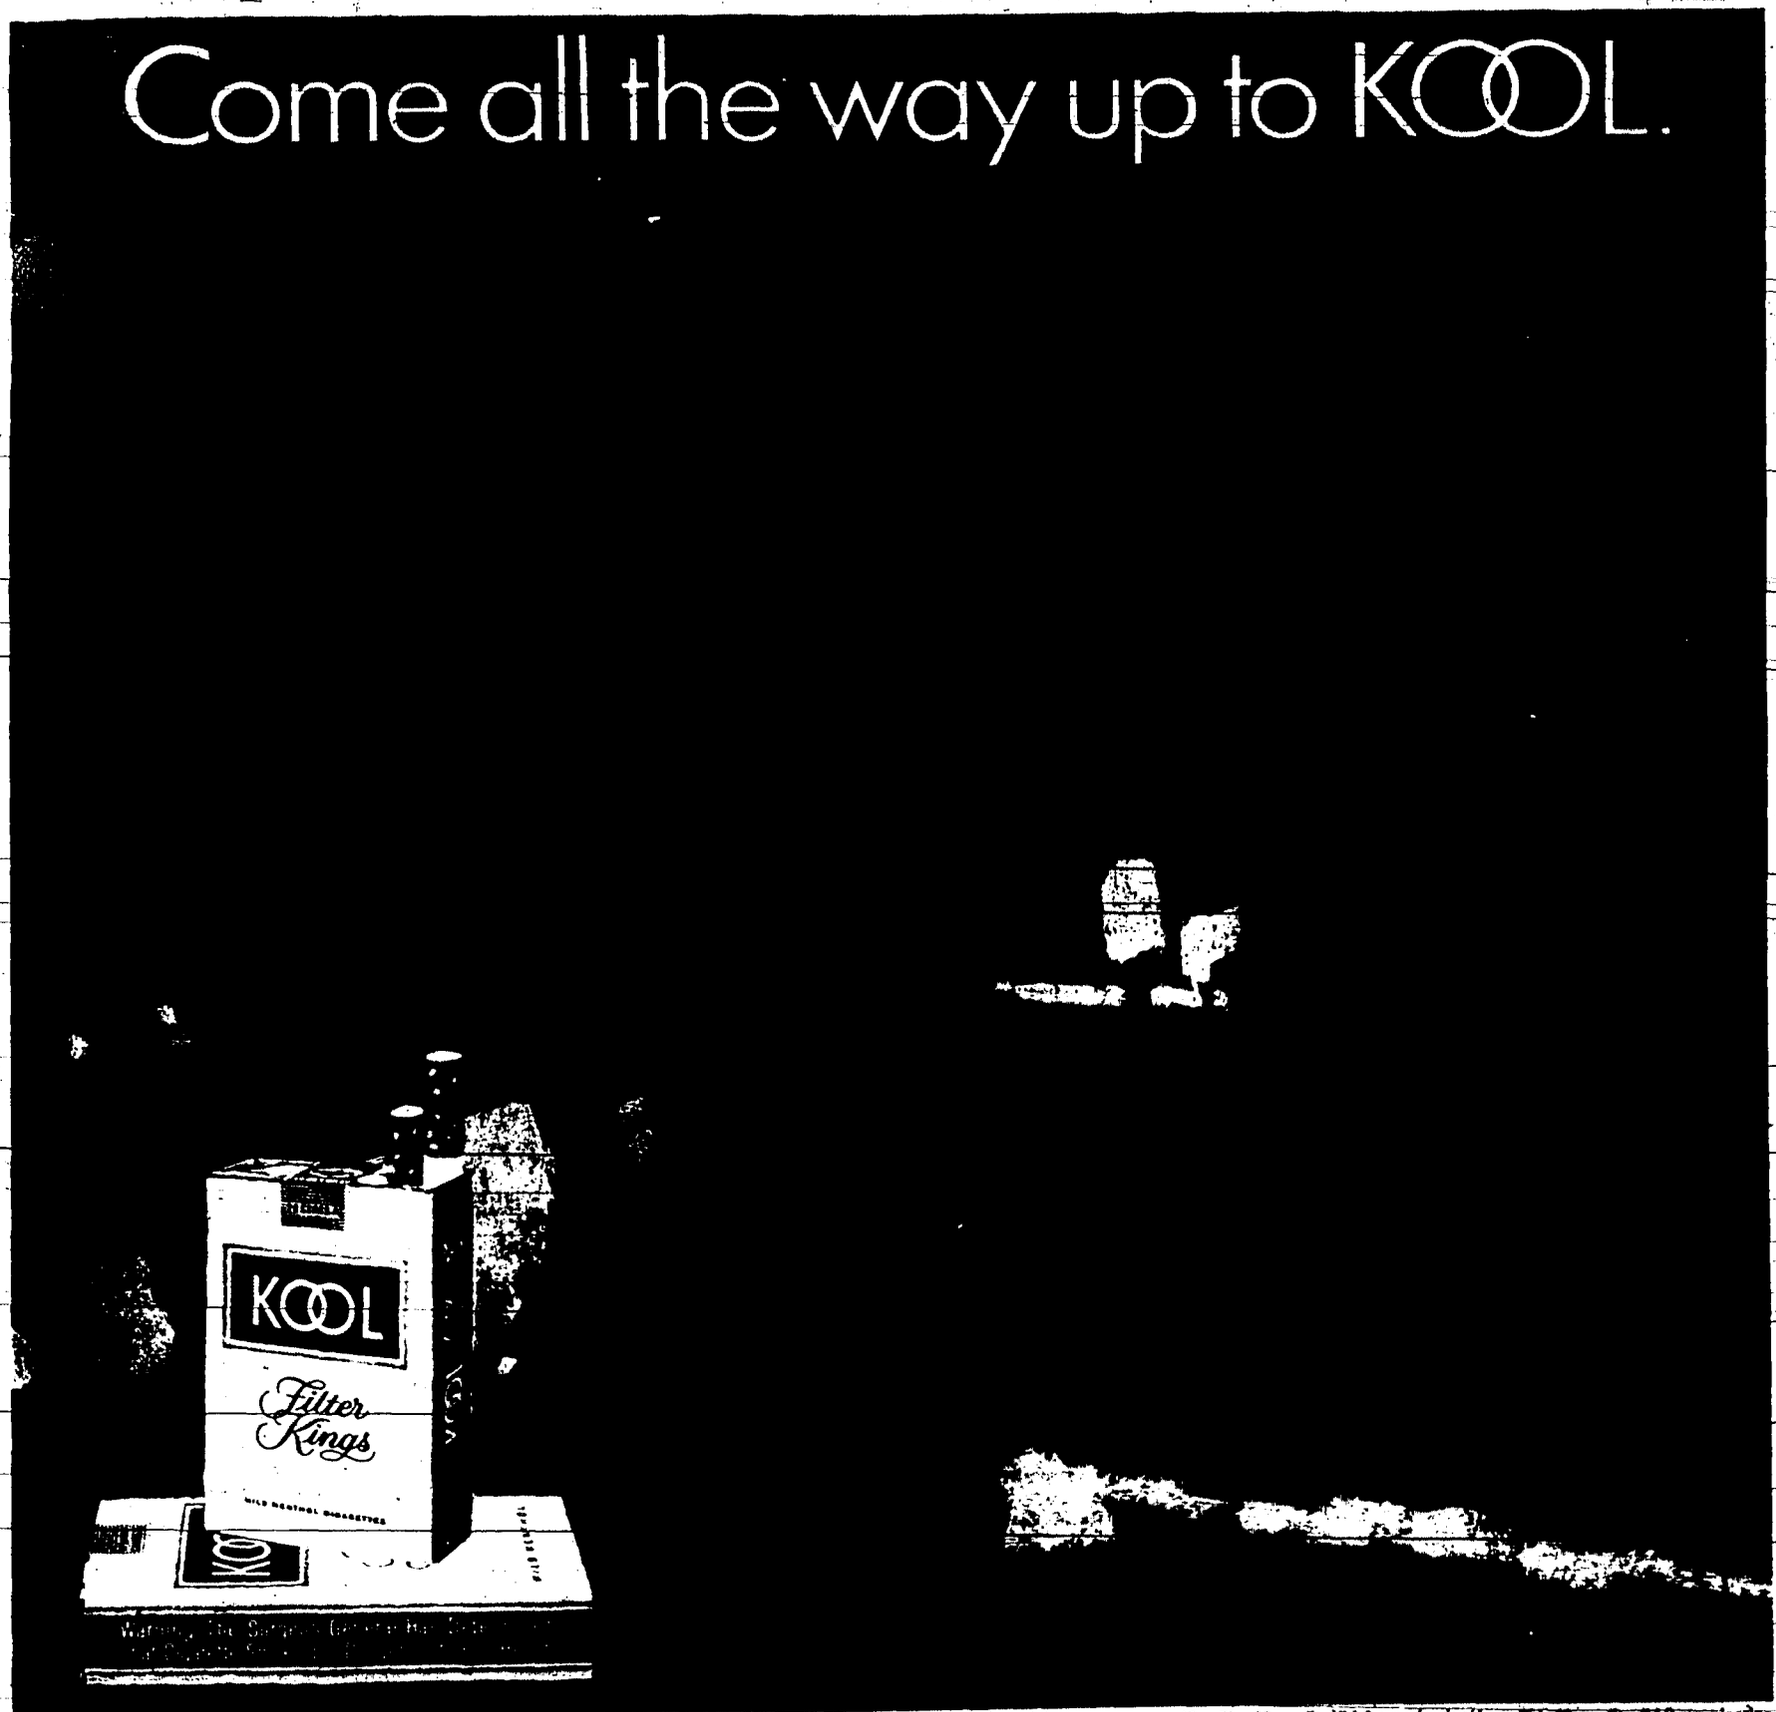

JOE EHRMANN
SYRACUSE
Tackle

A United Press International All America last year, Joe Ehrmann is known as the bane of quarterbacks. (He threw QBs for a total of minus 61 yards in 1970.) A starter throughout his college career, he has been called "the finest lineman ever to attend Syracuse," a spot where such people have never exactly been in short supply. A senior from Buffalo, Joe is aiming at a degree in liberal arts, and maybe a shot at the pros.

Strange Bloopers I Have Known

"The horrible thing about blips, bleeps and bloopers," says this veteran TV personality, "is that you can't take them back. You can explain, apologize, do it over, but your mistake hangs out there like a cloud."

Anyone can make a blooper . . . including, admits the author, himself.

It was a gala premiere. The announcer stepped to the microphone to launch a new network program sponsored by the Perfect Circle Piston Ring Company. The sweep hand on the studio clock stood straight up. The show was on!

"Ladies and gentlemen, it is my pleasure to welcome you this evening on behalf of the sponsor, the Cerfect Pickle... Pardon me... It is my pleasure to welcome you this evening on behalf of the sponsor, the Cerfect Perkle Riston... Pardon me!... Ladies and gentlemen, it is my pleasure to welcome you on behalf of the sponsor, the Cerfect Perkle Riston Ping Company... Aw, nuts!"

The horrible thing about blips, bleeps and bloopers on the air is that you can't take them back. You can explain, apologize, do it over, but your mistake hangs out there like a cloud.

I still feel a pang for the actor who was supposed to say he was going to "give the bell a pull" but wound up saying he was going to "give the bull a pill." And my heart goes out to the announcer who was doing a jewelry-store commercial and was extolling the merits of a diamond ring. With emphatic sincerity he assured listeners that the stone had "fifty-eight faucets." Then there was the sports announcer covering a golf tournament, who, as golfer John Pott got up to drive, whispered excitedly; "Johnny Tee is on the pot!"

If I can tell on my colleagues, I should tell on myself. Remember Dorothy Dix, that famous newspaper woman whose daily column on proper deportment was read from border to border? Breezing along doing a news broadcast, I intended to call her a "famous woman columnist." Instead I said she was a "famous woolen communist." I didn't realize I'd twisted my tongue until the switchboard lit up.

Almost all of us pull bloopers at one time or another. And they aren't the sole province of the boys and girls who make their living talking on the airwaves. I remember a Sunday night when I was flying out of Las Vegas. Sunday night on an airliner departing from Las Vegas seldom is exhilarating—it carries too many losers. This one ran to form. The stewardess made her speech in bright, uplifting tones intended to cheer. As she finished, she admonished, "Now if you will just fasten your SMOKING BELTS and observe the NO SEAT sign . . ." The result was electrifying. She snapped her passengers from sober mood to "what was that?" bewilderment, a positive improvement.

Bloopers sometimes take the form of acts instead of words. I'll always remember a potentially traumatic experience which occurred when, as a young newspaper reporter, I was sent to interview the noted author, Thomas Mann. He impressed me, Nobel prize winner for literature, exiled from Germany by Hitler, this obvious gentleman put himself out to be agreeable when I called on him in his elaborate suite in Kansas City's Muehlebach Hotel. His wife and daughter were with him, and so was the distinguished Alfred Knopf, looking just as I imagined a New York publisher should look. They were all exceptionally courteous. Along with their politeness and helpful manner, the Manns spoke with a marked accent, and I fancied a sort of continental air evolving. A certain atmosphere seemed to pervade the scene.

So, with the interview over, I figured to put on a little dash myself—just to show that out here in the Midwest we also had flair. Pocketing my notes, I rose, clicked my heels, bowed from the waist and turned to leave. But, you know, folks, you can't put a monocle on a yokel's eye. I made a mistake, threw open the wrong door—and walked straight into the bathroom!

Try This for a More Exciting Sunday Breakfast!

Sunday mornings are special. No rushing off to school or work. For many families, Sunday is a "breakfast feast" day. Here's a way to take those two old stand-bys—pancakes and sausages—and give them a special fillip.

Pancakes and sausage—with a difference! Serve with sliced pineapple (above) or nestled in Maple-Pecan Whip for pancake roll-ups.

SMOKED SAUSAGE WITH PANCAKE ROLL-UPS

Maple-Pecan Whip (see recipe)
2 pkgs. (12 oz. each) smoked sausage links (about 16 links)
1¾ cups pancake mix
1¾ cups milk
3 eggs
3 to 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1. Finely chop 4 sausage links and set aside. Brown remaining links following package directions.
2. Meanwhile, using a rotary beater, beat pancake mix with the remaining ingredients just until smooth. Mix in the chopped sausage.
3. For every pancake, pour ⅓ cup batter onto a hot griddle. Turn pancakes as soon as they become puffy and full of bubbles. Turn only once. Keep pancakes warm until ready to roll.
4. To serve, spread each pancake with Maple-Pecan Whip and roll around a hot sausage link; secure with a wooden pick. Serve immediately on heated individual plates.

About 12 pancake roll-ups

MAPLE-PECAN WHIP

1 env. (2 oz.) whipped topping mix
½ cup cold milk
½ teaspoon maple flavoring
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup chopped salted pecans

1. Combine topping mix, milk, and maple flavoring in a bowl; beat following package directions until peaks are formed.
2. Add the brown sugar gradually beating well. Refrigerate until ready to use. Fold in the nuts before serving.

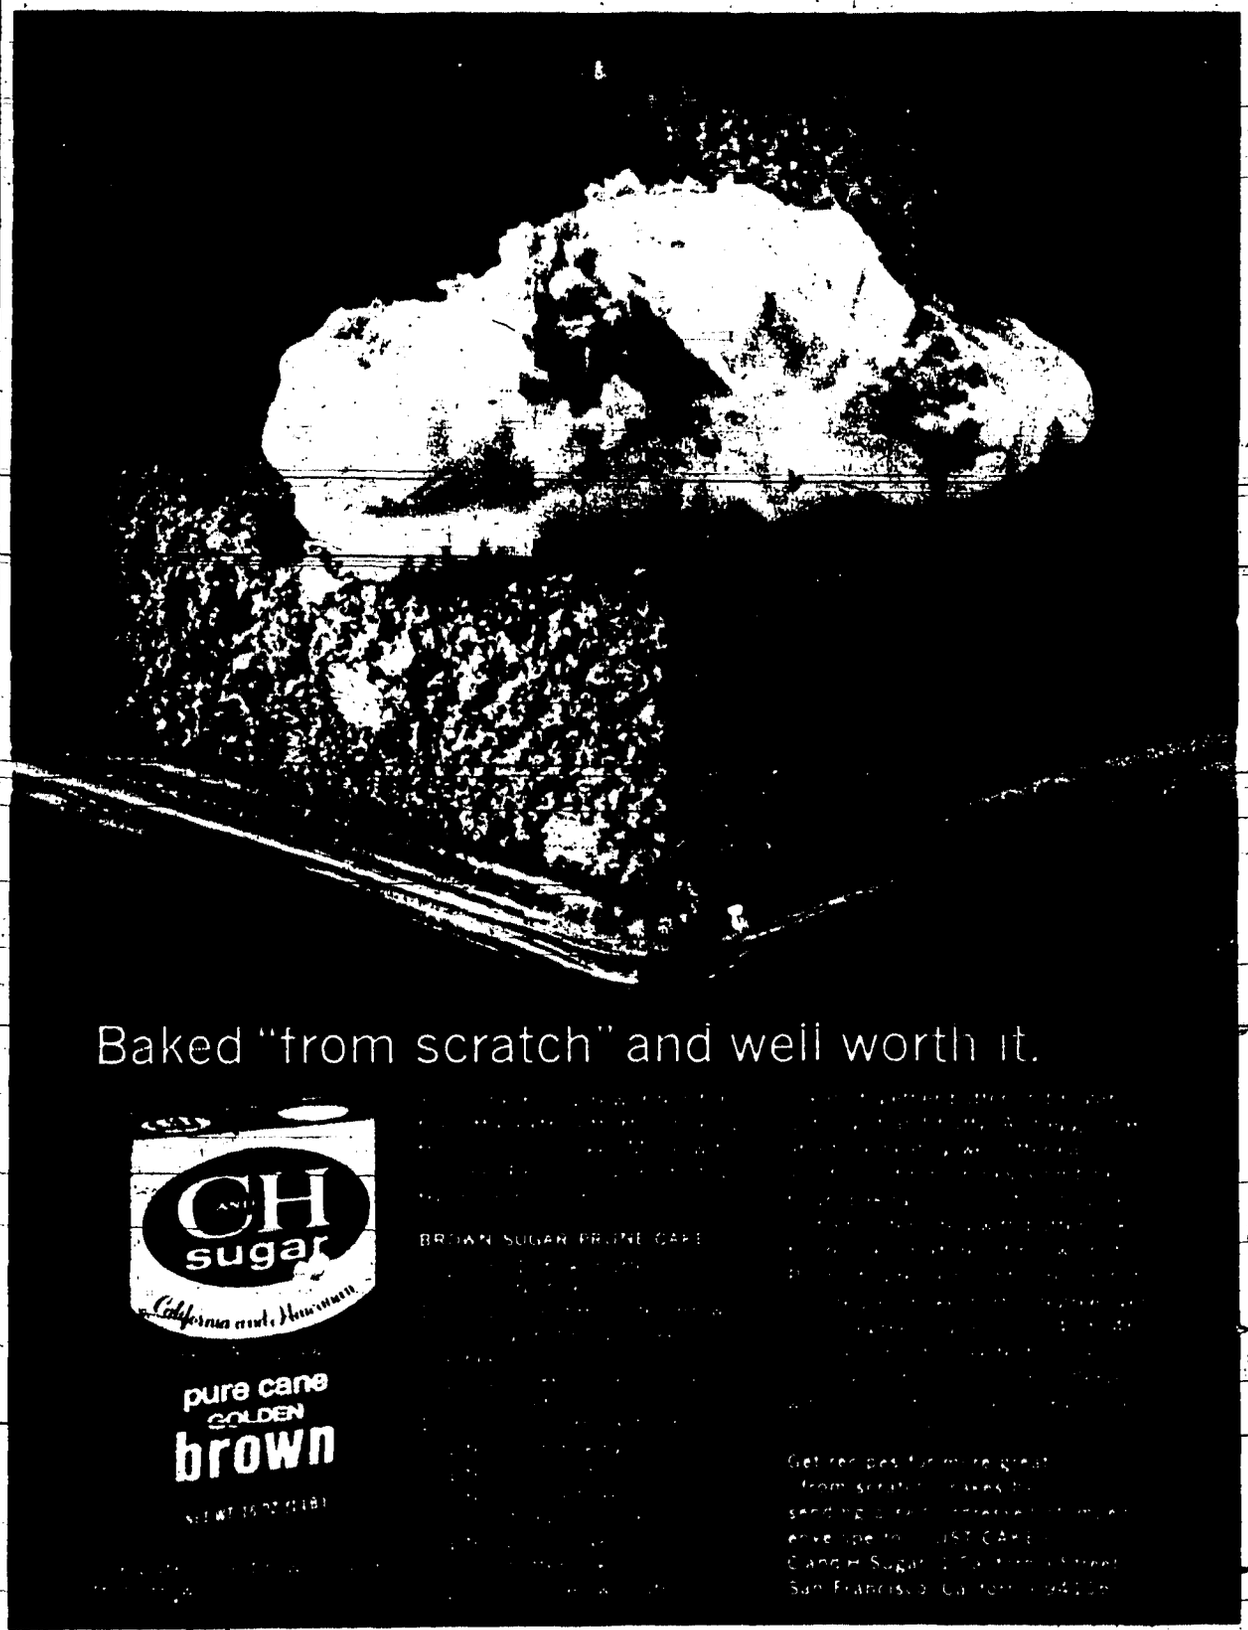

About 2½ cups whip

ROAST BEEF HASH IN TOMATO SHELLS

6 large tomatoes
Accent
1 can (15 oz.) roast beef hash
2 tablespoons bottled barbecue sauce
Snipped chives

1. Cut off tops of tomatoes and scoop out the centers. Sprinkle insides with Accent.
2. Turn roast beef hash into a bowl and mix in tomato pulp and barbecue sauce. Spoon into the tomatoes. Set in a shallow baking dish.
3. Bake at 350°F. about 25 min., or until thoroughly heated.
4. Top filled tomatoes with snipped chives and serve with a large platter of scrambled eggs and grilled bacon. Sprinkle eggs with snipped chives. 6 servings

I Hate Cats

The story of a very odd couple —one a confirmed dog lover, the other with a "meow"

"The crusher came . . . when he licked my chin with his sandpaper tongue."

All right, I'll say it again—I hate cats.

What I am is a dog-man, see? A firm believer that happiness is a warm puppy, a man's best friend is his dog and that Old Rover will still be at my side when everyone else has fled.

I've been a dog-man since they gave me a pedigreed Airedale pup when I was seven years old, and Rusty—what else do you call an Airedale?—used to sleep at the foot of my bed, follow me to school, greet me with joyous leaps and cartwheels when we'd been separated for more than 20 minutes, and chew on my Keds under the table till I passed him a scrap from my plate. Rusty was followed by Spike, Sam and Rusty Two, other Airedales, and by Chips, a gentle English bull. I loved them all.

Migo arrived after I'd been married a few years. Migo was neither Airedale nor English bull. Migo was a cat, a herringbone-gray creature, smug, aloof, evil and without a leap or cartwheel in his entire stupid body. He belonged to my wife, and he taught me to hate cats the day he arrived on our scene and sank his claws into my ankle as I walked into the kitchen and demanded to know "How did that get in here?"

From then on, Migo—short for amigo, a misnomer if I ever saw one!—and I were open antagonists. He seemed to know I hated his cat guts and that I lived only for the chance to sell him to some passing violin maker. He progressed from attacking my legs to doing what they call "sharpening his claws" on my backside. From there he went to spraying me when I was weeding the garden and had my back turned. He had an instinct for baseball which he exercised by practicing slides through the vital papers on my desk, and he destroyed 43 pages of a novel I'd started and which I will swear would have won a Pulitzer Prize. He sneered at me when I tried being friendly to him (don't ask why!), and he got on my lap exactly once in the first six months we had him—on the night I put on my lint-collecting dress blue Navy uniform in preparation for an Admiral's inspection. I drew 10 demerits for having cat hairs on my pants.

The crusher came early one morning when, having been awake with insomnia until sometime after 3, I finally fell asleep, only to have Migo wake me 10 minutes later by sitting on my chest and licking my chin with his sandpaper tongue (he'd decided he wanted someone to get up and play with him).

The showdown came at breakfast. "Today," I growled to my wife in my best man-of-the-house basso, "one of us has to go—Migo or me!" She weighed this proposition thoughtfully (I guess it was a tough decision) before agreeing that she'd get rid of Migo that very day. I went off to the office in self-righteous satisfaction; my home at last would be mine again.

But I couldn't seem to concentrate on my work. What did she mean she'd "get rid of" the little bum? Drown him? Turn him out the back door and point him toward the woods? Put him aboard some passing freight train? I called my home.

"Look," I said, "I didn't mean it had to be today. I mean . . . well, you know . . ."

That night I arrived home, and for the first time Migo forgot to bite me as I came in the door; had she said something to him, at long last? Later, when I'd settled down with the evening paper, I more or less sensed him coming over and squatting down at—or rather on—my feet. I couldn't see him through the newspaper, but I could hear him purring wheezily, and once, when I sneaked a look at him to be sure he wasn't eating my shoelaces, he beamed and blinked at me soulfully. He looked exactly like a riverboat gambler who has just found a new pigeon.

From then on, Migo and I more or less held each other at arm's length. I made it abundantly clear that he was there under a suspended sentence, entirely on his good behavior; and his attitude in turn seemed to be one of forgiveness, as if to say, "Aw, come off it, Doc—I was only kidding!"

Things went along like that for a couple of weeks, during which this grifter used every trick in his bag to con me into thinking he'd changed and was now a new cat. A master criminal, told he had one more chance to shape up or swing for it, couldn't have been oilier. He did everything but bring me my slippers when I came home nights, and he'd have done that if he hadn't already eaten them.

The pay-off came one day when he had to be taken to the vet's for some shots, and I was dragooned into going along to drive the car while my wife held the crumb on her lap and cooed to him that everything was going to be all right. It wasn't going to be all right, and Migo knew it, and his worst fears were realized when he was plopped on the vet's dispensary table, and looked wide-eyed over his shoulder as the guy came at him with the biggest hypodermic needle this side of a drug clinic.

Well, sir, he literally leaped, not into my wife's arms but into mine! At the same time, he looked at me with an expression of abject terror mixed with the conviction that I was his last true friend, and—jeepers, was I going to let that monster sink that needle into him?

So, all right—it was a big needle, and the Navy hadn't exactly taught me to love shots either. What else could I do but cuddle the little tramp, try to reassure him, and . . . well, maybe I did coo to him a bit.

Anyway, that did it. Migo was pretty much my cat from then on. He slept by my side, and I found myself smuggling him scraps from the table when the boss wasn't looking. He was usually on the lawn waiting for me when I came home nights, and, instead of biting me, he leaned all over me in his happiness at seeing me. If I left a room we were in together, he'd come out of a sound sleep to follow me, and if I went for a walk, he tagged along to protect me.

The old boy's gone now. We nursed him through worms, partial deafness, pneumonitis, and a couple of other cat ailments he picked up in his 15 years with us. During his lifetime, most of which he spent asleep in my bottom desk drawer, he learned to tell time, or at least enough to know when it was five o'clock and time to quit this typewriter, and when it was 11 p.m. and time for the news (which he announced with a head-shake that rang the bells on his collar).

He died a week after we'd left on a vacation. He seemed fine when we drove out of town, but the vet said he went into a decline soon afterward, a victim of old age—and maybe a touch of despair at seemingly having been abandoned by his lifelong friends.

My wife wept when she heard about Migo's death, and I had this funny lump in my throat, too, something I don't ever remember happening when my dogs died. And I find myself resenting this fact; how can a mangey old con-artist like that, a bum who never did a day's work in his life, an accomplished grifter, make me, a confirmed dog-man, feel so lost without him? I just wouldn't believe it possible.

I hate cats! ◆

• Years Of "Fat Research" Finally Pay Off! • Discovered In Our Largest City's Research Center • Successfully Tested and Proven In Thousands and Thousands of Clinical Cases

REDU-CAL™—SCIENCE'S INCREDIBLE "FURNACE-IN-A-TAB" THAT TRIGGERS THE SAFEST, FASTEST, MOST EFFECTIVE FAT-BURNER THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN!!!

• NO MORE DANGEROUS DRUGS!
• NO MORE GRUELLING EXERCISE!
• NO MORE REDUCING SALONS OR STEAM BATHS!
• NO MORE HIGH-PRICE VIBRATING MACHINES THAT MERELY JIGGLE THE FLAB AROUND!

NOW, S-L-A-S-T WEIGHT OFF FAST, WITH SAFE, NEW, MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGH . . . AS MUCH AS UP TO ONE POUND EVERY 8 HOURS!

LOSE up to 7 lbs. in just 48 HOURS! up to 16 lbs. in just 1 WEEK! up to 34 lbs. in just 1 MONTH! up to 79 lbs. in just 3 MONTHS!

YES, MELT AWAY, BURN AWAY, FLUSH AWAY AS MUCH AS 79 POUNDS OF FAT IN JUST 3 SHORT MONTHS!

Not a dangerous drug . . . Each "tab" sets the stage for a fat-burning chain-reaction FOR PERMANENT LIFETIME SLIMNESS!

So safe, a leading doctor not only recommends REDU-CAL to his wife and patients, BUT INSISTS that anyone with a weight problem can avail themselves of this FINAL VICTORY OVER FAT! . . . THAT OXIDIZES, VAPORIZES, TOTALLY ANNIHILATES EXCESS WEIGHT AS FAST AS UP TO ONE POUND EVERY 8 HOURS!

NOW! A LIFETIME OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT A MOMENT OF HUNGER!

First, I want to make one thing perfectly clear. No matter how many times you've been fooled by useless drugs, fad diets, or ridiculous exercises, etc., you simply must accept the fact that you cannot buy "slimness in a bottle". No one pill all by itself can ever "atomize" 30, 40, 60 pounds of excess fat overnight! BUT . . . there is a special new formulation . . . designed by a leading medical authority, that when used as directed, converts your entire digestive system into an incredibly potent "CALORIE NEUTRALIZING MACHINE" THAT S-L-A-S-T-S OFF AS MUCH AS 10 POUNDS OF FLAB IN JUST 7 DAYS!

In other words, you not only burn, disintegrate, evaporate pound after pound of fat right out of your body . . . you not only turn calories into energy instead of globs of ugly fat . . . BUT ACTUALLY MAKE LOSING WEIGHT one of the most thrilling and gratifying experiences of your entire life!

WHAT A DOCTOR DISCOVERED WHEN HE GOT SICK OF HEARING THE WORD "FAT"!

Let's face it . . . Doctors are no different than anyone else. They yield to temptation! They love eating good food . . . BUT—they don't enjoy being called fat. That's why when a leading medical authority finally got disgusted with overweight problems, he became determined to lick it ONCE AND FOR ALL . . . and without grueling diets, back-breaking exercises or dangerous drugs. Here are the shattering facts he came up with:

FACT 1: That no matter what you may have been led to believe in the past the only reason you gain weight is the inability of your body to neutralize, burn, oxidize the calories you eat AND CONVERT IT INTO ENERGY INSTEAD OF FAT! That's why so many thin people can seem to eat "till kingdom come" and never gain an ounce. Their bodies simply have TOTAL ENERGY CONVERSION. That's why, no matter how many different fad-diets, fad "wonder" drugs, or ridiculous reducing gadgets you may have used . . . NOTHING EVER WORKED!

FACT 2: Medical science through BIOLOGICAL AND BIO-CHEMICAL means can take any food, and most and actually NEUTRALIZE it . . . Yes, actually convert those calories into energy instead of bulging, ugly fat. And, of course, with absolute safety.

FACT 3: That when a COMBINATION OF NATURAL INGREDIENTS are released into the blood stream at precise times of the day (always after each meal) in concert with a calorie-neutralization regimen that has been proven over and over again on tough obesity cases under the auspices of over 3,000 physicians YOUR BODY SUDDENLY S-L-A-S-T-S AWAY INITIAL EXCESS FAT as fast as 1 pound every 8 hours . . . and without experiencing a moment of food-craving hunger.

So, instead of torturing yourself with hit-and-miss diets . . . that are doomed to eventual failure . . . instead of kidding yourself, or even worse, harming yourself with dangerous drugs . . . YOU SIMPLY TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS FINAL BREAKTHROUGH . . . THIS FINAL SOLUTION . . . AND BURN AWAY AS MUCH AS 79 POUNDS OF FAT IN JUST 3 SHORT MONTHS!

EACH AND EVERY "TAB"— A MINIATURE "CALORIE BURNING" FURNACE

Each "tab" is a compound of natural extracts that when taken orally trigger off a high powered charge of biological reactions. You get an INSTANT LIFT, your body chemistry starts working in REVERSE—FAT CALORIE BUILD-UP. You neutralize, destroy and obliterate unwanted, no-needed calories . . . AND EVEN MORE—YOUR APPETITE IS CONTROLLED!!! You don't feel like eating. And when used with our weight-slashing regimen (program directions) LEADS TO LIFETIME SLIMNESS. It's not only the safest, fastest, best way to a brand new body, but it is the surest way for a normally healthy person to achieve PERMANENT WEIGHT LOSS—WITHOUT THE AGONY OF TORTUROUS, NERVE-WRACKING DIETS.

Think of it! No more torture diets! No more drain on your system and strain on your nerves. No more inhuman demand on your willpower . . . no more constant calorie counting, and no more embarrassment when your friends feast and you can only fast. Or those nightmare weeks when your family eats and you "nibble". And that dreaded day of final frustration and failure when you eventually crack and the ugly pounds soon bulge again.

And now do you realize why here at last is the perfect reducer . . . the dream discovery you've long hoped for . . . the only true, safe, fast and effective reducer that trims down pounds and slims down the figure WITHOUT DANGEROUS DRUGS AND WITHOUT THE RIDICULOUS CHANGES OTHER METHODS REQUIRE IN YOUR DAILY LIFE.

WHY LIVE IN THE SHADOW OF SHAME WHEN MEDICAL SCIENCE NOW MAKES IT POSSIBLE TO ENJOY A LIFETIME OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT HUNGER!

REDU-CAL . . . SCIENCE'S "FURNACE-IN-A-TAB" . . . the secret to the most effective fat-burning weight-reducer the world has ever known!

IMAGINE A WORLD WHERE YOU ARE IMMUNE TO FAT!

Just think of what this can mean to you . . . Now the starches, carbohydrates and fat in the food you eat are super-energized, super-oxidized and super-neutralized. It means that mealtime, lunchtime, party-time are no longer moments of regrets, no longer the birthplace of new pockets of fat BECAUSE YOUR BODY IS NOW ARMED AND PROTECTED AGAINST FAT-PRODUCING CALORIES! And since this entire concept . . . this entire regimen . . . this entire breakthrough is based on the fact that NEVER AGAIN DO YOU HAVE TO COUNT CALORIES, FOLLOW INSANE DIETS, PUNISH YOURSELF WITH HARSH AND TIRING EXERCISES . . . there's no strain on your system, no drain on your health . . . no drastic changes in your everyday way of living (except of course the new wardrobe of clothes you'll be forced to buy because of your brand new figure).

UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED— TAKE ADVANTAGE OF "NO RISK" OFFER

So, if you are seriously determined to transform your body into a new SLIM-LINE YOU . . . if you've finally made up your mind that you'll never again be plagued with the problem of being overweight . . . if you want to see pounds and inches vanish from sight faster than you ever dreamed possible . . . AND VANISH FOREVER . . . in brief, if you want to lose as much as 7 pounds in just 48 hours, if you want to lose as much as 34 pounds in just 1 month, AND MORE . . . if you want to take advantage of this MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGH that makes LIFETIME SLIMNESS not a hope BUT A PROVEN REALITY then take advantage of the no-risk offer described below. RESULTS ARE UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED. YOU MUST LOSE WEIGHT FASTER, SAFER, EASIER THAN YOU EVER IMAGINED POSSIBLE . . . OR YOUR MONEY BACK. Certainly, nothing could be fairer. IS IT POSSIBLE?

An Automatic Income for Life of $20,000... $50,000... $100,000 a Year... Without Working... from a Business That Runs Itself!

"I'll show you dozens of plans you can start easily — without investing a cent!" says Ty Hicks.

Dear Friend:

Did you ever stop to think how great it would be to have an automatic income for the rest of your life — an income that goes on whether you work or not? An income of $200 . . . $400 . . . $800 . . . $1,000 a week or more, to do with as you please?

Believe it or not, there are actually scores of businesses that could be bringing you a fortune, without your lifting a finger! Easy, proven, money-making businesses that practically run themselves — to give you extra income without work! All you bring to them is a little ingenuity and the step-by-step methods outlined in this book!

Furthermore, you can get into many of these businesses, in your spare time — and build a fortune fast — starting with no money of your own! That's right! An automatic income, without investing a cent!

For Example —

- I'd like to tell you about a method a former blue-collar worker uses — requiring no equipment other than a pencil and paper, and no special skills. He helps other businesses get started. As part of his fee, he becomes a "silent partner" in each business. Today he has an income of more than $50,000 a year, from some 18 businesses. Yet he doesn't work even a minute a month at any of them!
- In another spectacular fortune-making method, all you do is make up company names, and sell them to companies that need names. Using this method, one fortune builder sold nearly $30,000 worth of corporate names in 6 months. And in the next six months, she sold $237,700 worth of names! All without investing a cent of her own!
- And I'd like to show you how another fortune builder acquired a business that practically runs itself — a parking lot — without spending a cent of his own, even though he was a bad credit risk. Today, he owns 14 parking lots. His net income from each lot is $15,000 per year, giving him a total net income of $210,000 per year!

I Want To Tell You All About These — And Many Other — "Automatic Income" Opportunities Entirely At My Risk! Like This:

Success can, and will be yours — if you use these suggestions and apply these techniques. I use them myself. My name is Ty Hicks. Today I have several automatic incomes going for me: "Automatic" because I spend less than TWO DAYS A WEEK, supervising these businesses — with ample time for things like travel, entertainment, hobbies!

Yet not one of these businesses cost me a cent to start!

You'll find the full details in a new book which I have written . . . an eye-opening, profit-laden book that shows you a dazzling array of powerful, proven, money-making opportunities . . . 90% of which require little or no cash, and even less effort! To get it — free for 10 full days, simply fill out and mail the enclosed post-free card, and you'll receive your copy of:

How To Borrow Your Way To A Great Fortune!

In this book you'll find scores of tried and proven ways to borrow money quickly, and use it to build a fortune . . .

Whether you're a man or woman, old, young, married, unmarried . . . Even if you haven't got a job . . . or are a member of a minority group . . . or have no permanent residence . . . these techniques will work for you!

You'll discover . . .

- How you can get up to $5,000 easily on your signature alone, even if you have been refused before!
- How you can get up to $5,000 for as little as $8 a month!
- How you can get as many as six signature loans, for $5,000 each — in ONE DAY — for a total of $30,000!
- How you can get a large sum of money — thousands of dollars — that does not have to be repaid, is interest-free, tax-free, and can be used for any business purpose, including your salary!
- Over 10,000 ready sources of cash for you (many by mail)!

I'll show you how to use a loan as your springboard to riches! For unlike a car or TV loan, which doesn't pay you anything back, except pleasure, a business loan will often pay you a PROFIT of $50, $100, $200 or more PER WEEK!

Put these wealth-studded tips to work and you can soon be richer than you ever thought possible.

Instant Money Can Be Yours!

Every year, thousands of beginning wealth builders hit the big money by using borrowed money. Many of these have no credit rating of any kind when they start. Yet they hit the big money! Let me show you how! I'll show you how you may get all the money you need in a few hours — maybe even a few minutes!

Fantastic Fortune-Making Bargains!

There are unbelievably powerful fortune-making bargains available to you today. Opportunities — open to everyone — that you can take advantage of, with little or no cash, that can stuff wads of profit dollars in your pocket, quickly and easily!

For example, you'll discover —

- How a $23,500 split-level home was purchased for only $180.22 — and sold for thousands of dollars profit!
- How a 27-room mansion on 13 waterfront acres was purchased for only $98.18!
- How a $12,000 farm-style home was purchased for $55!
- How you may "mortgage out"—a technique that gives you ownership of a property with no money down and with a cash payment to you!

Incredible as it seems, these opportunities are in your local area right now! You don't need any kind of "luck" to find them. I'll show you exactly how to find such fortune-making bargains right away, in the pages of my book. Just apply a little imagination to fit them into your own situation — and you're on your way to a fortune like these.

Shortcuts That Zoom Your Income!

You can, by using the methods in this book, make yourself a millionaire. Others have done exactly that. I've watched them. People like—

- Cliff R. using the secret just mentioned above, Cliff purchased and sold some 25 properties in a six-month period. His profit on these deals was $68,000!
- Sam T. used another one of the sources revealed in this book to get $400. He invested this money in valuable postage stamps, and sold them to fellow stamp club members. Within 3 years, he was worth $500,000!
- You'll see how Larry M. got the money he needed to buy $14,000 worth of paintings. In 2 years, he was offered almost FIVE TIMES as much for them. But Larry waited another year and sold them for more than SIX TIMES the purchase price: $100,000. This is a neat income — particularly when you remember that Larry didn't invest a dime of his own!
- Ben D., considered such a poor credit risk that six banks had refused him time after time, used a method revealed in this book to get a $50,000 five-year loan in less than 30 minutes! He used this money to buy a restaurant. Today, he has five booming restaurants, and more money than he can spend!
- Joel L. started with a gas station which he took over, using one of the many easy loans I tell you about. Once Joel had the gas station, he began to look around for other easy-money businesses. Soon he had a real estate office, a pet shop, a hardware store, a second gas station, and a laundry. His net income from these businesses was $75,000 the first year!
- Herb P. was a mailman for the Post Office, in a little town in the midwest. Using the method I tell you about — for obtaining large sums of money for as little as $8 a month — he obtained $40,000 without putting up a cent! He used this money to buy a $600,000 motel. Today he's on easy street. Yet it took him only a few weeks to hit it big!
- Chet T. couldn't stand the 9-to-5 routine of his job. He decided he had to make a pile of money as quickly as possible. Using one of the sources revealed in this book, he borrowed $2,000 and invested it in a motel business. In less than 2 months, he made a profit of $12,300 — OR OVER $200 PER DAY FOR DOING NOTHING, while he had other people's money invested!

Everywhere I go in this world I meet successful, wealthy people. Were you to travel with me you'd meet these rich people in the best hotels, the finest restaurants, exclusive clubs, and the biggest resorts. What's more, you'd learn a great secret from these wealth builders.

- Nearly every person who built great wealth for himself in recent years did so with little or no cash and wound up with a lot of money!

If you met these people, as I have, you'd soon be convinced that the best way to build a fortune today is by using OPM — other people's money. And you would be right. It is the most powerful, the greatest key to fast riches, starting with little or no cash, known in the world today!

Use A Loan As Your Springboard To Riches

Thousands of people have asked me: — How, and where, can I borrow the money I need to start, expand, or improve a business?

My new book, HOW TO BORROW YOUR WAY TO A GREAT FORTUNE, tells you! It probably gives more sources of loans than any other book ever published — small loans, big loans!

There are hundreds of profitable deals you can set up, using this ready cash! You'll learn about these in my book. I'll show you how to get into a business that's

- Simple to run!
- Gives an immediate income!
- Can grow quickly!

. . . and give you an automatic income for the rest of your life, perhaps! An income that goes on whether you work or not!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ty Hicks has built several fortunes for himself and others, using the methods he gives you in this book. Today he has several automatic incomes going for him. "Automatic" because he spends less than two days a week, supervising these businesses — with ample time for things like travel, entertainment, and hobbies!

More amazing still, he began his search for wealth with no contacts, no private fortune, his father having died when Mr. Hicks was only 14. Today he is personal advisor to many aspiring fortune builders. His activities include conferences on business planning, at $50 an hour.

During his career, Mr. Hicks has made money in hotels, apartment houses, rental real estate, boating, shipping, publishing, amusements, the stock market, printing, engineering, and theaters. He is at present the owner of several important service industries, as well as the author of three other best-selling books: How to Build a Second-Income Fortune in Your Spare Time, Smart-Money Shortcuts to Becoming Rich, and How to Start Your Own Business on a Shoestring and Make Up to $100,000 A Year.

DOOLEY GIRL BECKY LEE IN NEPAL
"I won't let Phi get you!"

Problem: How to cure people who think their sickness is caused by an evil demon—a demon that must be starved out or burned out. That is the case with many villagers in Laos and Nepal who believe that illness is caused by the evil spirit Phi. Parents would refuse to bring children to the nearby Tom Dooley Hospital until they had starved them half-dead with malnutrition; adults would treat their own stomach pains by applying burning bamboo sticks. "Then one enterprising Dooley Girl convinced her native patients of her own stronger magic," says pretty Becky Lee, one of 25 Eastern Airlines stewardesses who volunteered to serve in the Dooley clinics set up in Southeast Asia. What did the girl do? "She built a better hut for Phi outside the hospital compound, and everyone agreed an evil spirit would prefer to live there instead of inhabiting a sick peasant's body!" In short, the girl's plan worked.

COUNTRYSIDE IN GRAZ, AUSTRIA
The picture spoke louder than words

How's this for a warning sign? Every community has its problems with speeding cars. Several European communities have discovered that SLOW or DANGER signs, or even blinking red lights don't do much to slow the accident rate at unguarded railroad crossings. Since they added the missing ingredient, however—a skull and crossbones 300-feet ahead of the blinker—the safety record has become almost perfect. Now these tell-it-like-it-is warning signs are rapidly gaining popularity all over Europe. Would they be effective in your community? Would they be accepted?
